PRESIDENT MAPS DROUTH POLICY; TELLS IT TODAY

Seeks Way to Stop Soaring Prices.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt immersed himself today in a confusing welter of plans and counter plans as he sought to devise by tomorrow a comprehensive program covering these major problems of the drouth:

1. The protection of the consuming public from profiteering and skyrocketing prices due to the shortage of food.

2. The preservation of beef and other foodstuffs for distribution in the winter months of shortage.

3. Revision of the AAA crop reduction program, which has contributed in major degree to the threats of famine and to abnormal price rises.

4. The extension of the relief program to drouth stricken farmers.

This most vexatious problem of how to cope with the extraordinary emergencies of the nation's worst drouth vied today with one other vexatious problem—the fate of the NRA—for most of the President's attention. What will be done with the NRA next year was discussed by Mr. Roosevelt at the White House with Donald R. Richberg, executive director of the national emergency council and general counsel for NRA.

Will Talk on Drouth Today.

Mr. Roosevelt let it be known that tomorrow he will hold forth on the subject of the drouth at his regular press conference, advising newspaper men orally and informally on his observations and studies concerning the drouth and what his definite policy will be.

During the day he conferred with his No. 1 brain truster, Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture, who hastened from the conference to his office to set his underlings to work striving to formulate an outline of policy for the President.

For weeks the department of agriculture has been in a continuous haze of indecision on the drouth, with conflicting statements and policies being enunciated everywhere. There seemed to be no clear appreciation of what should be done to prevent gouging of food consumers, for the agricultural officials appeared to be so eager to preserve high prices for the farmers that they are unwilling to concede the gravity of the present plight of consumers.

Radical Measures Studied.

Now, according to reports current at the department today, the Wallace-Tugwell forces are contemplating radical and sweeping measures for controlling food prices, measures which are typical of the New Deal pattern.

These two major possibilities were foreseen:

1. Secretary Wallace may invoke the drastic licensing powers of the AAA to their fullest extent, bringing all processors and handlers of food under a federal license and forcing them to observe resale prices fixed by the government.

2. The government may embark on a gigantic food and feed buying program in comparison with which all similar activities undertaken hitherto would be dwarfed.

May Hesitate to Use All Power.

Although Mr. Wallace was represented as willing to exercise his licensing power to its widest extent he will hesitate to do so, it was said. He realizes that the licensing powers of the farm adjustment act might meet with serious challenge on legal grounds, if exercised to the ultimate, and he is loath to run the risk unless it proves necessary. Moreover, it was reported, he feels that such a course could be pursued only by complete public support—a factor of which even he is not at all certain at this time.

What alternative to price fixing under the license plan will be devised as the means of preventing inordinate price gains was a matter for speculation today. There appeared a possibility, however, that the government might attempt to control prices indirectly in conjunction with its food and feed buying program. Indications were that federal purchases of foodstuffs, such as canned meat, will greatly exceed the maximum amount which can be distributed currently to the idle. In this case, it was pointed out, the surplus supplies would be stored for distribution over a period of time, and the stored surpluses could be

KIDNAPERS ASK $150,000 FOR CANADA BREWER

Gangsters Threaten to Kill J. S. Labatt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 14.—A rendezvous tomorrow in or near Toronto was directed by the kidnapers of John S. Labatt, wealthy London brewer, in a note signed "Three Fingered Abe," which was left by the abductors today as they effected Canada's first major kidnaping.

Labatt, president of the Labatt Brewing company, a $5,000,000 concern, was seized while driving on the road between his summer home near Sarnia, Ont., and this city. The kidnapers in their note threatened to kill him unless $150,000 cash ransom was paid and warned against interference by the police, again on pain of death.

Brother Named Mediator.

Hugh Labatt, younger brother of John and vice president of the brewing company, was nominated by the kidnapers to be his brother's mediator. He left for Toronto late this afternoon, accompanied by Louis McCaughey, the company's sales manager.

On arrival in Toronto Labatt went to the office of Gen. D. C. Draper, city chief of police, where all possible assistance was offered.

It was learned that he took $150,000 with him on his swift drive from London to Toronto. He drew the money from a London bank.

Reports that Hugh Labatt had already contacted the agent of the kidnapers at the Royal York hotel in Toronto, were widely circulated among intimate friends of the Labatts, but met denial from the brewery company officials and relatives.

A tight lid of secrecy has been clamped down upon the case. The family of the victim and the police refuse to give out any information.

Kidnaping Bared by Phone Call.

From other sources, however, it was learned that the first word of the kidnaping came this morning in a telephone call to Hugh Labatt. He was not in at the time, but the person calling bluntly left the information that John Labatt had been kidnaped and that his car would be found beside St. Joseph's hospital. Hugh Labatt was notified and he and McCaughey rushed to the scene. There the car was found with a note under the seat exactly as the anonymous telephone call had said.

It was learned that Labatt had left his summer home alone for the 60 mile drive to his London office. The summer home, at Bright's grove, Sarnia beach, is ten miles northeast of Sarnia on Lake Huron in an isolated farming community. It is reached by a side road from Camlachie village.

One theory tonight was that within an hour after he started for London, Labatt was intercepted, taken from his car and dragged off by the kidnapers, perhaps to the American side. Many small water craft on the St. Clair river have been available in recent years for rum smugglers and others and the eyes of the police have turned to the Michigan side, especially as it is regarded as probable that Labatt is in the hands of major operators in the ransom business.

Bank Hold Up Near By.

Police do not accept the theory that Labatt could have been the victim of another gang, believed to have been American, that invaded Cargill village, fifty miles farther up the Lake Huron belt, before noon, robbed the Royal Bank of Canada of $3,000 and covered Manager L. Dreakes with the first machine gun ever seen in the hands of a criminal in Canada. Meno Zigler, town constable, fired three times at the fleeing car, bearing New York license plates.

Provincial police in charge of Sergt. William E. Scott and Inspector T. G. P. Lucas of London left for Sarnia to check reports that men had been seen loitering along the lonely lake front road not far from the Labatt house between 8 and 9 a. m.

They reported tonight that they had checked the Sarnia beach and Camlachie area almost house by house and had found no one who had seen anything amiss.

The beach district is filled with campers, loiterers, and transients, but no one stands out, the police said. No one saw anything happen along the roads, as far as the police know now.

Fear for Victim's Health.

Labatt, third generation of the family that founded the Labatt Breweries here in 1832, is a man of nearly 50,

FAIR CUTS ADMISSION FEE SATURDAY AFTER THE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Thousands who attend the Chicago Music Festival Saturday night at Soldiers' field will be permitted to visit A Century of Progress Exposition at the conclusion of the performance for an admission fee of 15 cents. This reduction in the 50 cent Fair admission price, the first in the two years the Exposition has been in operation, was announced yesterday by Col. F. C. Boggs, assistant general manager of the Fair.

The music festival will open at 7:30 p. m. and will be concluded at 10:30 p. m. Immediately after the end of the fireworks display admission at all gates of the Fair will be reduced and the low price will remain in effect until midnight. Before and after the reduced price period [10:30 p. m. until midnight] admissions will be the regular fee of 50 cents.

Fair officials estimate that 50,000 persons will avail themselves of the opportunity to visit the Exposition at the conclusion of the big music event.

For Saturday evening only, the 16th street gate will become a cash gate. All other gates also will operate for the reception of the visitors. By this courtesy it becomes possible to attend the festival and at the conclusion leave for refreshments in some of the many cafés or night clubs through the grounds. It was thought also that many persons will wish to visit the Fair during the day and leave to attend the music festival in the evening, knowing that they may return for the 15 cent admission.

NEEDS CASH FOR ART STUDY; FINDS A $1,000 PEARL

Harold Olson, 16 years old, St. Charles, wanted to attend art school in Chicago after he finishes high school, but didn't have the necessary money. The youth's problem was solved yesterday when he found a clam, in the Fox river near his home, that contained a pearl which was appraised at $1,000.

News of the find started a rush of treasure hunters for the river. Several years ago the river yielded a clam carrying a $5,000 pearl, but no gems of any value had been found there in recent years.

The Olson boy announced he would sell his pearl and use the money for his art education.

Basso Sings Low, So Judge Cuts Penalty

Municipal Judge Justin McCarthy was lenient yesterday when George Basso, an organizer for the Chicago Flat Janitors' union, appeared before him in the Trafic court and through an attorney pleaded repentance. The judge imposed a minimum fine of $1 on each of twelve charges of parking law violation that were revived after Police Commissioner Allman intercepted an attempt by Basso to "fix" the cases.

Attorney Joseph A. Ricker, Basso's lawyer, arose to address the court when the cases were called. Meanwhile, Basso, wih a straw hat in one hand and a handkerchief in the other, concealed his face from witnesses and from news cameras.

Just a Shy Penitent.

"My client is just a shy boy," said Ricker in explanation of Basso's posture. "He is pleading guilty and promising never to park his car in the forbidden area again. He's now paying a garage 50 cents a day to store his automobile."

"He's sorry for what he has done?" asked the judge.

"Yes, your honor," the lawyer replied.

Judge McCarthy thereupon launched into an address to the crowded courtroom. He spoke of the "I Will" spirit of Chicago. He praised Mayor Kelly's campaign for accident prevention and pointed out the importance of public coöperation in the success of this campaign.

Then he fined Basso a total of $12, remitting the court costs in each of the 12 cases.

Court Costs Considered.

The usual penalty in a parking case where the defendant has not been previously arrested and where there are no aggravating circumstances has been $1 fine and $1 costs. The costs contribute to the operation of the courts.

The labor organizer had made a practice of parking his expensive sedan in front of his office at 180 North Wells street, a no-parking zone. Mounted Policeman John Connors left summonses on the car regularly, but the cases never came up in court.

On Aug. 1 Police Commissioner Allman received an envelope full of the Basso parking tickets. The envelope was addressed to Willis Grecco, 3557 Lexington street, clerk in the Trafic court, but was sent to Allman by the postoffice after it had been torn.

The police commissioner ordered Basso's arrest. Joseph Gill, clerk of the Municipal court, suspended Grecco, who is a Democratic precinct captain, and then, after an investigation, discharged him from his court post.

VICTIM OF RARE MALADY TALKS FOR FULL WEEK

Mount Gilead, O., Aug. 14.—(AP)—"Talking sickness" has stricken Donald Campbell, 32, of Columbus, O., who, his physician said, has talked incessantly for a week, with the exception of six hours when under the influence of a hypodermic injection.

The effect of the disease, a form of encephalitis, D. C. S. Jackson said, is much the same as sleeping sickness, except that the afflicted person talks continuously instead of sinking into deep sleep. The ailment, though rare, has been reported in several places throughout the country in the past, the physician said.

A head injury a year ago, when Campbell fell from a truck, is looked upon as the probable cause of the attack. Two weeks ago he complained he felt ill and shortly afterward his wife noticed his speech becoming incoherent. An effort will be made to remove Campbell to a sanitarium for special treatment and for X-ray examination of his brain.

REPORTS GUEST LOST OFF YACHT 7 MILES IN LAKE

Alfred Sirois, owner of the yacht Scarab, reported to Capt. John Anderson of the coast guard last night that a passenger aboard his craft, Hugh Fehermann, said to be an official of the F. W. Woolworth company, had fallen overboard seven miles east of the Chicago light. The body was not recovered, Sirois said.

Full details of the tragedy could not be learned. Sirois could not be reached in his home at 6531 South Maplewood avenue. His wife said, however, that Sirois customarily took out business parties on his boat. He had not returned to his home from yesterday's cruise up to an early hour this morning.

A similar mishap cost the life of a passenger on the boat on Sept. 13, 1932. Frank Moats, 30 years old, 6400 Normal boulevard, was drowned when a rowboat in which he and two others were going ashore at the Monroe street harbor overturned in a gust of wind.

Mellon Pays $1,500,000 to Soviets for Painting

PARIS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the United States treasury, has purchased for $1,500,000 Raphael's painting, "Alba Madonna," said a dispatch from Riga reaching Paris tonight. The report said Mellon, who recently arrived in Europe on a visit, bought the painting from the soviet government. It had hung in the Hermitage museum at Leningrad.

Injured Union Pickets Seized After Blast

A dynamite bomb was exploded at the Edgewater Beach hotel last night, where a strike of employés has been in progress several months. Three persons were injured by the blast, two of them union pickets. The blast aroused the 1,500 residents of the hotel and members of the exclusive Saddle and Cycle club, the grounds of which are adjacent to the south on Sheridan road, between Berwyn avenue and Foster street.

The blast occurred at 10:20 o'clock in an unused doorway of a small printing shop on the ground floor, fifty feet from Sheridan road, on the south side of the hotel. Residents of the Edgewater and Lake View residential sections, where the explosion was heard over a wide area, quickly gathered and swelled the throng of curious to more than 5,000. Trafic was tied up for several blocks along Sheridan road.

Injured Pickets Arrested.

An investigation was launched immediately by Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's police, who ordered the two injured pickets taken in custody to the Bridewell hospital. He said he would confer this morning with Police Commissioner James P. Allman on a plan "to fight labor terrorists."

Windows were shattered for three floors above the printing shop. Many frightened guests rushed to the street, as the force of the explosion shook the hotel. Others flooded the hotel switchboard with requests for information. Many dancers on the hotel beach walk hurried through the hotel lobby to inquire about the explosion.

Shortly after the blast William M. Dewey, managing director of the hotel, arrived and estimated the damage at between $1,500 and $2,000. He blamed union officials for the outrage.

Bomb Set in Doorway.

According to Supervising Captain Thomas Condon, who aided Capt. Gilbert in his investigation, the bomb, apparently of dynamite, was either placed or thrown into a corner of an unused doorway of the hotel printing shop. The shop is separated from the front of the hotel by a grill and a kitchen. The door was shattered and two plate glass windows in the printing room were blown in by the force of the explosion, which also smashed the windows of four automobiles parked at the curb near by.

The two injured pickets are Albert Topps, 29 years old, 2029 Greenwood avenue, and Jack O'Connell, 32 years old, 5637 South Campbell avenue. They had been patroling the hotel, bearing placards "This hotel is unfair to organized labor." They were members of the Electrical Workers' union, local No. 134, who called a strike against the hotel last January in a wage dispute. Both told Capt. Gilbert they were at the south corner of the hotel when the explosion hurled them to the pavement. They were taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital before being transferred to the Bridewell.

Student Also Injured.

Sigmund Schy, 3610 West 26th street, a student at the University of Illinois, the third person injured, said he was just stepping out of his car near the print shop when the blast hurled him back against the automobile. He was only slightly injured. Schy and two

JURY ACQUITS EX-INSULL AID OF STOCK THEFT

'Happy to Hear It,' Says Samuel Sr.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Marshall E. Sampsell, former Insull utility executive, was acquitted last night by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg on a charge of embezzling stock from the Central Illinois Public Service company, of which he was president. The state charged Sampsell with taking 4,000 shares of stock from the treasury of the company and using it as collateral for personal loans.

The jury reached its verdict after four and one half hours of deliberation, during which it took six ballots. On the first ballot the jurors stood 7 to 5 for acquittal of the 60 year old Sampsell, who said on the witness stand that he is now without funds as a result of the Insull debacle. On the second and third ballots the jury still stood 7 to 5. On the next two ballots the vote shifted to 8 to 4. The sixth ballot showed a unanimous agreement on acquittal.

First Trial After Insull Debacle.

Sampsell was the first Insull official to be tried on a criminal charge growing out of the utility empire's crash, and the case has been watched with interest by lawyers. Some of them consider that it presages the defense to be offered by Samuel Insull and his brother, Martin, when they go to trial on state embezzlement charges. They are charged in the state courts with the same kind of crime that Sampsell was—using company securities to cover personal obligations.

Samuel Insull, who faces trial on federal indictments in addition to the state charges, was informed of the Sampsell verdict in his apartment at the Seneca hotel, 200 East Chestnut street, where he is living with his wife and son, Samuel Jr.

"Naturally I am very happy to hear it," he said, but he declined to add anything to that.

Acquittal Verdict Indicated.

The acquittal of Sampsell was forecast by a request from the jury about thirty minutes before the verdict was reached. The jurors asked for a defense exhibit which indicated that the directors of the Central Illinois company had authorized Sampsell to take the stock. The exhibit was a copy of a resolution of authorization adopted by the directors.

This resolution was adopted some time after Sampsell had resigned as president and the company had repurchased 2,000 of the 4,000 shares of stock from four Springfield [Ill.] banks, where he had pledged them for a $100,000 loan. The other 2,000 shares were pledged at the Continental Illinois bank in Chicago and are still held by the bank.

Defense Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Charles Lounsbury fought to have the exhibit sent to the jury room as requested. The prosecution objected, but Judge Feinberg ruled that, inasmuch as the exhibit was in evidence, the jury was entitled to receive it.

The exhibit indicated that the company directors had informally discussed letting Sampsell have the stock before he got it, but had not taken formal action.

Sampsell Takes It Calmly.

Sampsell seemed prepared for the acquittal verdict. He was not the least bit excited as he sat in the defendant's chair waiting for the jury to enter the courtroom from its deliberating chamber.

After the verdict was read Sampsell arose with his lawyers to thank the jury. He then received congratulations from his son, Marshall G. Sampsell, an attorney who helped in the defense, and from a group of La Salle street friends who waited for the verdict.

Although Sampsell displayed no particular excitement, his elation was reflected in a statement he gave out a few minutes later. It said: "I am certainly grateful for my acquittal on a charge of which I never believed myself to be guilty. I appreciate my friends' confidence in my integrity. I especially appreciate the fair treatment of the press from start to finish of my trial."

Jurors Discuss Verdict.

The jurors, who were not backward in discussing their deliberations, admitted that the only real point at issue among them was whether the directors of the Central Illinois company authorized a loan of the stock to Sampsell. They said the exhibit which was finally sent in to them won over those jurors who had been voting for a guilty verdict.

"Another question discussed was whether there was an intention of fraud," said Herbert Wedel, 5959 South Damen avenue, foreman of the jury. "We finally agreed that Sampsell took the stock with good intentions; that is, to protect the stockholders."

Sampsell had testified that the transactions in question—which took place in February, 1932—were an effort to keep the Middle West Utilities company, Insull holding concern, out of receivership and thus safeguard the prices of all Insull stocks.

If he had not provided collateral and the banks had sold him out, he said, it would have resulted in a deluge of other sales and further depressed the market.

"There were some of us who felt that the state had no prosecuting witness," said Edward Hayman, 6811 Lakewood avenue, another juror. "We felt that when the company bought back the 2,000 shares from the Springfield banks for $102,000, when they could have been bought on the open market for $56,000, it released Sampsell from the obligation of the loan notes."

2,000 Shares Repurchased.

The 2,000 shares were repurchased by the Central Illinois company from the banks at the direction of the receiver for the Middle West Utilities company. It was then that the Central Illinois directors gave official sanction to Sampsell's taking of the stock. The reason for the repurchase order was not brought out at the trial.

Gordon de Camp, 8148 South Elizabeth street, another juror, said it was his belief that Sampsell was no more involved than Martin Insull. Sampsell on the witness stand said that he had given the $100,000 from his Springfield loan to Martin Insull so that Insull could satisfy the demands of the Chase National bank of New York. Insull had previously helped Sampsell supply collateral for one of Sampsell's bank loans, according to the testimony.

Under the terms of his extradition from Canada, Martin Insull could not be brought into court in the Sampsell case. The extradition order provided that Insull could be tried only on the charges on which he was extradited—embezzlement of stock from the Middle West Utilities company.

Points to Officials' Testimony.

Juror de Camp declared also that Sampsell could have had no intention of stealing the stock because LeRoy Clark, secretary of the company, J. Paul Clayton, vice president, and Miss Starr Taber, Sampsell's personal secretary, all testified that they knew Sampsell had taken the stock.

The jurors as a group said they did not associate the Sampsell trial with the Insull case. They considered it as a separate case, they said.

The state had no direct prosecuting witness in the trial, as Juror Hayman remarked, but carried on the prosecution in the name of the "people of the state of Illinois."

The reason for this, said Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hora, was that the Springfield banks lost nothing in the transaction but gained through the repurchase of the stock and therefore would have had no interest in a prosecution.

The pivotal point in the trial was the question of intent. The state charged Sampsell took the stock with felonious and fraudulent intent. The defendant contended that he had no such intent and took the stock only in a last desperate effort to support the market for Insull securities.

Closing Arguments to Jury.

The jurors retired to their deliberations at 4:33 p. m. and were ready with their verdict at 9:05. Before their consideration of the case began they had heard the closing arguments of both prosecution and defense counsel and the instructions of Judge Feinberg.

The arguments to the jury were started by Assistant State's Attorney Alexander Napoli. His talk was a brief and simple outline of the evidence.

Attorney Lounsbury was the first to plead for the defense. He begged the jury not to let Sampsell be sacrificed as a sop to the public indignation over the depression and financial failures growing out of it. He pictured the defendant as a financial genius fighting with his back to the wall to save his stockholders.

"This defendant made no effort to conceal this transaction," said Mr. Lounsbury. "When a man starts out to embezzle he tries to hide his acts. He covers them up on the books or he flees the jurisdiction of the court. Mr. Sampsell did none of these things. Remember, gentlemen, intent is the controling factor in this kind of crime. This man gave receipts for the stock. He did everything openly.

Lounsbury Cites Evidence.

"The evidence in this case shows that the very thing happened which this man tells you from the witness stand he was trying to avoid."

"When the receivership of the parent company, the Middle West Utilities company, occurred, the stocks dropped to one-fourth their value. I ask you: Was this man fighting for something for his stockholders?"

Lounsbury then pointed to Sampsell's testimony that in those frantic days he had pledged everything, even his life insurance, in an effort to save his company from receivership. The attorney said his client was ruined financially and in health as a result of going "through hell fire."

"Because this defendant committed one act of poor judgment, if it was such, in his 25 years, should he be condemned as a criminal?" Lounsbury went on. "If he had been right in his judgment and had saved the company through his acts, his stockholders would have been saying, 'Thank God for the courage of Sampsell.'

"If he had been a coward he could have sold his stockholders out and had $500,000 for himself. Do not brand this man a felon because of a mistake in judgment."

Attorney Ditchburne followed Lounsbury. He told the jurors that Sampsell did not want them to gather from his testimony that he was trying to pass the buck to Martin Insull or any one else. Sampsell could stand on his own feet, Ditchburne said.

Assistant State's Attorney O'Hora in his argument characterized the defendant as a "pirate of industry." He asked that Sampsell be convicted and sent to the penitentiary for 1 to 10 years, the statutory penalty for embezzlement.

"You men have been privileged to sit in a case which involves an incident of those frenzied financial days when certain captains of industry ran up the black flag and became pirates of finance," Mr. O'Hora began.

Defense Lawyers Protest.

Defense Attorneys Lounsbury and Ditchburne leaped to their feet with protests. Judge Feinberg listened, but ruled that it was up to the jury to decide whether Mr. O'Hora was drawing a fair inference from the evidence.

"The depression didn't wreck Sampsell," continued O'Hora. "It showed him up for what he is.

"We have the same situation here as in the case of a bank clerk who dips in the till and takes $100 and goes to the race track. If he is lucky and returns the money he does not get caught, but just the same he is as guilty of having committed a crime as if he had been unlucky at the track and could not return the money.

"Sampsell had many character witnesses. Good reputation is a wonderful thing. He had presidents of many corporations come here to testify for him. If the presidents of the same corporations found that one of their employés or officers had taken $300,000 worth of stock (approximately the market value of the stock taken by Sampsell at that time), or even $100, from the company treasury, they would be in this court demanding prosecution.

"Sampsell, in the eyes of the law, is no different—just because he was president of his corporation—from any other officer or employé. Sampsell cast aside his good reputation when he violated every principle of honesty and integrity and looted the treasury of his company."

More Character Witnesses.

The only testimony heard yesterday was that of thirteen character witnesses for Sampsell, making a total of 25 such witnesses heard during the trial.

The thirteen who testified yesterday were Attorney Silas H. Strawn, Samuel Hastings, owner of the International Business Machine company; George E. Scott, president of the American Steel Foundries; Fred S. Cushing, proprietor of the Moraine hotel in Highland Park; Harry McNair, horse commissioner at the Union stockyards; Raymond C. Dudley, former president of the Railway Supply Manufacturing company; Dr. Arthur F. Byfield of Highland Park; James D. Cunningham, president of the Republic Flow Meters company; Ralph H. Hobart, president of the Northwestern Life Insurance company; Morton R. Mavor, a general contractor of Highland Park; William S. Monroe, president of Sargent & Lundy; John J. English, and Benjamin F. Lyons, president of the Stoughton, Wis., Light and Heat company.

The trial was one of the shortest—for an important case—on record in the Criminal court. The jury was selected in one day—a week ago yesterday. The remainder of the trial took exactly five days, no session of court having been held last Saturday.

$10,000 Pavement

A $10,000 strip of pavement continuing Kedzie avenue through Palmer square was dedicated and opened yesterday by commissioners of the west park district, headed by Harry Joseph, president, and representatives of the Logan Square Business Men's association.

The paving, which will eliminate dangerous turns for motorists, who were previously forced to go around the sharp angles of the square, was built with relief labor under the supervision of west park engineers.

The work on the extension was started two months ago and was completed last week. Since government funds were used in the construction, the project was completed practically without cost to taxpayers, said Nathan F. Balter, superintendent of west park.

YOUNG INSULL REINDICTED

Samuel Insull Jr., former vice chairman of the board of the Northern Indiana Public Service company, and three former associates were charged with embezzlement and grand larceny from the company in an indictment returned yesterday by the Lake county, Ind., grand jury at Crown Point.

Named with young Insull were Morse Dell Plain of Hammond, president of the company; Bernard P. Shearon of Chicago, treasurer and a director, and Edward Lloyd of Chicago, a former director.

In a separate report made to Judge William J. Murray of the Lake county Criminal court, before whom the indictment was returned, the grand jurors urged reductions in the rates of the company, and recommended federal investigation of acts of the company's board of directors in meetings held outside the state.

$217,400 Embezzlement Charged.

The indictment charges that the four officials and former officials embezzled a $217,400 note belonging to the Northern Indiana Public Service company for the use of the Midland Utilities company.

Young Insull, Dell Plain, Shearon, and Lloyd, together with three other former directors of the company, were indicted last December on the same charge. The indictment was quashed two months ago by Judge Maurice E. Crites of East Chicago, sitting as a special judge in the case, on the ground that Judge Murray, in charge of the grand jury, had appeared before the jury without first being sworn as a witness.

New Grand Jury Impaneled.

Judge Murray ordered that a new grand jury be impaneled to act in the case, and yesterday's indictment was returned by the new jurors.

One of the three other defendants in the previous indictment is now dead. He was John Gulick of Chicago. The other two are Charles W. Chase, president of the Indianapolis street railways, and Thomas Hamilton, vice president of the Gary Railway company.

friends were stopping to dance at the hotel after attending a fraternity meeting.

A clew to the perpetrators of the outrage was furnished by Harry Lindquist, 846 Ainslie street, hotel footman. He said that immediately after the explosion he saw two men, who had been loitering about the front entrance for three nights, run to an automobile and speed away.

"They first talked for a half a minute with a man and a woman in another car and then hurried to their own machine," Lindquist said. "I called to some pedestrians to stop their car, but they got away. The other car acted as a rear escort, driving slowly to block pursuit."

In explaining the attitude of the hotel toward the strike Mr. Dewey said the waiters, cooks, dishwashers, and maids were called out on strike April 19, ostensibly in sympathy with the electricians. He said that only a few of the regular help obeyed the orders of the union officials and that the hotel had carried on without any interruption of service to its guests.

Calls Demands Unreasonable.

"This bombing is a signal to fight," he said. "It is the work of racketeers who are making unreasonable demands of employers who are trying their best to keep people employed."

Mr. Dewey charged that the electrical union had subsidized officials of the waiters' union to call the sympathy strike. Max Caldwell, president of the local of the waiters' union, and two other union officials were recently indicted on charges of extortion in connection with a strike.

At the hotel last night when the building was shaken by the explosion were several prominent guests. Among them Senator M. M. Neely of West Virginia and former Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, attending the Knights of Pythias convention, which was being held there; Judge C. J. Guild of Carson City, Nev., who granted Anna Roosevelt Dall her divorce and who is one of the Pythian officials, and Charles A. McDonald, federal master in chancery and a former judge.

SEEK IDENTITY OF MYSTERY BOY FOUND INJURED

An unidentified 10 year old boy lay near death last night at the Billings Memorial hospital, where he was received Sunday afternoon with a fractured skull.

The Woodlawn police found him lying on the ground at East 62d street and Rhodes avenue, and he has not regained consciousness since. He is 4 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 75 to 85 pounds, has sandy hair, blue eyes and many freckles. A scar two inches long on the outer calf of his right leg is his only distinguishing mark. He was wearing a blue shirt with faint white stripes, white duck trousers, a white perforated belt, a tan tie with red and black figures, black oxfords with composition soles (size 8½), gray rayon socks with white clocks, and cotton underwear.

The police, who have received no "missing boy" reports, believe that he was a hitch-hiker, riding on the bumper of an automobile and fell off.

SEIZE QUINTET IN SHOOTING OF CONSTABLE

Three men and two women were seized by Lieut. Arthur Katt of Capt. John Stege's detail last night in a raid on an apartment at 1608 North Luna avenue in connection with the shooting early Saturday of Constable John Griffin of Bellwood. Griffin, who is 22 years old, is in a critical condition at the Frances Willard hospital, where three blood transfusions have been performed in an effort to save his life.

Those held are Frank Esters, known to police as Joseph Peraino, who has a record as an automobile thief; Harold Clifford, who allegedly forfeited his bond in a robbery case, and James Gervin, and the two women, Marion Formas, 18, 619 North Racine avenue, a cabaret entertainer, and Bernice Becker, 5516 West North avenue, a beauty shop owner.

According to police, Griffin already has identified a photograph of Peraino as one of his assailants. Assistant State's Attorney Eugene Wachowski also announced that Clifford and Gervin had been identified as assailants of the constable.

The Becker woman admitted being with Peraino and Clifford in the tavern at 100 North 23d avenue, Melrose Park, in front of which Griffin was shot, the prosecutor said. The two men left her there, she said, but she insisted she knew nothing of the shooting. The arrest of Peraino conformed with a theory that Griffin was shot down by automobile thieves, whom he was seeking, police said.

ANOTHER VESSEL JOINS HUNT FOR MISSING YOUTHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—A crew from the Milwaukee coast guard station, in charge of Boatswain Solomon Nedeau, left at 4:45 p. m. today in the station power boat to assist in the search for three Milwaukee young men, last heard from Wednesday, when they left Frankfort, Mich., in the twenty-three foot sloop Anita, bound for Milwaukee.

The power boat has food and fuel aboard sufficient for a twenty-four hour cruise. The Milwaukee crew will coöperate with coast guard boats from Chicago, Frankfort, Ludington, and several Wisconsin lake shore cities which are aiding in the search, and with the coast guard cutter Wolcott, which left port here yesterday and had not returned up to tonight.

Word was received here today that planes of the Great Lakes naval reserve, now at maneuvers at Mackinac island, were instructed to keep a lookout for the sloop.

The missing sloop is manned by John Siesel, 19, of 3944 North Lake drive; Everett H. Hymen, 22, of 4107 North Downer avenue, and Bertram A. Miller, 17, of 1914 North Prospect avenue.

heavy and lame. He has suffered from time to time from severe heart attacks and grave fears are held for his safety on that account. He is a man of mild and kindly disposition and his friends cannot believe that he would have attempted anything in the way of a violent clash with the thugs who seized him.

His wife, formerly Bessie Lynch, daughter of John Lynch, retired chief of the patent bureau at Ottawa, remained at Sarnia beach unaware hours afterward that her husband had been kidnaped. Her health also is said to be not good.

She returned to the Labatts' London residence from Sarnia Beach tonight, accompanied by her three small children, the youngest a babe 4 months old. Mrs. Labatt was escorted by her brother, William Lynch of New York City, former manager for the Bermuda railways. Lynch was vacationing with his sister and Labatt at their Sarnia Beach home.

See Well Thought Out Plot.

Belief that Labatt has been shadowed over a long period is strengthened by the fact that his car was placed at a spot near St. Joseph's hospital where he had been accustomed to park when Mrs. Labatt was a patient there four months ago.

The Labatts lived in London opposite Victoria park on Central avenue and retained their housekeeper in London while taking other servants to Sarnia. These servants, it is said, were all engaged through the provincial government employment bureau in London and were selected merely at haphazard as the names came forward on the list.

[Arrow indicates where summer home of John S. Labatt, Canadian brewer, is located. Labatt was kidnaped some time after leaving the summer home by automobile for London.]

Canadian opinion is outraged by the kidnaping. The Labatts are one of the oldest London families, prominent for years in social affairs and leaders in the work of the Anglican church, especially at St. Paul's cathedral.

The maximum penalty provided for kidnaping in the province of Ontario is 25 years in prison.

While the Labatt case is the first actual kidnaping police can recall, three men are being held for trial in Toronto on charges of conspiracy to kidnap J. S. McLean, president of Canada Packers, Ltd.

RECALL MYSTERY OF MILLIONAIRE; VANISHED IN 1919

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The kidnaping of John S. Labatt of London, Ont., recalled the disappearance of Ambrose J. Small, millionaire theater owner of Toronto, Dec. 2, 1919.

There were rumors of kidnaping at the time, but no definite trace of Small has been found. The courts have long since declared him dead.

Small had just put through a deal for the sale of his interests in a string of theaters to the Trans-Canada Theaters, Ltd. A few hours before his disappearance he had received a check for $1,000,000 in connection with the sale and had deposited it in his bank.

Rewards of $50,000 were offered for information leading to his discovery.

U. S. "MYSTERY MAN" QUITS HIS JOB WITH FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 14.—Leon Fleischman, "mystery man of the Quai d'Orsay," the only American ever employed by the French foreign office, has thrown up the job and will sail tomorrow on an undefined mission to Washington, D. C.

Fleischman, formerly a partner of Horace Liveright in the publishing firm of Boni & Liveright, has been at the Quai d'Orsay for more than two years with functions which were always an enigma to newspapermen.

According to him, his presence there was simply evidence that the foreign office realized its lack of knowledge of the American point of view and wanted constant information on it.

PASS ORDINANCE TO ASSURE PAY FOR TEACHERS

7 Months' Back Salaries Ready Aug. 27.

The board of education and the city council yesterday gave final approval to the terms of the school loan agreement whereby the Reconstruction Finance corporation will advance $22,300,000 to the board for the payment of seven months' back salaries to 14,000 teachers.

The money is to be ready for distribution to the teachers on Aug. 27, barring an unexpected delay. This date is two days later than the time fixed for the pay day on Monday by James B. McCahey, president of the board of education.

The delay is due to the fact that it will be impossible to publish the ordinances as required by law until tomorrow, the 16th. This will make them effective ten days later on Aug. 26. Since that date is Sunday the earliest possible time the 252,000 checks can be issued to teachers will be Monday, Aug. 27.

Mayor Signs Ordinances.

Both the council and board of education worked speedily yesterday to complete the final phase of the school loan transaction. The board approved the loan agreement at 2:30 p. m. after school and RFC attorneys had worked through the night to have it ready. The council acted an hour later, and at 4 o'clock Mayor Kelly signed the ordinances.

The action yesterday clears away the last possible barrier to the completion of the loan agreement.

The passage of two separate resolutions and ordinances comprised the concluding acts of the council and board in the loan negotiations. First, the school district was authorized to issue $22,500,000 in twenty year sinking fund bonds to be sold to the RFC for $22,300,000. The extra $200,000 of bonds were simply to keep the figure in a convenient amount, said board attorneys. The bonds bear interest at 4½ per cent and are callable in ten years. Second, the board was authorized to pledge more than $35,000,000 in nonschool properties, together with their rents and profits, as security for the loan.

Money Will Be "Boon to City."

The mortgage resolution and ordinance contained the trust deed which sets forth in detail the 130 parcels of school property pledged for the loan. The board authorized the Chicago Title and Trust company to clear the title to each of the parcels before the First National bank begins the administration of the property under the terms of the loan agreement.

Mayor Kelly was jubilant as he signed the council ordinances which mark the completion of his long fight to obtain pay for the teachers and to stabilize the finances of the board of education.

"This money will not only be a great boon to the teachers but to the entire city," said the mayor as he plied six pens in signing the ordinances. "The money should turn over at least five times, meaning more than $100,000,000 to Chicago business."

Teachers to Get Pens.

Mayor Kelly will present the pens used in signing the ordinances to representatives of teacher organizations, he said.

Rents from the school properties mortgaged for the government loan will provide the first interest payments, Frank S. Righeimer, school attorney, told the city council yesterday. The properties yield $850,000 annually, and this amount will be applied to the first interest payment of $2,035,000, due in 1935.

Tax collections and rents are then expected to maintain interest payments and retire the principal of the $22,300,000 issue. The first payment of principal, to total $250,000, will be made in 1936, and the interest payment will drop to $1,012,500.

Interest and principal payments will vary through the twenty year period of the loan, with top principal payments, totaling $2,000,000 each, to be made during the years 1947 to 1953. If the board of education should not be in position to repurchase a portion of the bonds in open market after ten years the total cost of the loan will be $22,500,000 in interest.

Special Tax Levy Necessary.

A special tax levy is required to meet the bond payments, Mr. Righeimer explained, but the amount of this levy will be deducted each year from the school's working cash fund levy, which in turn will be reimbursed by delinquent tax collections. Allowing for failure to collect, the board expects to receive $5,499,000 in 1932 taxes, $4,300,000 in 1933 taxes, and more than $10,000,000 in 1934 taxes to repay the working cash fund.

The ordinances closing the loan transaction were introduced in the council yesterday by Ald. John S. Clark [30th ward], who declared that the low interest rate granted by the RFC was a tribute to steps taken by Mayor Kelly to strengthen school and city finances.

Following passage of the ordinance by a 41 to 0 vote, Ald. James J. McDermott [14th ward] introduced an extensive resolution setting forth the long fight to gain pay for the teachers and praising the leadership of Mayor Kelly, who devised the loan proposal.

Council Thanks Mayor Kelly.

"The city council expresses to Mayor Kelly its deep admiration and profound appreciation for his efforts and fruitful energy in bringing relief to the public school teachers of Chicago," said the resolution, which was passed unanimously. "He has produced a splendid financial condition in the schools of the city, and the city council hereby extends to him, in the name of the citizens, its thanks for his untiring and splendid zeal toward the successful solution of this great problem."

The resolution told of Mayor Kelly's drive for an improved school financial situation from the time his school economy plan was adopted in July, 1933. "This program of economy and retrenchment, without which the loan would have been an impossibility, was denounced by some as a scheme to 'wreck' the Chicago public schools," it recounted. "In fact, as it is now proved, the school economy program, instead of 'wrecking' the school system, has saved it for all time."

2 WOMEN FLYERS TO TRY FOR NEW REFUELING MARK

Two women flyers from the Texas plains, Jean La Rene, 27 years old, of Dallas, and Mary Owens, 22 years old, of Fort Worth, were making final preparations at Curtiss Reynolds airport, Glenview, last evening, to take off in an attempt to set new women's and new world's endurance refueling flight records. They will be assisted by Kenneth Hunter, one of the group of Hunter brothers which set the present world's record of 554 hours and 45 minutes in 1930. Hunter will fly the refueling ship.

The women, both transport pilots, will fly a specially equipped Curtiss Thrush, a cabin model, high wing monoplane, powered with a 225 horsepower Wright J67 motor. The refueling ship, also a cabin monoplane, is a Bellanca with a 300 horsepower Wright motor.

The takeoff, scheduled for today, may be delayed until tomorrow by last minute changes in the doors of the Thrush. The changes were demanded by department of commerce inspectors.

FOES IN LOUISIANA HOUSE DEFEAT FIRST MOVE IN LONG WAR

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 14.—(AP)—While Senator Huey P. Long's National Guardsmen were making a show of arms in the voters' registration office in New Orleans the Louisiana legislature tonight started to work on the senator's program to seize more power in New Orleans in Long's political conflict with Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley.

GOV. O. K. ALLEN.

Convened in extraordinary session by Gov. O. K. Allen, the legislature received a resolution providing for an investigation of the city government of New Orleans, and administration members reported that they had agreed in caucus on a state constabulary which would be empowered to enforce state laws anywhere in Louisiana.

The senate by a vote of 21 to 7 adopted a motion to permit a change in suspension of the rules for passage of bills by a bare majority instead of a two-thirds vote.

But in the house Walmsley's old regular organization group joined with country anti-administration members in revolt and defeated this move by a vote of 54 to 29.

Members of the New Orleans delegation charged that the session was a "useless, vicious, spite session" aimed by Long at New Orleans because Long lost the January city election, and they accused Speaker Allen J. Ellender of "unfairness" in presenting the plan to change the house rules.

Ellender, an administration leader, denied the charge.

Fire Hits Kill Devil Hill, Site of 1st Wright Flight

Kill Devil Hill, N. C., Aug. 14.—(AP)—A lighted cigaret has swept away part of five years' work here to anchor Kill Devil Hill, from which Wilbur and Orville Wright made their first flight. URGES NATION'S G. O. P. TO FOLLOW LEAD OF ILLINOIS

Rep. Wadsworth Lauds Springfield Platform.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Republicans in Illinois have shown the way. Republicans in the east and elsewhere must follow in their footsteps.

JAS. WADSWORTH.

This was the firm assertion today of Representative James W. Wadsworth of New York, former United States senator, who is regarded as the spokesman for his party in this state. Boomed by conservative Republicans for the nomination for governor, already whispered about as possible presidential timber in 1936, his declaration had particular significance.

Impressed by the ringing challenge to costly New Deal experimentation embodied in the platform adopted last week by the Republicans of Illinois in convention at Springfield, Representative Wadsworth said that Republicans in other states must be similarily bold if order and economy is to be restored in government and communism driven out.

Praises Illinois G. O. P.

"As one of the greatest states in the Union, Illinois has taken the lead," he said. "The Republicans of Illinois have contributed in the past tremendously to the stability of our institutions; once more, they have come forward and pointed the way to Republicans everywhere.

"I hope most sincerely that the Republicans of the east, and especially the great state of New York, will follow in their footsteps with no uncertain tread, and I believe they will."

Republican candidates for office may perhaps be sacrificing votes by refusing to straddle the fence at this time, but it is their duty to forget timidity and come out boldly in behalf of Americanism versus sovietism, Representative Wadsworth declared.

Attacks New Deal Radicals.

"Up to date," he pointed out, "the radicals of the New Deal have used every possible excuse to start their experiments. They have stated that these experiments would be temporary and would last only in time of emergency, but they now announce that their experiments are to be frozen into permanent statutes and continued indefinitly. Their determination to do this brings us face to face with the greatest issue we have encountered since Lincoln faced the great issue of 1860.

"Are we Republicans going to falter at a time like this? Are we going to hold back and let this thing go on to the utter destruction of the American conception of liberty? Are we going to surrender, for fear of temporary defeat, to fascism and communism?

"I am confident that there is plenty of courage and ample ability in the ranks of the Republican party to meet this situation. Indeed, it is the patriotic duty of the party to do so, come what may. It will do its duty and in the end will win, for this proposed enslavement of the American people to a socialistically devoted burocracy shocks the sensibilities of every thinking man as soon as he understands it."

Calls Platform Outstanding.

Both the Illinois Republican platform and the speech of Henry P. Fletcher, national Republican chairman, to the Illinois convention were the outstanding political declarations of recent days, Representative Wadsworth asserted.

"Both those utterances were in complete sympathy and in a sense can be regarded as a single utterance," he said. "What impresses me is the insistence that the liberty of the American people shall not be sacrificed. That there is a menace to this liberty cannot be denied."

Under the Roosevelt whip and spurred on by the cry of emergency, congress passed a number of measures conferring extraordinary power on the President which were not intended to be lightly used, the congressman commented.

Thralldom Imposed.

"But the President delegated to and scattered among his appointees these powers and they have seized the opportunity to impose upon the nation a thralldom as severe as ever was suffered under an absolute monarchy," he declared.

"The are attempting to tell every individual in the land just how he shall earn his living. In industry they are prescribing the source of work, the wages he shall earn, while the producer is ordered to produce only so much goods and charge so much for them.

"These mandates are imposed by the NRA and any person, high or humble, who dares disobey them may be prosecuted, fined, imprisoned, or both.

"Under the AAA we already have reached the point where burocracy is telling large groups of farmers either how many acres to plant or how much produce they may sell or market, with the same threat of prosecution for any violation."

Hits Permanency of New Deal.

Fascism and communism permeate all these New Deal measures, Representative Wadsworth asserted, but the damage inflicted under them would be limited if they were actually to expire, as planned, in June, 1935.

"But it is now certain," he said, "that the President and his experimenting followers are intent on making these measures a part of the permanent policy of the United States.

"The issue will come to a head in the next congress. If that congress yields to these men who are bent upon changing the whole picture of American life, we shall find ourselves ruled and regimented from cradle to grave by the Washington burocracy. The rights of the states and their subdivisions to govern themselves will have perished. The constitution and the bill of rights will be thrown on the scrap heap. We might just as well understand now that President Roosevelt and his people intend to accomplish that very thing."

Admits Obstacles.

When the Republicans of New York meet early in October to choose their nominees they will labor under difficulties in following the Illinois example, the representative admitted. The Republican state chairman, W. Kingsland Macy, has asserted that "national issues" should have no place in the state campaign. Macy is backing Samuel Seabury, known as a "New Deal Republican," for the gubernatorial nomination.

"I contend, however, that the wastefulness and the rashness of the experimenters at Washington are vital issues affecting the states," said Representative Wadsworth. "If state officials have any regard for the prestige of their own governments they had better wake up to the significance of this whole movement in Washington."

G. O. P. BATTLES TO TAKE MAINE IN SEPTEMBER

Leaders of Both Parties Converge on State.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republicans and Democrats began yesterday to converge upon Maine, the old political barometer state, which on Sept. 10 will elect a governor, a United States senator, three representatives in congress, a legislature, and other state officers.

SENATOR DICKINSON.

Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, western chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, tore through Chicago yesterday headed for Lewiston on the Androscoggin. Both parties are striving for a sweep. The White House has been urging action in Maine, and a concentration of Republicans and Democrats is now in progress.

In political tradition, Maine has a unique position because it holds its state election some two months in advance of the other states. The ancient adage is "As goes Maine, so goes the nation," which like most adages sometimes rings the bell and sometimes does a flop.

Dickinson to Open Fight.

Senator Dickinson is to open the ball for the Republicans tomorrow afternoon with a speech at Lewiston in which he proposes to analyze some of the experiments of the New Dealers. He is to give special attention to the AAA and Secretary Wallace's efforts at a controled production on a philosophy of food scarcity; to NRA and the development of monopolies through the codes; and in general to the "scrapping of the constitution."

"The outlook politically is improving," said Senator Dickinson at the Chicago headquarters of the Republicans, into which he dashed between trains.

"It is now time to speak out, and not to mince words. The people are awakening. I am convinced from my traveling about. They are beginning to realize the terrific amount of money being poured out by the New Dealers. It is dawning upon them that while the nation can dance to the tune of billions and billions of dollars, in the end the people have got to pay the fiddler.

Hits Brain Trust Experiments.

"Dissatisfaction is growing against rattle brain experiments of the brain Trust. Wherever I have been in recent weeks people are asking: 'Where's the money coming from?'"

Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, chairman of the eastern Republican senatorial headquarters, is now in Maine. So is Congressman Chester C. Bolton of Ohio, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee. So is Henry P. Fletcher, Republican national committee chairman.

The Democrats, too, have an imposing array of talent centered upon the Pine Tree state.

Maine has been considered as great a Republican stronghold as Vermont. Two years ago, however, in its September election it chose a Democratic governor and the Democrats also won two seats out of three in congress. Then in November it gave Hoover a plurality of about 38,000 over Roosevelt.

Both Parties Working Hard.

So both parties are working like beavers. Gov. Louis J. Brann, Democrat, has for opponent Alfred K. Ames, Republican, a retired lumberman. Senator Frederick Hale, Republican, who has been in the United States senate since 1917, is opposed by F. Harold Dubord, Democratic national committeeman, who is a former mayor of Waterville.

To get a bit of political background, since the Republican party rose with the election of Lincoln in 1860 Maine has elected 28 governors. Democrats have won twice and fusion candidates twice. Of fourteen senators in that period, the Democrats elected one in 1910, and a fusion governor appointed another in 1911 who was subsequently elected to fill a term expiring in 1913.

In the 74 years more than 150 congressmen have been elected in Maine, of whom only five were not Republicans, the Republican statisticians declare.

County G. O. P. Drafts Platform.

The Republican Cook county committee yesterday prepared to write a draft of its county platform. The drafters are to meet today at the La Salle hotel and are expected to spend a week or more at the task. On Monday headquarters are to be moved to the Ashland block.

One of the slogans for the campaign was hoisted yesterday on a banner in State street. It read:

"Stop the Spenders."

The county platform is expected to follow largely that adopted at the recent state convention in Springfield.

The Democratic county committee and its candidates held their first organization meeting yesterday at the Morrison hotel. Roosevelt and the New Deal were acclaimed as the issue.

"In President Roosevelt," said Mayor Kelly, "the Democratic party has the greatest leader any party has ever known. The candidates must all work together and the ticket will be elected."

G. A. R. SHARES LEGION HOLIDAY; SPEAKER ATTACKS U.S. RADICALS

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Medal and ribbon bedecked uniforms of civil war blue mingled with world war khaki today as veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic joined the American Legion in a Field day at Genesee Valley park.

The flags of G. A. R. posts were massed on the field with those of the Legionnaires.

While the veterans of the 60's enjoyed their day's outing, allied organizations opened their sessions today. lic schools of the country was sharply attacked by Park F. Yengling of Bay Village, O. He is commander in chief of the Sons of Union Veterans. At the opening session of that organization he said:

"The real issues of today for us to combat are—teaching of false history in our public schools—the spread of socialism, bolshevism, anarchism, which is undermining our government.

"Thousands of dollars are being poured into our country today and being used to corrupt the teachers in our schools."

CITY ARRANGES TO MEET BONDS DUE NEXT YEAR

Arrangements to meet $18,849,000 in city and board of education bonds falling due on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1 of 1935 have been made by Mayor Kelly with loop banks, it was announced yesterday. Sinking fund cash, outright cash purchases by the banks, and refunding bond exchanges will meet the situation. A city council meeting for Friday afternoon to authorize the issuance of refunding bonds has been called.

An aggregate of $12,449,000 in various classes of city bonds mature on the first of the year. Of these $5,500,000 are to be met with city cash from the sinking fund accumulations from taxes. The balance is to be taken up with refunding bonds through the banks. Under the understanding reached, the banks have an option to purchase all unexchanged bonds, agreeing to buy up to $7,000,000 of city bonds or tax warants against the bond levies.

The board of education has $5,500,000 in bonds falling due on Jan. 1 and $900,000 on Feb. 1. The banks have agreed to purchase a total of $6,400,000 in school refunding bonds and the cash so derived will be used to take up the maturing bonds.

Youth Held After Woman Identifies Him as Rapist

Michael Cianciarule, 21 years old, 1416 North Lockwood avenue, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $7,500 yesterday by Police Magistrate Louis S. Gibson of Oak Park on charges of rape and robbery. Miss Mildred Hannus, 27 years old, 1700 Long avenue, identified him as the youth who attacked her and robbed her of $2 after forcing her into his automobile at the point of a revolver, Sept. 9.

Marengo Couple Celebrate 60th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Ocock, 329 Elm avenue, Marengo, are celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary today. They were married in Woodstock and have lived most of the time in Marengo, where Mr. Ocock was in the harness and leather business until his retirement three years ago. Mr. Ocock is 80 years old and his wife 79. They have two daughters, two grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

STRAWN WARNS CONSTITUTION IS BEING SCRAPPED

Raps Congress' Surrender to New Dealers.

The surrender by congress of many of its constitutional powers to President Roosevelt was characterized by Silas H. Strawn last night as "the most alarming subversion" of the constitution under the New Deal.

"Shall we scrap the constitution?" was the subject of a coast to coast radio broadcast by Mr. Strawn, a former president of the American Bar association and of the United States Chamber of Commerce. It was sponsored by the Republican campaign committee.

"The peril that now confronts us," Mr. Strawn said, "is the disposition, if not the avowed purpose, of some academicians holding positions of more or less importance in the government, to ignore the constitution entirely or to alter it, not by the due process of referendum to the people, as provided by the instrument itself, but arbitrarily or capriciously to suit the notions of those who enjoy the pastime of experimenting with our governmental machinery.

Other Recoveries Recalled.

"During the last 120 years we have had at least 17 major economic depressions. We have come out of all of them and gone on to greater prosperity than ever before. In these crises it was not thought necessary to resort to the hasty passage of ill considered remedial legislation. We deemed our governmental machinery adequate. The attention of our people was devoted to recovery rather than radical reform.

"On this occasion I refer only to what is regarded as the most alarming subversion of our basic law.

"Our forefathers in framing the constitution wisely provided that all legislative power shoud be vested in congress; that the executive power should be vested in the President, and the judicial power in the courts.

"At the request of President Roosevent, made I believe in the highest sense of patriotism with the idea of being more able promptly to meet the emergency which he believed to exist, the congress surrendered to the President many of its constitutional powers.

A Dangerous Expedient.

"Those who believe in the soundness of the constitution regard the placing of such vast powers in the hands of one person, however wise and patriotic he may be, as a dangerous expedient."

Mr. Strawn dwelt upon a recent report made by a special committee of the American Bar association that some of the administrative agencies at Washington are performing judicial functions solely, and that among the twenty proprietary corporations created by the government, some are exercising judicial and legislative functions. The report declared these are eluding certain restrictions which normally limit executive activities of the government.

"The situation indicated by the report of that committee," said Mr. Strawn, "should fill with apprehension and alarm the mind of every one who believes in the maintenance of our American ideals and freedom of individual liberty.

"There are in the congress many patriotic statesmen who fully realize the situation. Unfortunately, the majority are awed by the ballyhoo of a small group of radicals who, having nothing to lose, enjoy experimenting with their schemes for reform.

"I submit that the time has come when the American voters should realize the necessity of electing to congress those who believe in carrying on our government according to the plan established by the forefathers, instead of substituting the ideals of Moscow, Rome, and Berlin."

DONAHEY LEADS BITTER DEMOCRAT FIGHT IN OHIO

Ahead of 2 for Senator; Fess Easy Winner.

Columbus, O., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Ohio tonight apparently had renominated its Republican senator, Simeon D. Fess, foe of the New Deal, and was favoring former Gov. A. V. Donahey over Congressman Charles West and Gov. George White for the Democratic senatorial nomination as primary returns piled up. At midnight Gov. White conceded Donahey's nomination.

Donahey in 2,587 precincts out of 8,552 had 66,637 votes for the Democratic senatorial nomination to West's 44,420 and White's 39,332.

Senator Fess, who since 1912 has sat in the national congress, had 44,939 votes in 2,115 precincts reporting, while Judge Walter B. Wanamaker had 17,624, John M. Vorys 10,178, "Gen." Jacob S. Coxey 7,585, and Edward Lamb 7,870.

In the Democratic race for governor Martin L. Davey of Kent was leading Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati by slightly more than 400 votes, with William G. Pickrel of Dayton close in the rear. Davey polled 50,697 votes in 2,448 precincts out of 8,552 and Sawyer 50,273.

Former Lieut. Gov. Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, was leading Daniel E. Morgan of Cleveland by 43,812 in 2,187 precincts out of 8,552.

Burke Leads Bryan 2 to 1.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Arthur F. Mullen, shaggy haired Nebraskan who was floor leader for the Roosevelt forces at the 1932 Democratic national convention, tonight appeared likely to have made good his promise to "drive Bryan out of state politics." Charles W. Bryan was trailing on early returns for the Democratic nomination to the United States senate.

Returns from 135 of 2,028 precincts showed Representative E. R. Burke of Omaha leading Bryan by 6,499 to 3,193. Burke was supported by Mullen and campaigned for whole-hearted support of President Roosevelt.

Robert G. Simmons, who assailed the NRA and AAA in every part of the state, took an early lead for the Republican nomination to the United States senate despite a threat late in the campaign that Senator George W. Norris, insurgent Republican, would campaign against him if he was nominated.

Returns from 91 of 1,652 precincts gave Simmons 4,381 votes to 2,770 for former State Senator Kenneth S. Wherry and 2,050 for Robert Smith of Omaha, supported by the widow of the late Senator R. B. Howell.

Dwight Griswold, 1932 Republican gubernatorial nominee, had established a two to one lead on early returns over C. A. Sorensen, former crusading attorney general, for the Republican nomination for governor. Ted Metcalf, Republican son of a prominent Nebraska Democrat, was running third.

State Engineer R. L. Cochran continued to lead eight other Democratic candidates for governor, and with 106 precincts in he had a plurality of more than 600 over Congressman Terry Carpenter of Scotts Bluff.

J. H. Kemp of Fullerton, who 20 years ago was a power in the state senate but dropped out of politics after losing the Republican nomination for governor, was headed for the Republican short term senatorial nomination.

Arkansas Governor Far Ahead.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Early returns from today's Democratic primary election established a comfortable lead for Gov. J. M. Futrell, who is seeking renomination over Howard A. Reed, former state controler. Returns from 838 precincts out of 2,100 gave: Futrell, 39,559; Reed, 22,740.

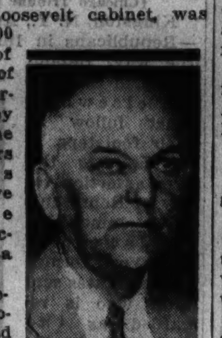
Idaho Governor Is Ahead.

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Gov. C. Ben Ross pushed into a lead of more than two to one over his nearest competitor for the Democratic nomination for the third term he is seeking in early returns tonight in the Idaho primary. Frank L. Stephan, former attorney general, moved into an equally decisive lead over his two opponents for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

ATTORNEY NAMES ICKES IN $250,000 DEFAMATION SUIT

Ruined by Secretary's Attack, Says Larsen.

Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior in the Roosevelt cabinet, was sued for $250,000 on a charge of defamation of character yesterday by Attorney C. W. Larsen, one of two lawyers whom Ickes sought to have disbarred three months ago, accusing them of a blackmail plot.



C. W. LARSEN.

Ickes' action before the bar association involved both Larsen, a former assistant corporation counsel of Chicago, and Attorney Lucius J. M. Malmin, a former federal judge in the Virgin Islands.

According to the secretary's story to the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association, Malmin and Larsen came to him with a threat to open disbarment proceedings against him in connection with a Probate court case unless Mr. Ickes used his influence to have Malmin made governor of the Virgin Islands and Larsen an assistant United States district attorney.

In addition, Ickes charged, Malmin had bombarded President Roosevelt with numerous letters, hinting at a scandal concerning "a member of the cabinet," and suggesting that he could suppress this in return for the appointments.

Larsen's bill, filed in the Superior court yesterday, but in which Malmin did not join, was based on an interview which, Larsen charges, was given out by Ickes to numerous newspapers and the leading press services.

He states that Ickes ruined him professionally "wrongfully and maliciously."

The Ickes action against the two men is pending. It was brought to an abrupt close when the State Supreme court handed down a decision in another disbarment case that the disbarment action was void when no sworn complaint had been made. Mr. Ickes had made no sworn complaint against Malmin and Larsen.

Suit "Flatters" Ickes.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Commenting today on the filing of a $250,000 damage suit against him by C. W. Larsen, Chicago attorney, against whom he had brought disbarment proceedings, Secretary Ickes today told reporters:

"He flatters me in two respects. First, that I could conceivably damage his reputation, and, second, that he could collect $250,000 if he got a judgment against me."

WILMETTE WIDOW HANGS SELF.

Grieving for her dead husband and despondent over ill health, Mrs. Minnie Lynn, 63 years old, 320 Isabella street, Wilmette, hanged herself with a clothesline in the garage behind her home yesterday.

Ickes Places Bar on Loan for Outer Drive Bridge

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, who has just returned from his vacation and a tour of some of the major projects in the New Deal's billion dollar power and reclamation program, made a voluntary declaration this afternoon that he wouldn't give Chicago anything for the outer drive bridge if he got another one hundred million for the PWA.

Mr. Ickes made this gratuitous observation at his regular Tuesday afternoon press conference when he was asked about the progress in his quest for another $100,000,000 of easy money.

"I ventured to suggest to the President today that I was in a receptive mood for another $100,000,000, but I haven't got it yet," said the secretary.

Won't Help Chicago.

"What would you do with it if you got it?" a Chicago reported asked.

"I wouldn't give any of it to Chicago for the outer drive bridge, I can tell you that," Secretary Ickes replied with a broad grin. He did not explain why not.

The public works administrator recently rescinded an allocation of $6,974,500 to the South and Lincoln park boards for the completion of the outer drive bridge.

Ickes' explanation for this action was that the bonds of Lincoln park, secured by Chicago's gold coast property, among the richest in the world, were not adequate collateral.

Officials of the park boards announced that they would petition the public works authorities for a reconsideration after the Illinois Supreme court ruled on the Chicago park consolidation, but if Mr. Ickes was sincere in his remark today the petitioning will not do much good.

Secretary Ickes was asked how he felt about the bringing of new lands into cultivation now that he had made a personal inspection of some of the federal projects.

Supports Reclamation Projects.

"As a long range policy it is a sound question," he said. "It is a matter of when we need it. Until we need it it oughtn't to be done."

In response to another question he said that "ultimately there undoubtedly will be a high dam at Grand Coulee," which would mean the irrigation of 1,200,000 acres in the Columbia basin of Washington and a total cost of 394 million dollars.

"We can all see the time when as fertile an empire as that is needed," Secretary Ickes continued, "it would provide for the irrigation of more than a million acres of wonderfully fertile land and bring in several thousand families. And the dam site is a natural—a great deep gorge, with a wonderful foundation and an unlimited water supply. It is far more encouraging after seeing it than it was before."

30 Drowned When Ship Sinks in Brazilian River

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Delayed reports from Bahia tonight said 30 persons were drowned when the ship Costa Pereira sank in the river Sao Francisco.

State Approves Tavern Near a Private School

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Holding that the state statute barring taverns within 100 feet of a school applies only to tax-supported institutions, the state liquor commission today ordered the city of Rockford to grant a tavern license to Gilbert Lane. Lane's proposed tavern is near a private kindergarten.

BLAME NRA UNION FOR SHUTDOWN OF SOAP PLANT

Strike Tactics Result in Move, Say Owners.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

On the ornamental iron gates of the Lever Brothers company soap plant on the northwest side of Hammond there hung a big cardboard sign yesterday. It read:

THIS PLANT IS CLOSED INDEFINITLY.

Inside the plant workmen were busy oiling and covering machinery in preparation for a prolonged shutdown. This was the reply of the company management to a strike, now ten days hold, which reached a climax Monday morning when strikers attempted to mob loyal employés of the company on their way to work.

Physically, the plant is regarded as a model industrial establishment. It was put in operation four years ago, after the start of the depression. The new buildings are surrounded by wide expanses of green lawn. The lawn has a practical as well as an esthetic use, Bruce Vernon, manager of the plant, explained. It keeps the air about the plant relatively free from dust, against which the soapmakers must constantly guard their product.

Generous Toward Workers.

Until the coming of the NRA, labor in the plant was wholly unorganized. The company's labor policy, however, is generous as judged by the standards of other companies in the same area. All employés receive two weeks' vacation with pay and are paid for holidays, which is rather unusual in industries which pay the majority of their help by the hour.

During the epidemic of bank failures the company bought up the accounts of all its employés in closed banks, paying them in full for them. It has a loan system for employés and, while it has no organized pension system, an informal system is in effect for employés in the eastern plants, which have been in operation much longer than the one at Hammond.

By accumulating warehouse stores for peak sales periods, the company manages to operate the Hammond plant at steady capacity the year round. It formerly operated three shifts of 40 to 44 hours a week each.

Cut Hours, but Not Pay.

Under the President's reëmployment agreement, the weekly time was reduced to 35 hours, and wage rates were adjusted to give employés the same weekly pay.

Hourly rates are now 55 cents an hour for common labor, less than a fourth of the 400 employés; 65 to 75 cents for semi-skilled labor, about half of the force, and 90 cents to $1 an hour for skilled labor. The rates, Mr. Vernon asserted, are as high as are paid anywhere in the soap industry, and equivalent to the wages paid by the big oil companies, whose scales are generally considered the highest in the Calumet area.

There are two unions in the plant. One was organized during the NRA period by the American Federation of Labor and is of the "vertical type," embracing all classes of employés in a single plant. Other employés formed an independent union, which, Mr. Vernon said, was in no sense a company union. The company has been willing to treat with both.

The A. F. of L. organization, a branch of the United Soap and Glycerin Workers, called the strike shortly after the plant was reopened following the two weeks' vacation period. They demanded seniority rules and pay increases. The latter demand was first for a raise of common labor to 75 cents an hour, a raise of 36 per cent, with other rates increased correspondingly.

The company offered to institute seniority rules as to layoffs and reemployment, but retained the right to promote or demote employés according to ability. This was satisfactory to the union, which reduced its wage demands to a 10 per cent increase for employés getting less than 80 cents an hour, and 5 per cent for the higher paid group. This was refused by the company.

More than a hundred of the plant employés, including the members of the independent union, reported for work on the first day of the strike. Work went ahead on a single shift daily. By the end of last week 165 men were reporting for work. Over the week-end the company sent telegrams to all employés explaining its stand, and Monday morning 40 more employés, Mr. Vernon said, called the plant and said they were returning to work.

The union pickets massed four deep that morning in front of the plant entrance, attempting to prevent automobiles from entering. They smashed the glass in several cars and one picket was knocked down and injured when he stepped in the path of a car after police had cleared a path for it. The plant was then ordered closed.

Closes to Halt Violence.

"It will stay closed until this trouble is over," said Mr. Vernon yesterday. "We will not subject our loyal employés to injury by asking them to come to work. Furthermore, we cannot accede to the union's demands."

Affairs at the plant were quiet yesterday. Half a dozen pickets marched up and down outside. Inside the gates the same number of company guards, smartly uniformed, were on duty. Office workers came to work without hindrance. Mayor Charles Schonert of Hammond and William F. White, federal department of labor conciliator, are working to settle the strike.

The company offered during the early negotiations to raise the common labor rate to 58 cents, establishing a minimum wage of $20.90 a week for the lowest paid emeployés, but that offer was withdrawn after the disturbance Monday.

BANDIT AND VICTIM WHO ESCAPED HIM

Edward Christopher (left), who was forced by Huga Wilson (right) to drive him around an hour with Wilson holding a gun at Christopher's head. The gun had only one bullet in the chamber and was clicked against Christopher's head a couple of times. The victim finally escaped by jumping from the car.

Hour of Terror

Edward Christopher, 5529 Congress street, a research chemist for the Swift Packing company, spent an hour of terror last night as a drunken bandit held a revolver at his head during an automobile ride and pulled the trigger twice, missing fire each time. Christopher was not killed, he learned later, because the six chambered revolver held only one bullet and the hammer happened to fall on empty chambers. Despite his terrifying experience, Christopher effected the capture of the bandit, who identified himself as Hugo Wilson, 22 years old, of Des Moines, Ia.

The holdup occurred when Christopher stopped his car for a trafic light at Laramie avenue and Madison street. Wilson approached, placed the revolver at his head, and ordered him to drive east. Finding only $2.50 and a wrist watch on Christopher, Wilson threatened to kill him. When Christopher turned a corner contrary to the robber's directions, Wilson pulled the trigger of his gun. When it failed to fire he twirled the chamber and said, "It'll kill you the next time."

Another time Christopher drove too fast to suit Wilson, and again he pulled the trigger.

When trafic stopped his car at Clark street and Jackson boulevard, Christopher in desperation pushed the revolver away and jumped out. He shouted to a police squad half a block away, who seized Wilson just as he aimed his revolver at them.

GIRL FINED FOR HANDBILLS.

Helen Smith, 18 years old, 1809 Allport avenue, was fined $5 yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman after she admitted passing out handbills at the World's Fair assailing labor conditions among Fair employés.

CUBA FIRES 5,280 STRIKING POSTAL AND WIRE MEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Aug. 14.—Both the government and employés of the communications department kept their promises today, thus further aggravating the status of the four day old strike which has deprived Cuba of local and international mail and telegraph services.

The strikers, including all high communications officials except Secretary of Communications Miguel Suarez Gutierrez, refused to return to work when the government's ultimatum expired this morning. An hour later, President Mendieta signed a decree automatically dismissing 5,280 striking postal and telegraph employés throughout the island and appointing an equal number of substitutes.

The strikers retaliated by organizing armed sabotage squads. Despite guards of soldiers at all postoffices and telegraph stations, several postoffices in smaller towns were set on fire.

The producers said they would appear before the body but would oppose enforcement of a federal license at this time.

MEDIATORS MAP NEW PEACE PLAN IN TRUCK STRIKE

Action Is Taken After Day of Deadlock.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—An attempt to compose both sides in the truck strike, which went into its fifth week today, was being made tonight by federal mediators, who began drawing a new plan for submission to strikers and employers at the end of a day of deadlock.

Father Francis J. Haas of the national labor relations board and E. H. Dunnigan, department of labor conciliator, had the job of proving that each contending faction was asking too much of the other. It will be a hard job to convince the business men that communists did not foment the walkout and that Gov. Floyd B. Olson, through his use of martial law, is not attempting to force them into a settlement of the controversy.

Strikers Reject Plan.

Without submitting the proposition to a vote of the rank and file, strike leaders last night turned down a peace plan presented by the employers. They declared they would not accept any proposal save that made two weeks ago by Father Haas and Dunnigan. Employers will not agree to all of its provisions—among them the clause making mandatory the rehiring of all strikers.

No word of details of the plan now in formulation could be obtained from the mediators. What they decide upon will be given to each group tomorrow.

Admittedly the employers are in a difficult position. When the governor told his troops to keep all trucks from the streets unless their owners signed the earlier proposal, the business men went into federal court and sought an injunction. This was denied them, although the governor was criticized for his actions.

Governor Helps Strikers.

Playing hand in hand with the union, the governor has relaxed most of his military regulations so that the group of employers represented by an advisory committee of 166 men are substantially the only ones denied use of the streets. They consist of large transfer firms, department stores, and some of the bigger warehouses.

Meanwhile the cost of military occupation of this city was brought home when pay warants totaling $80,000 were issued by the state treasurer. The state soldiers are paid $2 per day. Their officers draw as high as $12 a day. All this will be reflected in the tax bills. It was estimated that the force of about 1,000 men now on duty is costing the state more than $5,000 daily. Two weeks go, when 3,000 men were under arms, the bill was thrice that figure.

MAROONED IN PLANT BY STRIKE, WORKERS LEARN HOW TO COOK

Alcoa, Tenn., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Voluntarily marooned inside the huge plants of the Aluminum Company of America because of a strike, 200 nonunion workers are learning something new—the art of cooking and washing clothes.

They remained inside the plant to care for machinery when it closed last Friday. Log chains are stretched across the ten entrances and 1,600 union men patrol in twelve hour shifts. If the nonunion workers leave the plant there is no chance to return. So they remain voluntarily imprisoned—eating canned food, washing their own clothes, and taking life easy.

Company officials solved the food problem, sending supplies into the mill by parcel post. Pickets do not molest the United States mail.

For the most part those inside the plants are having a good time "roughing it" in the midst of an outlay of machinery costing 20 million dollars.

Some of the men have folded sheets of aluminum into pots and pans for use in cooking and eating.

AMERICAN FLAG IN HAITI LOWERED FOR LAST TIME

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The American flag was lowered late today for the last time, and the Haitian flag was raised in its place on a pole in front of marine headquarters.

President Stenio Vincent of Haiti, American Minister Norman Armour, Gen. Louis Little, U. S. A., cabinet ministers, legislators and their stafs, and United States naval transport officers were present at the solemn and impressive ceremony.

Tomorrow 350 United States marines will embark on a transport, leaving Haiti to be protected by its own military forces.

PRINTER CHARGES PLOT TO RUIN HIM BY CODE GROUPS

Told to Raise Prices; Faces NRA Threat.

New charges that code groups empowered under the National Recovery act, are utilizing their own code regulations with reference to trade practices and costs to stifle the competition of small businesses hitherto profitably operated, were made yesterday by T. J. Cullen, president of the United States Printing company which specializes in printing briefs and abstracts for lawyers.

Asserting that eight of the eleven law printing firms in Chicago have joined in a conspiracy to force him out of business, Mr. Cullen whose printing shop and home are at 2817 North Halsted street, explained that he has been threatened with citation before the state NRA compliance group because he refuses to increase his present prices by 40 per cent.

"The law printers' division of the Graphic Arts federation which is also the industry's code authority, has informed me that I'm charged with selling my printing at below cost," said Mr. Cullen.

Reports Profit of $6,500.

"My answer to that is simple. Ever since I've been in business at my present location, and that is eight years, I have made a nice profit each year after al my expenses, depreciation, insurance, etc., have been deducted. In 1933, when my prices were even lower than those of today I made $6,500. In earlier years the profit averaged from $7,000 to $9,000."

The eight law printing plants, Mr. Cullen said, had all signed a cost schedule which places the cost of printing briefs or abstracts at $1.12 a page which includes labor, rent, stock, and overhead including solicitors and salesmen.

Cullen explained that his business was conducted on a C. O. D. basis, that he employed no salesmen, that his rent since his shop is located in a district three miles from the business area is cheap. Consequently, he said, he is able to make a profit and charge no more than 80 cents a page.

Keeps Costs Down.

"Under the code prices an eight page brief with cover would cost $11.95 for body and $3.37 for cover, making it cost $15.32 for brief completed against $10 for the same work as charged by the U. S. Printing company. A 32 page brief would cost $39.97 under the code but I can do it for $27.20."

The code prices, based on cost estimates furnished by four Chicago law printing firms, Cullen said, are "exorbitant." He charged that the four firms which submitted the cost estimates are "members of a clique which during the boom days before 1929 charged $1.60 a page for briefs at a time when I was charging 75 cents for briefs and 80 for abstracts."

"The price control of this clique was taken from them in 1926 when I began doing the work for 80 cents a page," charged Cullen. "Now they hope to get even by putting me out of business.

Refuses to Raise Prices.

On July 23 he was summoned before the Graphic Arts code authority, he said, but he refused to raise his prices. On Aug. 10, he was directed to appear before the "zone control board" to justify the price which the code people charged was "below cost." He refused to appear, Cullen said, and then was directed for the second time to appear yesterday. In this letter was a threat to place the matter in the hands of the state compliance group, he said, but he once more refused to appear.

"I'm paying wages 37 per cent above the code minimum, and I'm observing the hour provisions of the code. I'm doing my part. But I'm a fighter and I'm not going to be bluffed into putting myself out of business by the NRA or any one else. I want to take this thing into the courts where I'll have a chance. I have none against the Graphic Arts code authorities," he stated.

Foreign Propaganda Quiz Opens Here Next Week

A congressional committee investigating sources of "subversive propaganda" will conduct hearings in Chicago next week, it was learned yesterday. The committee, headed by Representative John McCormack of Massachusetts, was formed to investigate activities in the United States of propagandists for Nazism, Fascism and communism, with particular emphasis on Nazism.

FEARS SELF-HELP FACTORIES WILL MAKE MORE IDLE

J. L. Donnelly Warns Against Policy.

A warning that the employment of idle persons in competition with established industry will increase the number of persons on the relief rolls was given yesterday by James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. Mr. Donnelly's remarks were prompted by a Washington dispatch which indicated the government may extend its "self-help" manufactories.

Large scale production of clothing, canned goods, and mattresses is already under way in Illinois, or will be started shortly. The scheduled manufacture of more than 40,000 staple cotton mattresses in the state is being held up by unforeseen delays in delivery of materials and equipment.

Industries Heavily Taxed.

"The employment of persons on relief rolls in idle factories to produce supplies for others on the relief rolls," Mr. Donnelly said, "would not only establish a dangerous precedent but would also be manifestly unfair to industries engaged in the manufacture of similar supplies.

"Industries are now being heavily taxed to support the unemployed. Obviously they cannot continue to pay taxes if the government is to invade their field of business by setting itself up as a competitor.

"The net result of this program would be to increase the number on the relief rolls by throwing many who are now employed in private industry out of employment, and also to jeopardize the investment in private industry. Undoubtedly such a plan, if it is promoted, will meet with formidable resistance."

Seeks Rural Factories.

Clarence Humphrey, federal director of rehabilitation in communities where the population is 5,000 or less, said his department is trying to induce light manufacturing enterprises to establish facilities for employing the idle in rural areas. If abandoned industrial plants are found efforts are made to arrange for the use of these to produce goods for some of the million persons on relief rolls.

"We are not doing it to compete with established industries," Mr. Humphrey said. "In most cases we make things the clients wouldn't otherwise have."

Leo Lyons, who is director of the projects in Cook county, asserted that there is "nothing in the picture right now that would compete with private industry."

N. Y. SHOEMAKER MAY FORCE NRA TO LEGAL TEST

Attacks Validity Before Trade Commission.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—The NRA is "a dictatorial form of government never intended by the framers of the constitution."

This was the challenge which Edward J. Ramsey, small New York shoe manufacturer, flung at the New Dealers today when he was haled before the federal trade commission on charges of violating an NRA code.

While Ramsey was assailing the recovery administration a survey of government reports showed that in the thirteen-odd months since the first code went into effect 72,000 complaints have been lodged with the government against the NRA. Never since the days of prohibition has there been a law stirring up such a swarm of troubles as the NIRA.

Wide Variety of Complaints.

Business men complaining of monopolistic oppression under codes, workers complaining of chiseling on wages and hours, industrialists complaining of code infractions, unions quarreling over section 7A—72,000 of them in thirteen months have come trooping to the government because of trouble over the NRA. Thousands of others have let their complaints pass in silence or have not been noted down by the official government tally.

Here is the record of complaints against the NRA's New Deal:

Wages and hours complaints filed against industry with the NRA itself..	64,000
Small business complaints filed with Darrow board	3,375
NRA disputes handled by old Wagner labor board	4,369
Appeals to NRA appeals board and federal trade commission............	150
Total................................	71,894

In addition there are the hundreds of labor disputes before the new labor relations board, the pleas for code exemptions or exceptions which have come to the NRA, and all the unrecorded or inarticulate protests.

May Be Test Case.

Ramsey's bitter challenge to the New Dealers today, therefore, becomes another in a swelling chorus. His answer to the trade commission, which promises to precipitate an important test case, summed up industry's charges against the NRA.

In attacking the constitutionality of the NRA, Ramsey charged that it delegates legislative powers to the President, who in turn delegates them to an appointive officer. This, Ramsey chargs, is "a dictatorial form of government." The delegation of powers is in violation of article 1, section 1, of the constitution.

In addition Ramsey declared that the shoe code is not binding on the industry because the NRA drastically revised it between the time the industry drafted it and the time the President proclaimed it. This practice of the NRA, attacked by the Darrow board as dictatorial in other codes, invalidates the shoe code, Ramsey contends.

Promotes Monopoly, Charge.

NRA revisions in the draft of the code all tended to promote monopoly, Ramsey told the trade commission. He listed specifically several provisions of the code which he says are choking small concerns and driving the shoe business toward a monopoly.

The New Dealers "explain" the flood of complaints against the NRA by saying that most of them are duplications or the work of "cranks." The NRA itself, for instance, says that half of the 64,000 wage and hour complaints addressed to its state directors were duplications, overlooking the fact that each complaint has a grievance.

DECISION IN FIGHT OF MRS. BUDD ON NRA POSTPONED

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Federal Judge John M. Woolsey postponed today until Sept. 3 decision on the motion of Mrs. Kathryn Budd to amend the petition in her action seeking to restrain enforcement of home work provisions of the artificial flower and feather code.

Mrs. Budd contended the code provisions deprived her of the means of earning a livelihood.

Judge Woolsey deferred the matter because Judge Alfred C. Coxe, now on vacation, had heard the oral arguments.

BRIEF CONDEMNS 'COSTS' FIXED BY COAL CODE HERE

Real Estate Board Cites Variations.

Evidence supporting the protests of the Chicago Real Estate Board and the Building Managers Association of Chicago against the action of the retail coal code authority, which declared an "emergency" in this area and fixed "costs," were revealed in a copy of a brief obtained here yesterday. The brief was filed at Washington last week with Wayne P. Ellis, deputy code administrator for the industry.

"The total amount of coal purchased annually by the individual consumers represented in this appeal amounts to at least 750,000 tons," the brief declares. "The action taken by the divisional code authority in declaring an emergency and fixing the so-called lowest reasonable cost will add hundreds of thousands of dollars to their annual operating expense.

Real Estate "in Distress."

"Real estate holdings in Chicago are now in a distressed condition and there is no possibility of increased revenue to offset this burden.

The brief asks that the actions of the local code authority be set aside, declaring that the evidence submitted at a hearing does not support that body's finding that an emergency exists.

A wide variation in dealers' handling "costs", which it is contended are really selling prices, appear in the lists prepared by the code authority. On one type of coal, 2 inch washed screenings from the Linton-Sullivan district in Indiana, the dealers' margin is fixed at $1.09, while for 1¼ inch screenings originating in northern Illinois the margin is $2.14, an increase of almost 100 per cent.

Charge Destructive Price Cutting.

Again, 90 cents is the code margin for 2 inch washed stoker coal from the Indiana Linton-Sullivan territory, but $1.58 a ton is the charge listed for handling 1¼-1½ inch stoker from Evansville, Ind.

"We do not believe," says the brief, "that the testimony of a few dealers to the effect that they were not making any money, and in some cases losing money, constitutes sufficient evidence to warant the declaration of an emergency due to destructive price cutting."

DRESS COMPANY HEADS CALLED TO GRAND JURY QUIZ

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Officers and some fifty employés of the Loma Dress company, 463 Seventh avenue, have been subpenaed to appear before the federal grand jury Thursday in an investigation of alleged flagrant violations of the dress code of the national recovery act.

The Loma company is one of the largest in the dress industry. It farms work out to between twenty and thirty contractors, most of whom appeared before the grand jury last week to testify on their relations with the company.

The department of justice has been investigating the firm for several months, it was learned today. Charges of "kick-back" practices and evasion of income tax laws also are being investigated.

JOHNSON REPLIES TO CHARGES THAT HE VIOLATED NRA

Denies He Fired Donovan for Union Activity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chief of the NRA, today defended himself against charges that he has broken the labor sections of his own recovery laws.

The general filed a long statement with the national labor relations board denying that he fired John L. Donovan, head of the NRA workers' union, because of the latter's union activity. Yesterday the board heard Donovan and his aids charge Johnson with breaking section 7-A of the NIRA by his dismissal of the workers' leader.

Donovan was guilty of "insubordination" and has engaged "in tactics which seriously interfere with the government duties entrusted to me," Johnson said today in his own defense.

Discloses Donovan Threat.

While the general was trying to settle the Chicago stockyards strike and the San Francisco general strike, Donovan telegraphed the unions involved urging them to reject the general's efforts because he is unfair to labor, Johnson disclosed.

Donovan, he charged, served on him "an ultimatum containing an implied threat of consequences," but Johnson failed to divulge "the consequences."

"In view of these facts, well known to Donovan, his behavior demonstrated to me his unfitness for public service or any part in an emergency organization such as the NRA," Johnson argued. "I then called Dr. Peck, his immediate superior, to obtain his opinion as to the value of Donovan's services in other respects. Dr. Peck told me that the man had been on their dismissal list for months and was absent without leave for days at a time; that he was below par and should be dropped.

Says Real Facts Obscured.

"Donovan has apparently endeavored, by every public device available, to embarrass the administration and obscure the real facts of the case. For example, Donovan issued a statement to the press attacking me and all completed settlements of labor disputes in which I had participated.

"While this case has been before you, in the extremely delicate and important San Francisco and Chicago strikes, Donovan's representatives caused telegrams to be sent to the workers involved in the strikes urging them to refuse my services, which the unions involved in both cases had insistently requested. These strikes were settled to the satisfaction of both sides.

"Also, while this case has been pending here, his lodge has endorsed the picketing of the Commerce building, in which placards of an extremely insulting nature, referring both to me and the NRA, have been used. This type of conduct establishes the unfitness of the man to assume the oath of office or take any further part in the activities of the National Recovery administration."

RAPID TRANSIT LINES AND UNION AGREE TO ARBITRATE WAGES

Settlement of the wage dispute between the Chicago Rapid Transit company and 5,000 of its employés appeared likely yesterday when representatives of both sides agreed to arbitrate. The issue has been pending since last May, when the employés' wage contract expired and they demanded pay increases of 10 cents an hour.

Maurice Lynch, financial secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, has been named to represent the 5,000 members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employés, local 308, to which the elevated employés belong, in the arbitration proceedings. The company will be represented by Bernard J. Fallon, executive official of the receivers for the company. A third and neutral member of the arbitration board is the Rt. Rev. Dennis Dunne, pastor of the Holy Cross Catholic church, 842 East 65th street.

The date and place of public hearings in the arbitration are to be announced later. They will probably be determined at a meeting Friday. The wage scale to be arrived at will be retroactive to June 1.

Elevated employés' pay at present is: Regular motormen, 71.1 cents an hour; conductors, 66.6 cents an hour; guards, 64.8 cents an hour; towermen, 77.4 cents an hour, and ticket agents, $4.30 a day.

PROBE BOMBING OF SALOON IN SOUTH SUBURB

Police yesterday were investigating the explosion of a bomb in the entrance of the Highway tavern, 27th street and Chicago road in South Chicago Heights, the scene two weeks ago of the fatal shooting of two constables after a dispute over the arrest of a fan dancer. The explosion, which occurred an hour after the saloon was closed yesterday morning, wrecked the front of the building and damaged chairs and tables inside.

Peter Greenwood, owner of the place, told police that he knew of no motive for the bombing. He said that he has no enemies and received no threats.

Otto Emery, Chicago Heights constable, and William Piner, South Chicago Heights constable, were killed in the gun battle at the saloon two weeks ago.

Emery's widow charged that Chief of Police Winchell Hill of South Chicago Heights shot her husband several minutes after Emery had killed Piner. Chief Hill was exonerated by a coroner's jury.

ROOSEVELT MAPS DROUTH POLICY; TELLS IT TODAY

That there will be a sharp upward hike in the price of food this winter, officials of the department freely admitted. One economist estimated that the cost of living is slated for a five per cent rise. Translated into terms of food alone, this would mean a gain of 15 per cent in the price of foodstuffs generally.

By far the most serious problem confronting Mr. Wallace, however, was the acute shortage of feed for livestock. In one quarter it was estimated today that available forage and fodder supplies would feed only about 60 per cent of the available livestock. This means, it was explained, that the government must remove by purchase or by condemnation, nearly half the present live stock supply, for which no feed is available.

Shortage of feed, it was pointed out, means not only a shortage of meat supplies, but a shortage also of eggs, poultry, and other commodities which depend for production on grain and forage crops.

Mr. Roosevelt is expected to defend the crop reducing activities of the AAA, and to present his scheme for storing up surplus farm products in federally controled or owned granaries in bumper crop years, so as to meet deficiencies in drouth or lean years, at the same time controling the extent of surpluses by further crop reduction programs.

Drouth territory designated by the AAA has reached 1,405 counties in 24 states, 1,058 being classified as emergency counties. Aubrey Williams, acting administrator of the Federal Emergency Relief administration, said the 525 million dollar fund appropriated for drouth relief would be sufficient to carry on until the first of the year unless a work relief program was instituted, in which event huge funds would have to be made available from other sources. Of the 525 million dollar fund, 165 millions have been allocated by the relief administration.

Future of NRA.

The future of the NRA, debated lengthily today by the President and Mr. Richberg, will be laid next Tuesday before a joint meeting of the national emergency and the national executive councils. All the members of the cabinet and the principal officials of New Deal departments will sit in on a clinical observation of the patient. Prior to this meeting the President will confer with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator.

There appears to be a general agreement that the present NRA setup must be scrapped, to be supplanted by a commission of four or more members who will be drawn from various branches of industry and labor. Under them an administrator—but not Gen. Johnson—will direct the government's supervision of codes.

U. S. EASY MONEY EASY TO GET FOR TEXAS DAM JOB

Always a Way Out Under New Deal, It Appears.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Among the nonfederal allotments of public works easy money for water power and irrigation developments was a loan and grant of $4,500,000 to the Colorado River company of San Antonio, Tex., which had been turned down by the Reconstruction Finance corporation and whose application was opposed by the finance division of the PWA itself.

The amount of money involved in this project is relatively trivial, for four or five million dollars is not even ante money for the New Dealeres. The significance of the allotment, 80 per cent of which was a grant, lies in the rôle that statesmanship played. It shows that no matter how great the obstacles may be, there is always a way out under the New Deal.

Private Firm Organized.

The purpose of the loan and grant was to complete the Hamilton dam on the Colorado river, 80 miles northwest of Austin, Tex., which was left high and dry by the collapse of the Insull utility empire. A private company was organized to take over the project and complete it with PWA money so that it could sell water for power generation, irrigation and municipal supply.

The promoter of the company desiring to buy the water for these purposes was Ralph W. Morrison, a wealthy Texas cotton planter and friend of President Roosevelt, who is said to have contributed handsomely to the 1932 campaign fund. Mr. Morrison was a member of the President's delegation to the London economic conference last year.

When the Colorado River company, having been turned down as a bad risk by the RFC, came to the public works administration for a grant, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes also frowned upon the application. His principal reason was that the request was not made by a public body and the project contemplated had no public aspect. Mr. Ickes had decreed that only public authorities could get loans.

Engineer Objects to It.

Other reasons advanced for turning down the application were the failure of the PWA finance division to approve it, because the capacity of Morrison's company to purchase water had not been determined, and the objection of Douglas W. Ross, an engineer in the federal projects division of the PWA. Mr. Ross had been employed some years back by the water districts above the Hamilton dam and his objection was that the proposed project would take away water from irrigators up the river.

Under these circumstances it looked bad indeed for the Colorado River company, but not for long.

Mr. Ickes was informed that the entire Texas delegation, including Senators Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard and Representative James P. Buchanan were behind the project. He was given to understand that Mr. Buchanan was particularly interested, and Congressman Buchanan happened to be chairman of the house committee on appropriation. This threw an entirely different light on the subject, for the 3 billion, 300 million public works easy money fund was about all gone, and Mr. Ickes was seeking an additional appropriation.

Such Words Sufficient.

Congressman Buchanan is said to have intimated that the Colorado river project would go through or else . . . as the saying goes and an intimation from the chairman of the appropriations committee is ordinarily sufficient in such affairs of state.

On top of these persuasive circumstances a memorandum was prepared for Mr. Ickes in his own department, and it contained this solemn statement:

"The plan contemplates acquisition of said property by a corporation now being formed by Mr. R. W. Morrison of Texas, who is known to the President."

The application and proposed contract, thereupon, were modified in such a manner as to give the project a semblance of public character, and the allotment was made. The Colorado River company was obliged to give an option to the state of Texas, or a public authority to be created by it, to purchase the property when and if it desired to do so. The contract also called for an option to the state of Texas to buy up the property of any hydroelectric power company organized to purchase water from the Colorado River company. But there was a slight difference in the options.

May Not Have to Sell.

Whereas the first extends throughout the life of the federal loan, the second expires on July 1, 1935, so that, unless the Texas legislature creates a public body to buy it in the meantime, Mr. Morrison will not have to sell his property.

Having satisfied himself on the public character of the project, Mr. Ickes then undertook to safeguard the government's investment. The contract provided that the board of directors of the Colorado River company should include the three members of the board of water engineers of the state of Texas, five men to be appointed by Mr. Ickes and one other man, so that the administrator would have control of the board. Mr. Ickes is quoted as saying he could not be certain that the Texas legislature would take over the project, but that the federal funds were at least protected.

The company receiving the loan and grant has an equity of only 51 per cent in the property, for 49 per cent must be turned over to the Insull subsidiary which launched the project. The Hamilton dam was started about 1925 by the Central Texas Hydroelectric company, an Insull subsidiary, for the purpose of impounding a reservoir to sell water for hydroelectric use to one of its subsidiaries. After about $3,200,000 had been expended on the dam, the Central Texas company collapsed, along with its parent concerns all the way up to Middle West Utilities company. Some 78 per cent of the bonds were held by the Mississippi Valley Utility Investments company, another Insull subsidiary.

When the Colorado River company was organized to take over the dam, it entered into a contract with Eugene V. R. Thayer of Chicago, receiver of the Mississippi Valley company, to purchase the bonds for 49 per cent of the stock of the new company. This contract, contingent upon the federal loan, was approved by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley at Chicago.

Plant Can Be Purchased.

Under the terms of the federal contract the Colorado River company will trade its property for the securities of the Texas Public authority when, and if, one is created, on such terms as are approved by the board of directors, which Mr. Ickes controls. If the Texas Public authority desires to construct its own hydroelectric power plant to purchase the water, it will apply to PWA for an additional $1,500,000, and if not, it may enter into a contract with Mr. Morrison's company.

How much hydroelectric power can be developed at the Hamilton dam, how much the market will absorb and how much land can be irrigated with water from the reservoir are matters still to be worked out by the applicant and the PWA authorities. The dam will be 10,000 feet long, from a few feet to 137 feet high, and will form a reservoir with an effective storage of 800,000 acre feet.

Fire Sweeps Top Floors of State Relief Building

Fire last night swept through the upper floors of a four story brick building at 1222 South Michigan avenue, which houses the bookkeeping department and examination rooms of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission on the first two floors. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

LEGION CENSURES MISS PERKINS FOR STAND ON ALIENS

Deportation Attitude Flayed in California.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.—(AP)—A resolution to censure Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins for her alleged failure to deport undesirable aliens was adopted unanimously by the resolution committee of the American Legion, department of California, after a stormy session here today.

The convention proper meanwhile heard National Commander Edward A. Hayes denounce communism, and call for universal service in time of war and for elimination of profit making from conflicts.

Referring to the resolution against the secretary of labor, M. M. Garrett, San Francisco, a Republican, exclaimed:

"This is the damndest thing ever to come before the American Legion. Here we are jumping up like a bunch of schoolboys and attempting to censure a member of the cabinet."

Asserts Deportation Impossible.

Other speakers also opposed the resolution, which had been proposed by the Legion's Americanization committee.

A telegram from Secretary Perkins to Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary who is here conducting arbitration between longshoremen and waterfront employers, declared it was impossible, under the present statutes, to deport aliens unless their countries could be persuaded to accept them.

The message also pointed out that until recently lack of diplomatic relations with soviet Russia had made impossible the obtaining of passports to that country as part of the deportation process. The department, Secretary Perkins added, was enforcing the immigration laws to the best of its ability.

Asks Profit Elimination.

Taking the profit out of warfare by conscripting all industries, as well as man power, would be a guarantee of peace, Commander Hayes declared.

Speaking of radical activities, Hayes said a definite communistic movement was under way in this country and that the American Legion was making war upon its teachings.

READY TO USE FEDERAL LOANS TO REPAIR HOMES

Other Buildings Also Are Provided For.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—With news reel cameras buzzing and officials of the American Bankers' association and the National Housing administration looking on, E. C. Graham, a Washington bank president, this afternoon handed a $1,200 check to Miss Alma McGrum, a home owner.

JAMES A. MOFFETT.

What the administration hopes will be a billion dollar home repair program was started.

James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, said preliminary reports indicated an extension of credit facilities under the national housing act to every community in the United States by the end of the week. Details of the plan had not reached some outlying sections, but information was available at banks, finance companies and building and loan associations with aggregate resources of almost five billion dollars, Mr. Moffett said. The credit facilities were said to be available in cities and towns with populations aggregating 39,930,568.

Tells How to Get Cash.

The administration also made public a booklet entitled "How Owners of Homes and Business Property Can Secure the Benefits of the National Housing Act," which is being distributed to banks and all other credit institutions throughout the country. The booklet gives 19 rules for obtaining a loan for building repair purposes under the housing act, with the government guaranteeing the note up to 20 per cent.

Stimulated employment in the building trades and the release of capital now lying idle are the aims of the campaign.

The booklet explains that any property owner may apply for a housing loan to any bank, building and loan association, or other finance company approved by the administration for a loan of $100 to $2,000 for improvements on the property. Notes are made to run up to three years and the only security is a good credit standing in the community and a regular income.

Limit Placed on Fees.

The finance companies may not charge more than $5 per $100 in fees, interest, or discounts, and the notes are to be repaid in equal monthly instalments. Applications may be made for family residences, apartment buildings, stores, office buildings, factories, warehouses, farm buildings, garages, or any other kind of housing or business property.

Kane County Treasurer Told to Refund $3,802

Leslie L. L. Urch, treasurer of Kane county, must refund to the county $3,802 he paid, as commissions, to a collector of delinquent personal taxes. Marcus Damish, chairman of the county board, and L. C. Cline, chairman of the board's finance committee, who issued the refunding order, asserted that no such commission had been ordered by them. State's Attorney George Carbary served notice of the board's order on the treasurer.

22 ARRESTED AFTER POLICE QUELL RIOTING AT BROOKLYN PLANT

New York, Aug. 15.—[Special.]—One man was injured, another fainted, and twenty-two persons, nine of them women, were arrested in Brooklyn tonight when fifty policemen, with nightsticks swinging, charged rioters outside the plant of the Commodore Knitting Mills, Inc.

Officials of the plant had complained of mass picketing since Aug. 8, when forty workers went on strike demanding recognition of the Knit Goods Workers' union, an affiliate of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union, which in turn is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Sergt. William Fries of the Stagg street station sent in the call for the emergency squads when, the police say, 800 pickets converged on the plant in two columns when the plant was closing.

The rioters refused to disperse when ordered by the police, the latter said, and a free-for-all fight followed.

ROBBER IS SHOT, PAL CAPTURED; HUNT ANOTHER

The police yesterday were seeking Clyde W. Lamb, alias Jimmy Benson, as the third member of a trio of robbers who took $33.58 in an early morning holdup of the Happy Hour tavern in Hammond.

The robbery ended in a gun battle. Charles Somepiner, 38 years old, a Negro of Gary, one of the robbers, was shot and critically wounded by a railroad detective known to police only as Jones. The other bandit, Rocco Bennett, 20 years old, was arrested after the robbery in his home at 205 West State street, Calumet City.

Somepiner and his two companions early yesterday kidnaped Harry Mundt, a cab driver, bound and gagged him, and forced him to ride in the back seat of the cab as they drove from Calumet City to Hammond. At the tavern Bennett remained in the cab while the other two went in and looted the cash drawer. Jones, a customer in the place, shot Somepiner in a gun fight and opened fire on the Negro. Lamb and Bennett fled. Somepiner, who was taken to St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond, gave police the names of his companions.

Consumers Stores Ask Writ to Block Union Picketing

The Consumers Sanitary Coffee and Butter stores yesterday filed suit in the Circuit court asking an injunction to restrain members of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International union, local 2, from picketing their 335 stores in Chicago and their main baking plant at 8205 Vincennes avenue. The suit charges that on July 19 the union employés struck because the company refused to operate on a closed shop basis. Several acts of vandalism in the company stores have occurred since, the suit alleges.

Forger of Relief Checks Gets 1 to 10 Year Term

After he admitted in court that he had forged $500 in checks of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, where he was employed as a fire guard, George Bonkowski, 31 years old, 3125 West 46th place, was sentenced yesterday to one to ten years in the penitentiary by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer in the Criminal court. On Monday Bonkowski withdrew a not guilty plea and pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a confidence game. Several forgery counts were nol prossed.

REVIVED KLAN PLANS DRIVE ON ALIEN RADICALS

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—The Ku Klux Klan announced a revival of activities here today. At the seventh "imperial klonvocation" Chief of Staf M. O. Dunning announced a campaign to rid the labor movement, and in fact the nation, of the "stream of alien radical propaganda which if not stopped at once will eat into the very heart of our government." Dunning fears especially the infiltration of alien radicals into the labor movement in this country.

"The klan believes," the statement says, "that the great American labor movement in all of its phases should have a majority of native born Americans, properly organized, so that they could deliver at all times to this nation a native American leadership. This leadership, under those conditions, would naturally be patriotic and practical. There would be very few differences which could not be adjusted when American employés meet with American employers upon a common ground of American thought and action. There never has been a time in the history of our great nation when it has been necessary for us to draft alien brains to settle our domestic problems."

The klan announcement also says: "An act has been drawn by a group of able attorneys of national repute, which we intend to sponsor and introduce in every state legislature in this nation. This act, if passed, will make it impossible for any group or individual to function in an attempt to undermine the constitution of these United States."

A BUSINESS MAN IN OVERALLS!

City folks often think the milk producing business is just a cinch—just milk the cows, ship in the milk and reap your profits. But it isn't as easy as all that. Dairy farming is a complicated, serious business. Experience, judgment and care are involved in the building up of a productive herd. Selection of best seed for particular soil for raising feed involve knotty problems, too. Labor, equipment and feed costs have to be watched and recorded carefully. The rigid city and state health requirements covering the care of cows, equipment and buildings have to be scrupulously observed. Rain or shine, Saturday afternoon and holidays, the cows have to be milked twice daily, fed, cleaned and kept healthy just like humans. And then on top of that—along come crop failure, drought and chinch bug invasions—and a year's work is destroyed. Nothing to do but hitch up your belt and start all over again. Then it takes grit and COURAGE to carry on! Think of these things when you buy your milk!

The Pure Milk Association

is the co-operative of 18,000 dairy farmers with a $288,000,000 plant and farm investment who supply Chicagoans daily with 2,000,000 quarts of pure fresh milk! This organization maintains its own laboratories and staff of university trained field men. They help co-operating milk dealers and health authorities to give Chicago the best milk supply of any large city in the world.

NOTE: This advertisement is one of a series published by Pure Milk Assoc., 608 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, to acquaint the public with the dairy farmer's side of the milk problem.

MARY PICKFORD TO MEET DOUG IN HOLLYWOOD SOON

Actress Silent on Chance of Reconciliation.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—After a separation of more than a year, Hollywood's first couple—Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks—whose marital troubles have the film capital all agog, plan to meet here at an early conference. Miss Pickford disclosed this information today upon her arrival home from Chicago.

The meeting is expected to take place immediately upon the arrival in Hollywood of her athletic husband from Europe, where he has been sojourning for several months. He is now en route to New York on the Italian liner Rex after having taken an abrupt departure from the side of Lady Ashley, with whose name his was linked in a London romance.

Silent on Nature of Meeting.

Miss Pickford was extremely reticent concerning the nature of the impending conference and the possibilities of a reconciliation with her husband. Though she loosed her well known smiles on her interviewers and the crowd of fans who paid homage to America's sweetheart, she sobered perceptibly when she talked briefly of her estrangement.

"I feel the less said about the entire matter, the better," she asserted. "In fact, I regret that the public has seen fit to become so highly interested in the matter. And following my conference with Mr. Fairbanks I very likely shall have even less to say about my domestic affairs than I have now."

She said that Fairbanks plans to fly from New York to Denver to attend the funeral of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Fairbanks, who died recently in Los Angeles. Then he will proceed directly to Hollywood.

Speculation in Film Colony.

There was considerable speculation in the film colony as to the subject of the couple's conference. Many thought it indicated a reconciliation, but others believed it was to effect a property settlement preceding action on the divorce suit which Miss Pickford has on file.

Only last Thursday an affidavit was filed in Superior court here stating that Miss Pickford had obtained service by publication in her suit, which was filed before Fairbanks and Lady Ashley became so friendly in London.

The couple has extensive property holdings here, including "Pickfair," their half million dollar Beverly Hills mansion, and a block of stock in the United Artists studio.

When Miss Pickford stepped from her train at Pasadena into the midst of a large crowd of autograph seekers she was clad in a charming traveling ensemble of blue and white printed triple sheer with white collar and cuffs of pique.

She said she had a number of business projects pending, but was superstitious about discussing them in advance of their adoption.

"I have learned that it's unwise to make a definite announcement on pictures before the contracts are signed," she said. "But I do hope to appear in a play for Henry Duffy, though it will have to be something picturable. He wanted me for 'Mary, Queen of Scots,' but I declined because the play is to run only two weeks.

"The type of rôle I prefer in a stage play is the real, down to earth human character. I do not want to do society parts that have been featured in scripts submitted to me. There are many others who wear their clothes better than I do, and all that sort of thing."

DISPLAY LAMPS TO PROVIDE NEW LIGHT EFFECTS

How colored lighting effects and new types of lamps may play a new and important part in the interior decoration of homes was demonstrated yesterday at a luncheon in the Administration building of the World's Fair.

By means of colored lights directed on 13 paintings of A Century of Progress, which were executed last year and purchased by the Westinghouse company, it was shown how the colors of the artist's palette were enriched and enlivened.

The collection will be shown and the lecture and demonstration repeated four times a day tomorrow and Friday at the Marshall Field & Co. store in the loop, and next week from Monday to Friday, inclusive, beginning at 11 a. m. The Westinghouse company has displayed the paintings and given the light demonstration in several cities throughout the country.

"This same effect can be produced in homes, the lights adding that sought after thing, the third dimension, to your paintings," said the lecturer, Charles Newcomb. "Colored lights instaled elsewhere in the home can provide various moods which hostesses want to effect. Thus in the summer time cool, green lights may be used, and in the winter, warm tones."

Boy, 15, Playing on Bridge Drowns in Sanitary Canal

While playing on the Illinois Northern bridge over the sanitary district canal at 31st street and Central Park avenue yesterday, a boy believed to be Robert Shmelik, 15 years old, who lived in the vicinity of 19th street and Washtenaw avenue, fell into the canal and was drowned. Three playmates who witnessed the accident notified the Lawndale police, who dragged the canal for the body.

IRISH TAKE OVER THE FAIR TODAY; EXPECT 100,000

Program Includes Music, Pageantry, Speeches.

BY EARL MULLIN.

There will be wearing of the green and singing of the glories of the "Old Sod" today when the sons and daughters of Erin assemble on the lake front to celebrate Irish day at the Fair. The Irish will take over the Exposition for the day, and they promise a larger turnout than that of any national group at this year's Fair.

The program as completed yesterday is a transplanted part of Ireland, and is replete with speeches, music, jigs, reels, and ballads. Miss Margaret McCormick, 19 years old, 613 North Trumbull avenue, was chosen last night at the Irish Village as Miss Shamrock I., and will act as queen for the day.

100,000 Attendance Expected.

"With the Irish-American population of Chicago estimated at close to a million there is no reason why we should not reach the goal of one hundred thousand attendance we have set," said James C. Denvir, secretary of the committee.

Members of twenty-four Irish, Catholic, and labor organizations are taking part in the day's events. The program will start with a ceremony honoring three Irish heroes who took part in the defense of Fort Dearborn at the time of the massacre in 1812. They were Ensign Ronan and Sergts. Hayes and Caldwell. A short commemorative program will be held at the Michigan avenue bridge at noon, followed by a parade to 18th street and Michigan avenue, scene of the massacre. More than a ton of flowers will be distributed on the way.

Following the parade, Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk, will make an address at the Illinois Host house. Another ceremony will be held at Fort Dearborn on the Fair grounds before a luncheon in Tara hall at the Irish Village.

Speakers on Formal Program.

The formal program will be held from 3 p. m. until evening in the Court of States. Quin O'Brien of the corporation counsel's office will make the principal address, which will be carried over radio station W-G-N.

Other speakers will include Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair; Daniel J. McGrath, Irish consul general; Mayor Kelly, Rev. Ambrose M. Griffin, and Albert J. Horan. The Rev. B. J. Shiel, auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of Chicago, will deliver the invocation.

A program of music, dances, and songs, participated in by a score of theatrical stars and radio performers, will entertain visitors during the celebration in the Court of States.

7,000,000th Visitor Due Today.

The seven millionth visitor to the 1934 Fair is expected to pass through the turnstiles today, the 82d day of the Exposition. Yesterday's attendance reached 106,224 at midnight, breaking the record of the previous highest Tuesday, Aug. 7, when the total was 105,538.

With yesterday's attendance exceeding 100,000 there have been 23 such days at this year's Exposition, and the daily average when the seven millionth visitor enters the grounds will be 85,889.

"At this rate," said Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, "we are closely approaching the average of 100,000 daily which we had looked forward to as the number which would assure that the Fair definitly is a success. With an average of 100,000 daily the total at the close of the Fair would be 15,000,000, and would be up to our expectations."

Fort Dearborn Massacre 122d Anniversary Today

Today is the 122d anniversary of the Fort Dearborn massacre, in which sixty men, women, and children were killed or captured by the Indians. Mayor Kelly urged all Chicagoans to commemorate the tragedy by flying the American flag from homes and buildings. The massacre took place in 1812 at what is now 18th street and Prairie avenue.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert Rogers of Nash, Okla., brought a jar of potatoes to the Fair yesterday, explaining that they put the potatoes in the jar to preserve them. It is so dry in Oklahoma the Rev. Mr. Rogers said, that it is necessary to keep them this way in order to preserve as much of the moisture as possible. He exchanged the potatoes for an admission to the Fair.

The West Virginia exhibit in the Hall of States was host to 443 members of the Annie Duncan Woowine tourist group from Bluefield, W. Va., yesterday in a special program in which the officials of the exhibit and officers of the Fair participated.

Tabulation of the registration book in the Wilson & Co. exhibit at the Fair showed last night that more visitors from Pennsylvania had visited the exhibit than from any other state outside Illinois. Other statistics compiled by the packers showed that visitors had consumed a little less than a million hamburgers at the company food stands.

Dr. Chevalier Jackson of Philadelphia, Pa., a throat specialist and a governor of the American College of Surgeons, will give an illustrated talk in the south lecture room of the Hall of Science at 5 p. m. tomorrow.

More than 1,500 persons have had flash or flood light portraits of themselves taken indoors on their own cameras at the Hall of Photography.

The "Bowery pawn shop," a concession within The Bowery at the World's Fair, where various articles are auctioned off to visitors, was ordered permanently closed by World's Fair officials last night. Chief Investigator John O'Donnell said he was acting on the request of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Secrets of the marionette craft will be revealed at the one thousandth performance of the Buster Brown marionettes tomorrow at 4:30 p. m. in the General Exhibits building. Stunts which seem almost human when performed by wooden actors will be explained by Meyer Levin.

HONOR GOVERNOR AT WORLD'S FAIR NEW MEXICO DAY

New Mexico day was observed at the Fair yesterday with Gov. A. W. Hockenhull as guest of honor. The official party, including members of the executive's family and staf, was greeted in the Court of Honor by sailors, soldiers, and marines from Camp Roosevelt and by a nineteen gun salute.

The governor was received by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, following the military reception. A parade of military forces, cowboys and cowgirls, and Indians in costume marched down the Avenue of Flags and to the Court of States for the formal program.

The Salvation Army women's division, of which Mrs. Charles King Corsant is president, will hold a reception and tea this afternoon for Gov. Hockenhull and his party. The tea will be held at the Salvation Army doughnut hut in the Pantheon de la Guerre at A Century of Progress. The governor is chairman of the border line division board of the army.

THIS HERO AWAITS ANOTHER REEL IN HIS COURT MOVIE

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Caetano Criccio, 56, was arraigned in court today before Magistrate David Malbin to answer the charge that he shot Joseph Caputo, 24, of Brooklyn.

Criccio, after the shooting, said Caputo was a racketeer, having extorted $40 as protection for a pastry shop.

Friends were in court, congratulating Criccio; movie cameramen were there; he said, "yes, I kill him," into the film microphones. Walter R. Hart, his attorney, spoke, and District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan talked of coöperation good citizens should give against racketeers.

Detective Edward Wright seemed the only dissenter. He conferred with another assistant district attorney, who spoke to Geoghan. Then Criccio went to jail. He will get a hearing on Friday.

CHICAGO HOME WEEK OPENING SET FOR SEPT. 9

A civic Homecoming Week festival, to be held Sept. 9 to 18 and annually thereafter, was announced yesterday by the Keep Chicago Ahead Civic committee, sponsored by Mayor Kelly. A week of community activities and parades will be climaxed with a dramatic spectacle depicting the history of Chicago.

Officials of the committee met with officers of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday to discuss plans for the event. R. J. Thain, advertising manager of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., was named head of a committee to arrange the participation of all Chicago firms. Other members are Roy M. Henry, assistant general manager of Butler Brothers, and D. J. O'Grady, advertising manager of Marshall Field & Co.

Merchants will coöperate by decorating their windows with gay pennants and flags. Sept. 4 has been named Wholesalers and Manufacturers' Dollar day, which will give retailers the opportunity of making purchases in anticipation of the week.

TRIBUNE'S FREE AUTO TEST LANE OPENS TO PUBLIC

Officials Attend Event; Commend Service.

BY HAL FOUST.

THE TRIBUNE yesterday inaugurated its free mechanical inspection service for the motorists of Chicagoland.

A queue of cars two and a half blocks long was waiting to drive over the testing lane at 401 East Ontario street when the gates were opened at 2 p. m. Thereafter okay stickers or cards reporting defects were issued at a rate of one a minute until the closing hour.

Mayor Kelly and others interested in halting the toll of Chicago's trafic accidents attended the opening. The others included Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club; George W. Fleming, secretary of the keep Chicago safe committee; Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the council street and safety committee; Leslie Sorenson, city trafic engineer, and Capt. David Flynn, head of the police trafic division.

Coupon All That's Needed.

The lante will be open again today from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. and continue to operate these hours daily except Saturday and Sunday. The Saturday hours are 2 to 7 p. m., and the service is closed on Sunday. The only charge is a coupon published in THE TRIBUNE.

The first car over the lane was driven by Al Hirsch, 4136 Kenmore avenue. To obtain this distinction he parked in front of the testing machines at 12:55 p. m. The mayor, Mr. Hayes, and a couple of Municipal court judges requested this honor, but they were told they would have to wait their turn.

As Mr. Hirsch drove his 1928 Ford sedan onto the concrete lane two TRIBUNE mechanics with instruments that looked like cameras stepped forward and focused on his headlights. These were found to be okay. Tail lights, horn, windshield wiper and stop light also were okay.

The sedan was driven forward a few feet, passing over two movable metal plates. These determined that the wheels were in proper alignment. The driver moved forward a few feet and applied his brakes with each wheel on a separate movable plate.

Front Brakes Defective.

The deceleration pull on each of the tires was registered on four tubes containing red fluid. The front wheels were not braking.

Mr. Hirsch was given a report card with the results of the inspection noted thereon. He said he was going to get his brakes fixed.

The second car in line likewise failed to get an okay sticker for the windshield. It was a 1928 Chrysler driven by A. J. Carvilla, 4718 Bernice avenue. It was found to have no tail light, the bright road lights were burned out, the right head light pointed high, and the rear brakes were weak.

The third automobile in the line was the first to receive complete approval by the seven able mechanics hired by THE TRIBUNE to perform this service for the public. It was a 1933 Chrysler coupé driven by T. M. Kettrick, 221 South 16th avenue, Maywood.

Test 326 in Day.

The mechanics inspected 326 cars before the testing lane closed. During the first two hours 140 machines were examined but the line thinned out during the evening and after the dinner hour. The tests required an average of three minutes and 16 seconds each.

Only 14 per cent of the autos were found to be in good condition throughout. Mechanics found 61 per cent had defective brakes, 40 per cent had one or more wheels out of alignment, 14 per cent had no stop lights, 8 per cent had no tail lights, 2 per cent had defective steering gear, 1 per cent had no rear view mirrors, 4 per cent lacked windshield wipers and 2 per cent lacked horns.

Six drivers, refused okay tags, had their cars repaired and returned later in the day for second tests. All received the tags.

"With much fixing of automobiles and no fixing of trafic tickets, there should be a material reduction in Chicago's death rate from motor accidents," said Mayor Kelly.

All to Face Judge.

On Monday night he announced that his safety campaign was not going to increase the number of trafic arrests but was going to see that all defendants face a judge rather than a precinct captain or alderman.

"We spent $200,000,000 to fight typhoid fever that did not take as many lives as the automobiles are taking today," the mayor continued. "THE TRIBUNE is to be complimented on this attack against the trafic accident epidemic."

"Most of the drivers of defective cars are unaware of the dangerous condition of their automobiles," said Mr. Fleming, former governor of the Kiwanis club, now heading the mayor's safety commission. "The motorists welcome this opportunity to get a report on their automobiles free from any suspicion that the mechanics might be trying to sell something."

"Violators brought into the Trafic court ought to be compelled by the judge to have their automobiles inspected here," suggested Mr. Hayes. "I favor a system like the one in operation in Memphis—compulsory mechanical tests for all cars."

Tom Hogan, president of the Yellow Cab company, requested permission to run his 2,300 taxis through the lane. Arrangements were being made last night to comply with this request at hours that will not interfere with the private car owners.

The inspection service had been in operation but two hours when employés of a nearby garage were discovered circulating handbills near the testing lanes. A mounted policeman ordered them away, and Capt. Flynn said that any further effort to chisel business from this enterprise would result in arrest.

THE TRIBUNE does not make any suggestion as to where repair work, adjustments, or replacements should be made. The owners merely are told what is wrong and it is left to them to decide whether they should have their work done.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia, suffered cuts on the face and one knee when his car, which he was driving, collided with a truck near Berchtesgaden today. His body guard, following in a second car, took Goering to a nearby hospital at Bad Eibling, where his wounds were bandaged. Goering continued on to his country home at Obersalzberg, where he was visited by Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

43 BANDS TO PLAY IN SPECTACLE AT MUSIC FESTIVAL

1,600 Performers Will Enter in "Waves."

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Forty-three bands playing martial music while they enter Soldiers' field in "waves"—a maneuver seldom before attempted—will be one of the spectacles in sound to greet the vast audience at the Chicagoland Music Festival, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE Saturday night.

VICTOR GRABEL.

Victor Grabel, who has been general musical director of the festival every year since it was first held in 1930, yesterday announced the details of the band entrance formations which he has developed particularly for this occasion, and which will be executed by 1,600 bandsmen.

At each of seven entrances to the field six bands will congregate—two of the smaller bands being combined in the innovation. Then, standing on the platform at the north end of the stadium, Mr. Grabel will give the marching and playing order. This will be carried by telephone to each entrance and one band from each of the seven groups will swing into the field playing Sousa's "Washington Post March."

Lights to Give Cadence.

All the bands will be playing in unison, taking their cadence from five winking red lights located about the field. The lights will be controled by an electric button operated by Mr. Grabel. As the audience rises to the stirring melody of the Sousa march the seven bands will converge in the center of the field, spreading out until they form ranks forty men long.

When they have concluded, the signal will be given again and the second wave of seven bands will enter playing Sousa's "High School Cadets." In order the four other waves will follow playing two of Mr. Grabel's marches, "Down the Street" and "Junior Cadets," and two Sousa pieces, "The United States Field Artillery" and "Liberty Bell."

When all the bands are in the center of the field they will form a huge square, forty men deep by forty men long. Facing the south end of the stands, the 1,600 bandsmen will break into "Fairest of the Fair," another Sousa tune.

Again about facing, the bandsmen will play the ever popular "Stars and Stripes Forever," after which there will come a signal of dismissal. The bandsmen will then range themselves in two groups at the left and right side of the platform stage, where they will remain until the conclusion of the festival.

Thirty of the bands in the maneuvers are from cities in the Chicagoland area. They will compete in contests at the Drake and Knickerbocker hotels Saturday afternoon and the members of the two winning organizations—an adult band and a juvenile band—will receive gold medals from THE TRIBUNE and will play individual selections during the evening.

Two other bands are from St. Stephen's parochial school of Chicago and the St. Columbia school of Ottawa, Ill., and the other eleven in the program are Illinois National Guard bands.

In addition to these bands THE TRIBUNE's festival band will perform throughout the evening. Under the direction of Mr. Grabel this group of 100 musicians will play as their first selection the fiery "Allegro Con Brio," the finale of Tschaikowsky's fourth symphony.

Band to Accompany Chorus.

Later they will accompany the Choral Directors' guild when it sings "The Holy City" and the "St. Louis Blues" arrangement by the Chicago a capalla chorus under Noble Cain. "The Old Spinning Wheel," arranged by Mr. Grabel, will be another of the band's selections after it has played the ballet music for the fesival dance pageant in which 1,300 girls from all over the city will participate.

The festival band will accompany John Charles Thomas, famous baritone, when he sings "Pagliacci."

It will provide the music for the Hallelujah chorus of 6,000 voices, the Boy Scouts' program and the fireworks finale.

[The Cathryne Bennett singers win women's choral contest in Cook county semi-finals held in conjunction with Music Festival. Details on page 17.]

ARE YOU IN GOOD VOICE?

How Are the High Notes?

You'll need them Saturday night at Soldiers' Field when you join 100,000 singing "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" and "Sweet Adeline."

Practice the choruses. Then get your tickets to the Music Festival at any of the Tribune's Public Service offices. Tickets are 25 and 50 cents.

FORMER PREMIER DIGS AT CAROL AND HIS SWEETIE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Julius Maniu, former premier of Rumania and leader of the Peasant party, made a significant speech tonight. Some quarters interpreted it as a prelude to a crisis in Rumania's long suppressed political situation.

Without mentioning either King Carol or his mistress, Mme. Magda Lupescu, Maniu made what was nevertheless considered unmistakable reference to the two.

"I am a monarchist myself," said Maniu, addressing a meeting of 5,000 persons in a garden restaurant, "and the Rumanian people is monarchist. But monarchy must itself be monarchist. The crown must respect itself and no responsibility can be taken from it."

Maniu also referred to an "unwanted person who embittered the last days of King Ferdinand and who should not have been permitted to return after the restoration."

Cheers greeted this reference.

CHINA EXECUTES 5 FOR SLAYING OF U. S. MISSIONARY

TIENTSIN, China, Aug. 14.—(AP)—China exacted retribution today for the murder of Dr. J. H. Ingram, 57 year old American missionary, by bandits two months ago. The provincial government executed five Chinese convicted of the crime.

Dr. Ingram was shot to death in his summer bungalow outside Peiping as he sought to protect his wife and grandchildren from a band of robbers which entered the house late at night. The National government at Nanking pressed a search for the slayers.

Dr. Ingram, a medical missionary who had spent 50 years in China, was often called "China's best foreign friend." He was a native of Richland county, Ohio.

AUSTRALIA, WELL ON TO RECOVERY, CALLS ELECTION

People Are Asked to Vote Against Radicalism.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 14.—Whether Australia is to continue to carry out its premiers' plan of rehabilitation or revert to a change of government in favor of labor policies will be bitterly fought out at the coming federal elections on Sept. 15.

The present United Australian party government, in power under the leadership of Prime Minister J. A. Lyons, decided unexpectedly upon September for the elections in order to receive an early and decisive mandate from the people on the continuance of its policies not only to balance budgets and reduce taxation, but also to put into operation a vast agricultural finance program for the relief and rehabilitation of the farmers.

Country Party Rebels.

The forthcoming elections were also precipitated by the revolt of the strong Country party, headed by Dr. Earle Page, former federal treasurer in the Bruce-Page Nationalist government of 1927-'29, against the allied United Australian party on the issues of tarif reform and relief to the agricultural interests.

Though the Australian public mentality is predominantly conservative, the machinery of party politics today makes the political field appear rather splotched, with divided groups of the rank and file in place of the two big parties of three years ago—Labor and Nationalist.

The recurring arguments over a period of 15 years between the Nationalist and Country parties is far from being healed as yet, but it is believed the agricultural political bloc will continue to give support to the conservative and constructive policies of the United Austrialian party rather than ally itself with Labor. At any rate, the United Australian party has compromised with the Country party over the issues of tarif reform and financial relief to farmers in order to win at the coming elections.

Labor Camp Split.

In the Labor camp, the map presents a wide division of the old time Australian "orthodox" Labor group and the insurgent state Labor groups headed by J. T. Lang, former premier of New South Wales, who was dismissed from office in May, 1932, by the king's governor, Sir Phillip Game.

It appears most likely that Prime Minister Lyons will be returned to power for another three years. Both the press and public opinion seem to sense the success of the premier's plan, which has definitly put the commonwealth's house in order and restored confidence in national recovery.

If the Lyons government can get all of its 38 members returned to parliament without any assistance from the Country party, it will still hold power over the combined forces of the Country party and the split groups of Labor, all of which comprise just 37 members.

Both the Lang and Federal Labor groups advocate some form of nationalization of finance, credit, and industry, on which the public of Australia put "thumbs down" at the last elections.

Record of Present Régime.

The present government has an enviable record in the last three years of balancing its federal budget, establishing a surplus of $6,500,000, reducing unemployment, building up a $200,-000,000 favorable trade balance in London, converting more than $550,-000,000 in overseas loans at lower rates of interest and otherwise restoring public confidence in the affairs of state.

Australian government securities have risen 56 per cent over the last two years until today they stand near par.

It is significant that the present state and federal governments, all pledged to adherence to the premier's plan, have turned a deficit of more than $200,000,000 in 1931 to a deficit of only $30,000,000 in the states and a surplus of $6,500,000 in federal government affairs as of June 30, 1934. All state governments expect to have their budgets balanced by next June.

Worried by Secession Threat.

The federal government is also seriously concerned with the determination of West Australia to secede from the federation. The people of West Australia have already voiced their opinion, three to one, in favor of secession and their present government has taken action to present their case to Downing street or King George in London. It is expected that the issue will be sent back for the federal government and the other Australian states to settle under the constitution.

There are still open threats of secession by force, though the return of the present federal government to power at the September elections will similarly be a mandate from the people to fight any threat or hope of secession.

Spain Claims Mobilization of Army Is Merely a Test

MADRID, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Diego Hidalgo, minister of war, said today the mobilization of the Spanish army, which was viewed with alarm by Socialists, is merely an annual test of military organizations such as "every army needs to uphold its efficiency."

"Spain is demilitarized, and these maneuvers have no bellicose significance," the minister said. "They do not indicate the country is facing any danger."

POLAND'S GAIN OF 400,000 IN YEAR REVEALS DANGER

Land Is Regarded as Overpopulated.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Aug. 14.—The announcement of the government that the population of Poland increased 402,465 least year is regarded by some as a warning of a serious danger of further overpopulation.

Others recall that Poland's population is today 33,000,000, against the 66,000,000 Germans, and estimate that if Poland can maintain her present birth rate for another twenty years she can equal the number of Germans.

Just where these Poles are to find a living nobody dares speculate, for the country is overpopulated today and has not the funds to reclaim the vast Pinsk swamps in eastern Poland, where it is believed some additional millions of Poles could be settled.

Leads Percentage Race.

Against the large Polish increase, according to statisticians, the German increase was 226,113, Holland gained 99,194 people, England gained 83,948, Czechoslovakia 82,377, and France 21,598. Poland also reported the largest natural increase in population (births minus deaths) with 12.3 per 1,000 inhabitants per year. The second place in Europe is occupied by Holland with 12.1.

The depression has not affected the Polish birth rate. Figures for the first three months of 1934 reveal a 20 per cent increase in the natural growth of the population over the figures of last year. This is said to be due to the decrease in infant mortality during the first year of life.

Marriages Decrease.

Marriages, on the other hand, have decreased for the same period by 11.6 per cent. During the first quarter the population of Poland increased by 96,-463, as compared with 80,854 of the same period last year.

Polish birth rate statistics, which are considered first page news in Poland, are also closely followed by the German press. The Germans are frankly afraid of the increasing mass of Poles in the east and are indorsing the efforts of the Hitler régime to stimulate the German birth rate. East Prussia, they declare, is especially threatened by this pressure on its frontier, and to offset this danger Germany is planning to settle one million German in east Prussia during the next ten years.

VON PAPEN FLIES FOR AUSTRIA BUT STOPS OFF TO SEE HITLER

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Franz von Papen, who is switching from the vice chancellorship to the post of minister to Austria, started for Vienna by airplane today and apparently got as far as Chancellor Hitler's summer home at Berchtesgaden, Bavaria.

His airplane reached Munich with his baggage, but without the vice chancellor. Authorities there said they did not know his whereabouts, but it was reliably learned that he was spending the evening with Hitler.

Von Papen was told good-by at the Berlin airport by Frau Von Papen and other close friends. A grim touch was added to the departure by the presence of a small detachment of Hitler's black uniformed guard, the Schutz Staffel. Photographers were warned by the airport police to "keep the Schutz Staffel out of the picture."

CLAIMS EQUALITY FOR GERMANS IN WORLD POLITICS

Foreign Minister Speaks for Hitler Vote.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—A further flood of appeals to the German electorate preparatory to next Sunday's plebiscite today included an admonition from Konstantin von Neurath, foreign minister, that Germans must unite in showing the world that Chancellor Adolf Hitler's will and demands are identical with those of the German people.

Declaring Germany's international political future is at stake, the foreign minister added:

"The general problem of our foreign policy is reattainment of our equality. The Versailles dictate took it from us, and one sided disarmament crushed us down to a state of inferior rights. All the shame and the many evils that we have suffered since Versailles originated in the deprivation of our rights and our disarmament through the Versailles dictate. To abolish it, and thus form a basis for true and lasting peace, is the meaning of our demand for equality.

U-Boat Captains Speak.

Von Neurath recalled Chancellor Hitler's declaration that Germany will only participate in international negotiations on equal terms.

"Without equal right and equal security there is no well being for the German people—and the last 15 years have shown it."

Ten former U boat commanders, all wearers of the "Pour Le Merite," highest German decoration, also appealed to the public to support Hitler, pledging themselves to "follow the führer [leader] to death if necessary."

Hitler will make a state visit to Hamburg on Friday, where in the evening he will speak one and a half hours to the nation over the radio.

Anxious Over Churches.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The German situation is causing growing anxiety, the Rev. Dr. Henry Smith Leiper, American church official, declared today, especially in American and English Protestant circles.

Dr. Leiper, who is executive of the commission of relations with churches abroad of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America has been in frequent conferences with both the government and the opposition groups in the controversy.

The American churchman has been seeking to make the government group understand the unfortunate effect Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller's recent arbitrary measures are having on churches abroad which wish to maintain friendly relations with the German Evangelical church.

"If a definite split occurs, such as has been foreshadowed by the Wuppertal proceedings," he said, referring to the recent defiant session of oppositionists, "then the American churches will have to reconsider their position."

IL DUCE'S CABINET MINISTERS SHINE SWORDS FOR WAR

At Military Posts in Army Maneuvers.

ROME, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's cabinet ministers started polishing their swords today in response to an official call to arms which assigns them to military posts for the war maneuvers which will begin Aug. 19.

The only one of his ministers exempted from the military call is Pietro de Francisci, minister of justice and cults, and he has volunteered for duty on the headquarters staf.

Cabinet undersecretaries and the majority of the members of the chamber of deputies must also do service during the five day exercises, which, according to the official announcement, will give the officials a taste of what the war of tomorrow will be.

Clerks Run Government.

Mussolini himself will be present on the field of battle while chief clerks keep the routine of government matters running in Rome.

The maneuvering troops will be divided into the "red" invading forces and the "blue" defending army. The exercises will be held between Bologna and Florence and will be devoted to actual battle practice. The ministers will occupy the positions of command they would be called to fill in a case of wartime mobilization.

Il Duce's elegant undersecretary of foreign affairs, Fulvio Suvich, whose faultless attire and neatly trimmed mustache are a familiar sight in international gatherings of statèsmen, has been assigned to his majesty's lancers—the crack Vittorio Emanuel II. regiment.

Jung Assigned to Artillery.

Guido Jung, minister of finance, will have command of a regiment of artillery. Francesco Ercole, minister of education, will be in charge of communications. Umberto Puppini, minister of communications, will direct infantry units. Gen. Emilio de Bono, minister of colonies, will be a field judge.

Alberto Asquini, the undersecretary of corporations, has been assigned to one of Mussolini's crack "celeri" or speed divisions in which Alessandro Lessona, undersecretary of colonies, will command a cavalry brigade.

Gen. Italo Balbo, former minister of aviation and leader of last year's mass air flight to Chicago but who no longer is a member of the cabinet, was not mentioned in the order.

SAAR OFFICIALS REQUEST 2,000 FOREIGN POLICE

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Conditions in the Saar basin, the future of which will be decided by a plebiscite in January, call for the recruiting of 2,000 foreign police, the governing commission of the region advised the league of nations today.

The commission said the situation has become so much worse that it is beyond control. Recruiting of the additional officers in foreign countries which are members of the league and in which the German language is spoken was recommended.

One member of the commission, in a minority report, insisted that it is possible to recruit police in the region itself instead of going into foreign countries. The majority report stated that most of the gendarmes now in service are former German soldiers and said that it was difficult to keep the force impartial. Attention also was called to the fact that 15,000 young men recruited in the Saar for police duty are being trained in Germany. The gendarmerie, it was stated, is maintaining regular relations with the German secret police.

IRELAND SWEPT BY MYSTERIOUS TERRORIST WAVE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 14.—The mysterious cutting of telegraph and telephone wires over extensive areas of Ireland was reported today. Hundreds of lines were disconnected.

The places attacked were centers from which numerous lines radiate. These include Mullingar, County Westmeath; Limerick Junction; Fermoy, County Cork; Macroom, and Buttevant. Communication between Cork and Dublin was interrupted until late this afternoon. There was no communication to places twenty miles west of Dublin.

Another incident reported today was the pushing of ignited material into a public letter box at Stephens Green, where government letters are usually posted. Several packets were damaged.

Synchronization of these events, covering a large area, indicates that they comprise an organized outrage, but for the moment the purpose or the parties implicated are not apparent.

One suggestion is that they are connected with yesterday's bloodshed in Cork, where 5,000 farmers protested the tax sale of cattle. Many persons were injured in a pitched battle between the farmers and police.

Capt. Patrick Hughes, Blue Shirt leader, has been removed from the Irish Free State army officers' reserve. Capt. Hughes was recently sentenced by a military tribunal to two years' imprisonment for an alleged attempt to procure official information, but on appeal to the high court he was released.

Capt. Hughes is considering legal action against the army department. He alleges that certain conditions, preliminary to his dismissal from the army reserve, were not complied with.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Pump and Shovel

Two Symbols of a By-gone day!

Automatic gas heat, like the automatic water supply, now replaces inefficient, laborious, old-fashioned methods

KITCHEN toil—long hours in a poorly equipped, hot room—has been banished forever by the forward march of progress. The wood-burning stove, the basement cooler, the pump at the sink have passed. In their stead have come the automatic range, the modern refrigerator and the sanitary plumbing system. Pump and shovel—these symbols of a bygone day—are no longer to be found in the truly modern home. The shovel—symbol of hours of furnace worries and basement drudgery—has been displaced by a little thermostat on the wall—the only thing you need to regulate the temperature of your home when you have gas heat.

Heating with gas is the modern way to end back-breaking shoveling, hauling of ashes, dust, soot, and dirt. Gas heat is automatic. Gas heat is clean. And it is so easy. No running up and down basement stairs at all hours to tend furnace. You fire your furnace from your favorite easy chair. No grime to cover curtains and walls. No dirty smudge to make woodwork harder to clean. In this modern day the shovel—like the old-fashioned kitchen pump—has no place in your home now that gas heat rates are so low. Get the facts at once.

Proved practical for every home

We ask you to try gas heat. We do not ask you to experiment with it. Gas heat has been proved—soundly proved—by actual use in more than 20,000 homes in the Chicagoland area. These families refuse to go back to their old heating methods—a fact which means that gas heat has proved to them, as it will to you, that it is the most practical and efficient method of home heating that has ever been developed.

Accept our trial proposition —you invest nothing

So that you may know the genuine pleasures of gas heat, we make this liberal offer. We'll install gas heat at our expense, remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. You do not invest one cent for equipment. We will install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. While you are trying it you pay only a small rental during the heating months—only $3 a month for the burner in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. You try it for one month, two months or a year. If within a year you decide to return to your old heating methods we will replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But if you decide to keep gas heat, the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Don't spend another winter worrying about heat. You can install gas heat quickly if you will act now. Call your local gas company for complete details.

YOU INVEST NOTHING TO TRY GAS HEAT

Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense—remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.

PRICED RIGHT!

Any commodity that is consistently over-priced will not find a consistently increasing market. If the price is too high, folks just don't buy.

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company has repeatedly reduced its rates in the past dozen years, while the prices of other commodities in the home have pursued an up-and-down course, mostly up.

Right now the prices of most of the items in your household budget—food, clothing, furnishings—are on the way up again after a short period at low levels.

The price of gas stays down.

And so, through the years, it is increasingly used in Chicago homes—for cooking, for water heating, for home heating.

'HOW I WRITE PLAYS,' AS TOLD BY G. B. SHAW

Adds Comment on "Why H. G. Wells Does Not."

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—An explanation of how George Bernard Shaw writes plays and why H. G. Wells, novelist and sociologist, does not, was given today by the famous playwright himself to a large audience in connection with the dramatic festival at Malvern, Worcestershire.

Discussing the difference between novels and plays, Shaw declared:

"I can produce literature and produce drama. I am a playwright and a great many other things as well, but I cannot tell how it is done.

"With me, the thing happens, and I no more bother about how it happens or why it happens than I bother about how I breathe or digest food—when I do.

"Nothing Can Happen On Stage."

"When I asked my friend, H. G. Wells, why he does not try his hand at writing a play, he said with great truth, 'Nothing can happen on the stage.' That is quite true in a sense. Nothing can happen on the stage.

"I have sometimes been reproached with the accusation that the people in my plays do nothing but talk. That is a very queer accusation because there are no plays in which anything can occur but talk. A play is all talk. That wouldn't bother the novelist, but the difficulty for him is that there are certain physical limitations.

"The novelist can go all over the shop. Wells extends his operations to the moon and has visitors from Mars. These limitations prevent many novelists who have a great real of talent from writing plays.

"If you try to put some of Charles Dickens' most popular characters on the stage you find that there is something wrong with them. The point is that there is no development about them. They often are amusing all through the book, but they are always amusing in the same way.

"Founded on Music."

"My method, system, and tradition are founded upon music. It is not founded on literature at all. I was brought up on music when I was young. I didn't read plays very much because I couldn't get hold of them, except of course Shakespeare, who was mother's milk to me. What I really was interested in was musical development.

"If you study operas and symphonies you find a useful clue to my particular type of writing. If you want to produce anything in the way of a great poetic drama you have to make it as Beethoven did his symphonies and keep hammering on one theme.

"I depend entirely on inspiration. The play grows in my mind; I put it on paper. I don't know how or why. A funny thing is that it sometimes strikes me, when I see an early play of my own, that it looks as if I had elaborately constructed it. All results of perfect construction are achieved that way, but I do not mean that everybody can do it."

ANCIENT CHINESE CITY REPORTED FOUND IN LAKE

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14.—(AP)—An ancient Chinese city has been found beneath the waters of Tai lake, on the border of Kiangsu and Chekiang provinces, vernacular newspapers reported today.

As the waters of the lake reached a low level, the result of the drouth gripping the area, the submerged city became visible. The city wall remains intact, with streets and houses inside.

The alleged discovery, made by fishermen, is in accordance with a Chinese legend, which says a city called Sanyang, an important commercial center, was inundated by a great flood which placed it at the bottom of the body of water now called Tai lake.

3 Youths Hunt Treasure Sandino Hid in Nicaragua

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

SAN SALVADOR, Aug. 14.—Three Salvadorean youths have left for Nicaragua, according to a local newspaper, in quest of a treasure in gold bars and coin said to have been cached by the late insurgent Gen. Augusto Sandino. Moises Escobar, leader of the expedition, who fought with Gen. Sandino, told his companions that the treasure had been hidden in Las Segovias department and had not been unearthed at the time when the general was slain.

21 GUN SALUTE GREETS JAPANESE ROYALTY ON ARRIVAL IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Their imperial highnesses, Prince and Princess Kaya of Japan, landed in New York today for a visit through the United States. They received a 21 gun salute from Governor's Island.

For two days they will go sightseeing in and around New York and Thursday evening the couple—Prince Kaya is a cousin of Empress Nagako—will go to Washington. They will make the Japanese embassy their home while in the capital.

President Roosevelt will give a tea in their honor Friday afternoon at the White House and there will be a dinner at the embassy that night. The President also has placed his week-end cruising ship, the U. S. S. Sequoia, at their disposal for a trip down the Potomac Friday to Mount Vernon.

From Washington the prince and princess will return to New York, visit Niagara Falls, and will continue on to San Francisco to embark for home, stopping in Chicago.

PLAN FETES HERE.

Plans for the entertainment of Prince and Princess Kaya on their three day visit here were announced last night by A. Kenji Nakauchi, acting Japanese consul. They will arrive here Aug. 21 and will occupy a suite at the Drake hotel. They will visit the World's Fair, the stockyards, and the Field museum and will be taken on a tour of the parks and the north shore. A formal dinner at the Army and Navy club, under auspices of the club and the Japan-America society, will be held the evening of Aug. 22.

BOY FALLS OUT OF SCHOOL SWING, BREAKING SKULL

While playing "the man on the flying trapeze," Adolph Reisewitz, 12 years old, 2780 Osgood street, was critically injured yesterday on the playground of the Agassiz school, 2851 North Seminary avenue.

The boy was playing on a swing and swung himself higher and higher into the air. At the top of one of the swings he lost his grip and was thrown against an iron fence surrounding the playground.

His head was jammed between two pickets of the fence. Other children were unable to release him and their screams were heard by Louis Wagner, 2820 Seminary avenue, who extricated the boy. He was taken to the Alexian Brothers hospital, where it was found he had a fractured skull.

Paul Schrans, 12 years old, 1710 Hudson avenue, was taken to the same hospital Monday evening suffering from a fracture of the skull received in a fall down an air shaft in St. Michael's Parochial school, Eugénie street and Hudson avenue. The Schrans boy, playing with several others, was climbing about a metal railing that gave way, plunging him three stories to the basement.

BLACKSMITH DIES OF INJURY.

RESCUERS DELAY RETURN TO GIVE BYRD MORE REST

Picks Up Strength Since Relieved of Duties.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Aug. 14.—[Via Mackay radio.]—(AP)—Admiral Richard E. Byrd was resting comfortably today at Bolling advance weather base, and gave evidence of recovering his strength rapidly, members of the tractor party which reached him Friday reported.

Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, who led the tractor party, said it will be some time, however, before they can bring him back.

"We shall remain here," he said, "until Admiral Byrd feels able to travel. Our presence here and the fact that we have relieved him of the physical effort of daily detail incidental to his solitary confinement already have lifted a great weight off his shoulders. He is remarkably cheerful."

Plot Meteor Tracks.

Dr. Poulter said he was eager to remain at the advance weather base anyway for further meteorological observations. He took along a reticle, a small iron structure of his own invention, for plotting meteor tracks across the sky.

Communication with the advance base was no sooner restored yesterday than Dr. Poulter ordered meteorological observers at Little America to take observations simultaneously with him. Most of the radio conversation since then has been devoted to scientific matters.

Brief conversations confirmed what was learned shortly after midnight Saturday, that Admiral Byrd was poisoned by fumes from his kerosene stove last June and he lacked the strength to give proper attention to his food. His stomach was constantly upset. The cold weakened him further and he was in his sleeping bag half the time.

Too Proud to Call Help.

The conversations confirmed, too, what was already guessed at Little America, that he was too proud to call for help and expose members of the expedition to the risk of a winter journey on his behalf.

The gasoline generator powering Admiral Byrd's main radio set had failed and he was using a hand cranked generator. One of these will tax the wit of a skilled operator. It has to be cranked with the left hand while with the right the operator keys the transmitter. To an experienced person the motions are about as easy to master as rubbing the stomach with one hand and patting the head with the other.

Even the difficulties that were realized at Little America did not account for the uncertain, slow sending, and, above all, the frequent pauses after five or six words. Such a halting message on July 27 caused Dr. Poulter to lead rescue expeditions which reached Byrd on the third attempt.

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN BEGIN CHICAGO MARCH; 4 COLUMNS ON ROAD

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Four columns of troops were marching on Chicago today as the 122d and 124th field artillery regiments of the Illinois National Guard moved out of Camp Grant and the two infantry brigades prepared to move out tomorrow morning.

The 123d field artillery was reported between Hampshire and Elgin this afternoon and 106th cavalry was advancing upon Genoa. The 58th artillery brigade and the 202d coast artillery regiment were only a few miles out of Rockford.

Infantrymen started striking squad tents at the camp today in preparation for the start of their march tomorrow.

Tonight they will sleep in "pup" tents and after an early breakfast tomorrow will move out in two columns. One will entrain for Chicago at Kirkland while the other advances to Colvin Park. Major General of Militia Roy D. Keehn, 33d division commander, left today with his aids for Elgin to inspect the march of the heavy artillery units and the cavalry.

Rumor Betrothal of Juliana to Prince Carl of Sweden

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SALVAGERS SEEK BOW, BROKEN OFF TREASURE SHIP

JUNEAU, Alaska, Aug. 14.—(AP)—After dragging the sunken treasure ship Islander from Davy Jones' locker, salvors decided today they must go back to the deep and dive for the vessel's sheared off bow, in the hope it contains the money vaults they seek.

They found gold inside the barnacled hulk, along with some of the bones of 72 men drowned when the Islander, carrying Alaskan miners back from the rich Klondike diggings to the states, crashed an iceberg—but not the amount of gold they expected. Popular belief is that she carried one or more millions, but whether in bullion or paper has not been determined.

The bow received a terrific gash when the ship struck and sank in about 190 feet of water. At least 30 days work will be required to grapple it and bring it ashore. The salvors worked under heavy guard today, sluicing the debris of decades from the wreck of the Islander.

GIRL, 2, DIES OF SCALDS.

Martha McCormick, 2 years old, died yesterday in the county hospital of scalds incurred Saturday when she pulled a potful of boiling coffee on herself in the kitchen of her home at 4083 Monroe street.

WE HAVE proved that our New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil will form five distinct layers of oil film on the bearings and moving parts of your car. This gives you a definite safety factor over other highly advertised competitive oils.

This fact was fully developed in the laboratory by X-Ray examinations by an outstanding American scientist. Its importance to you is a reduction of friction and a resistance to pressure.

This is graphically illustrated above. The development of this oil has meant years of research for Continental Oil Company scientists. Their objective of greater motor protection and lower oil consumption was accomplished. Practical proof of these claims was realized in the Indianapolis Destruction Test, where New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil competed with five highly advertised and nationally-known competitive oils, sealed in the crankcase of identical new stock cars, under AAA Sanction No. 3001.

THE NEW PROHIBITION.

Two years ago at this time there were 1,132 criminal cases pending in the federal courts in Chicago. A year ago there were 840. Today there are only 452.

These figures may be read as evidence of the value to this country of the repeal of prohibition. Men and women are no longer being deprived of their liberty for commercial transactions in liquor, which were not regarded as truly criminal by the great majority of American citizens. The courts are no longer clogged with these cases.

So far, so good. But the same congress which repealed prohibition has now created a multitude of new federal crimes. Mrs. Budd, who has the permission of the state of New York to make artificial flowers in her own home, is a violator, so it is contended, of federal law. So are a thousand others whose offense against the peace of the republic consists in selling something they own at a lower price than somebody else thinks desirable. A housewife who tries to make her money go as far as possible is engaged in a criminal conspiracy under this theory, and Senator Borah's baker is a criminal because he has offered bread at what he regards as a fair price to himself. Under the new prohibition it is not a crime to gouge the public, but it is a crime to give the consumer the lowest possible price.

If the majority of the American people could not regard the bootlegger of alcohol as a criminal, what chance is there of convincing them that Mrs. Budd, the baker, and the housewife going to market are criminals? The answer is, none at all, but the experience of prohibition suggests that the indicting, the fining, and the imprisoning will have to be gone through before the cruel farce is ended.

It will be instructive, in this connection, to note the number of criminal cases pending in the federal court in Chicago a year hence.

BUSINESS STIMULANTS.

The General Motors corporation has declared an extra dividend of 50 cents per share. Three hundred and fifty thousand persons located in various parts of the country will thereby receive $22,000,000 on Sept. 12. President Sloan says that the company, having earned a profit sufficient to justify the distribution, is making it because it "will not only be of benefit to the stockholders, but, passing into channels of active trade, will act as a worthwhile stimulant to business in general."

Twenty-two million dollars is represented in another recent business news item. Within about ten days $22,000,000 in back salaries is to be distributed among Chicago school teachers as a result of the loan Mayor Kelly and the school board secured from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. If $22,000,000 can act as a business stimulant spread over the whole country, that sum concentrated in one city should have a powerful effect. Chicago should be an exceptionally bright spot in which to sell goods these next two months.

SCENIC BOX CARS.

A gong clangs, lights flash, and the railway crossing gates go down. The motorist swears softly under his breath on noting that he is being stalled by a passing freight. But as fifty or more cars drag by he finds the experience not so tedious after all. Paintings on the sides of the cars inform him that Whosis packs splendid grades of hams and bacon, that Whatshisname's pork and beans are beyond compare, and that somebody's beer is the pride of the native town. Of course he isn't getting anywhere, but the scenery is at least as attractive as the row of billboards he passed a mile down the road.

If the motorist possesses an inquiring mind he may find himself wondering if the railways supply this advertising free of cost, and if his perplexity leads him to make inquiries he will ascertain that the cars actually are owned by the producers of the articles advertised, or by subsidiary car companies. Further, that a government regulatory body, the interstate commerce commission, has recently made the same subject a topic of sage deliberation and has decided that there can be no doubt that the beneficiaries of this advertising are receiving something of value that is not and cannot be given to all shippers. Therefore that absolute level of equality with other shippers that our statutes were enacted to establish is destroyed. The motorist's interest in the picture of the tempting ham, luscious pickle, or foaming glass of beer on the side of the car has become an unlawful rebate in the total amount of freight charges paid to the railways for the transportation of these articles.

The interstate commerce commission has opened another vast field in which it may conduct investigations in the public interest. Boxed automobiles on flat cars brazenly extol the superior features of a Gump Six, and a visit to a freight shed will demonstrate that the railways expose to public view cartons, cases, and boxes that bear legends lauding the quality of the contents; beneficial advertising that cannot be enjoyed by the shipper of a car of coal or a bale of hay, in direct contravention of the discriminatory sections of the act to regulate interstate commerce.

THE JILTING INDUSTRY.

From Philadelphia comes the news that a woman of 35, who makes her living as a teacher of languages, is suing a professor for $50,000. She alleges that he broke his promise to marry her. He is 55 years old.

The law which permits that kind of suit to be filed is an offense to common sense. Quite aside from the merits of this case, whatever they may be, it can be said in general that a woman can be both saddened and humiliated when a promise to marry her is broken; but when she seeks to place a cash value upon her injured feelings she immediately gives a pretty satisfactory demonstration of the fact that her fiancé's second guess was the right one. If money will mend her broken heart the break cannot have been a very severe one. If her objective is not money but revenge, it is difficult to believe that her affection was as deep and abiding as it should have been. Certainly the demand for a sum of the order of $50,000, which is usual in these cases, places upon such affections a value which, to say the least, is excessive.

Suits for breach of promise of marriage grow out of ancient and long discarded notions of the marital relation. When a woman was property an engagement to marry her could be regarded as a contract for the purchase of property, and a breach of the contract might logically be actionable. Woman is no longer property; she has all the freedom before the law, in most jurisdictions, that a man can have. Any grown woman should know that affections sometimes cool during the period of engagement and that marriage under such circumstances is likely to be misery. She should regard a broken engagement as distinctly the lesser of two evils. If the jiltee is capable of rational thought she should feel indebted, ordinarily, to the jilter for preventing her from contracting an unhappy marriage.

Not the least objection to the suit for breach of promise is the fact that it is frequently instituted in a spirit of blackmail. It is also a favorite device of the professional gold digger, and it is the happy hunting ground for conscienceless lawyers. Why it remains on the books is one of those things that only lawyers can explain. It should have been abandoned generations ago.

MR. WALLACE'S NEW SEED BUSINESS.

Secretary Hi-Bred Wallace fears that the American farmers have forgotten that seed will be needed next spring. He thinks they will feed all their grain to the cattle and have none left for planting, particularly in the drouth stricken areas. Therefore the AAA has started buying seed which will be available—no doubt in the form of loans—to farmers in the spring.

It remains to be seen if Mr. Wallace as boss of AAA buys any seed from Mr. Wallace, the stockholder in the Hi-Bred Seed Corn company. The seed company in which Mr. Wallace is interested has advertised that a purchase of its corn at some $7 the bushel will circumvent the plans of Mr. Wallace, the secretary of agriculture, to reduce the corn crop. Also, Mr. Wallace as secretary of agriculture has authorized the sending of a check to Mr. Wallace as farmer for reducing his corn acreage. Having gone that far, Mr. Wallace should have no scruples about spending the taxpayers' money to buy seed from himself. Certainly to do so would add no new shame to an already shocking record.

Editorial of the Day

[Argus-Leader, Sioux Falls, S. D.]

For the good of the nation it is well that the American people begin soon to appraise President Roosevelt in his proper stature. The national welfare demands a dissipation of the obsession that he is a superman, infallible in his judgment and unerring in his action.

The President is not that. In no sense can he be regarded as a miracle man. His power of thought and of action is limited. Something is not right because he says it is right. Neither are all things that he condemns wrong.

Courtesy commonly surrounds all discussions concerning the occupant of the White House. There is a tendency to respect his high office and to allow this consideration to soften criticism. In so far as this restraining influence curbs political mud it is useful and proper. It becomes a dangerous influence, however, when it holds in check wholly proper comment upon the administration of the nation's affairs.

Before the inauguration of the New Deal the United States was not a perfect nation. It is well, though, to set forth that we had attained the highest average standard of living ever reached by any other nation in any period of the world's history.

President Roosevelt has sought to junk the machinery that made such a development possible. His recovery measures, supported by the most lavish peace time expenditures on record, have brought a flush of well-being to the cheeks of the patient, but we are superficially minded indeed if we see in this minor stimulation through big governmental spending a trace of permanent and lasting recovery.

The economic program of the President doesn't hold up under analysis. Various sections are at cross purposes. Basically the plan runs contrary to the fundamental principles of economics. It can't work. To expect that it will is to assume that two and two equal five instead of four.

President Roosevelt, we feel, does not know that his plan—if he has a real plan—is hopelessly impractical. His inability to appreciate this is due to his own lack of economic understanding. He was cradled in wealth. He has never known the necessity of earning a dollar by the sweat of his brow. He cannot comprehend the forces that are responsible for progress. Neither does he understand the elements in human nature that must be considered in the advancement of a successful democracy.

Because the people considered the President a superman he was granted great authority. The public should now reconsider, regard the President as he really is, appraise him as a common citizen, and insist that congress reassume its rôle as the American lawmaking body.

WITH LETTERS OF INFORMATION, humor, derision, still pouring in about the chinquapin, or chinkapin, or chincapin, we are about to apply the acid test to some samples sent to us by Helper Lake Petite. Because they look too green now for human consumption, we've divided the box with Gaar Williams, who started this whole business. He's taken half of them to Glencoe to try on the squirrels there. We're trying the other half on Evanston squirrels. This test is on the statement of another Helper that squirrels won't touch them if they're chinquapins, but will store them for winter if they're acorns. Both Gaar and the Wake-Line will also follow that writer's suggestion to disguise OURSELVES so as not to look like a nut. Results, if any, will be related to readers of this column.

A MASTER'S TRIBUTE TO HIS DOG.

Laddie left home on Saturday evening. For three days we searched for him. Then word came that he had been found. Of course he was only a dog and not very important. Human beings are much more important than dogs. But Laddie's life was a bit unusual. He had that wonderful faculty which every human being should desire and seek to cultivate—the faculty for making friends and keeping them.

In Michigan where he was born, in Vermont where he lived for seven years, and here in Wisconsin where he ended his days, people came quite generally to know and love Laddie. He had his faults, he was almost human in that respect, but none could ever charge him with disloyalty. He loved his family and his friends and he loved his Master. His whole life was that way. Not a bad record for a creature that, after all, was just a dog.

COLON DIVERTICULA.

ABOUT forty years ago there appeared a very comprehensive review of a series of cases of a disease of the colon that had been little studied. The disease described was characterized by sacculations or pocket-like outgrowths of the colon wall. For the last generation the condition known as diverticulosis and diverticulitis of the colon has been intensively studied, and much progress has been made in understanding the nature of the disease and in devising proper remedies. One of our clinics has reported that in a large number of X-ray examinations of the colon nearly 6 per cent showed diverticula of the colon wall.

For a clear understanding of this condition it should be recalled that the large bowel or colon joins the small bowel in the lower right side of the abdomen. From there the colon passes upward toward the liver, crosses over to the left side, then turns downward to the lower portion of the abdomen, where it makes a turn much like a plumber's trap, ending at the rectum. That portion in the right side of the abdomen is called the ascending colon, from the right to the left side the transverse colon, and from the left side downward the descending colon.

The wall of the colon is comparatively thin and is composed of a much folded mucous membrane lining and a muscular coat. Should any part of the wall of the colon be weakened that part may, under pressure, stretch and form a saclike projection. Although these dilated or stretched areas may occur in any part of the colon, they are more common in the transverse and descending portions. Sometimes these outpocketings are very tiny. Sometimes they become quite large and cause damage by pressing on vital structures.

Whenever fecal matter is retained within these sacs of bowel wall the patient usually knows that something is wrong, as the resulting inflammation may give rise to temperature, to an increase in the white cells of the blood, and possibly to abdominal distention. Inflammation caused by diverticula may cause considerable pain, and diarrhea will alternate with constipation. Mucus is often seen in the stools, and occasionally there is nausea and vomiting. Sometimes, if the sacculation is large or the inflammation around the area extensive, a mass may be felt. Diverticula that cause no symptoms are of no more importance than an appendix that causes no symptoms.

Seventy per cent of the cases in one series were between the ages of 50 and 70.

Constipation, if present, should be managed by proper training, diet, and the use of some nonirritating laxative if necessary. In the presence of an attack rest and heat are of great importance. Heat should be applied over the site of the pain and proper medication used to relax the spasm of the bowel that sometimes occurs as the result of irritation.

If abscesses form, or if the sacculations are fairly large and are discharging puslike material into the intestinal tract, surgery may be needed. Early operation presents the only remedy in the event of perforation of one of these saclike projections. Surgery of the colon is difficult and should never be attempted by any one not thoroughly trained in this particular field.

Diverticulitis is probably more common than we realize. It may be avoided by eliminating constipation, by regular habits involving the proper evacuation of the bowel, by not permitting overdistention of the colon, by proper diet, and, as a precaution, not accumulating excess weight. Many infections in other parts of the body may no doubt be traced to absorption from these infected outpocketings of the colon.

SMALLPOX.

R. P. W. writes: I read a statement to the effect that physicians were finding that diseases such as measles and smallpox were not really serious and so they were turning their attention to such diseases as rheumatism, arthritis, etc. I take exception to this statement. Eight years ago my 4 year old daughter contracted measles. It left her with nephritis, which kept her in bed for three months. This did not clear up for over a year. Three weeks ago my 5 year old son contracted measles and developed pneumonia along with it. Do you wonder that I look upon measles as one of the serious diseases? I wonder how many physicians in New England ever attended a case of pukka smallpox? For fourteen years I lived in the villages of India where smallpox is not only epidemic but endemic. I have seen cases of horrible disfigurement and blindness. I lived through epidemics of smallpox when day after day we heard the sound of mourners and the beating of tomtoms as the corpses were carried out to the burning ghat. I have known of epidemics so severe that even those who were vaccinated contracted the disease and some of them died. The reason that smallpox rages so badly in India is that vaccination is not compulsory. The reason that smallpox is not a serious menace in the United States is because most people are vaccinated. This is what makes the statement I read dangerous. Let people begin to think that smallpox is not serious and we will have them refusing to be vaccinated, breaking quarantine, and otherwise menacing the health of the public.

It has been a great shock to me to see how careless people are about scarlet fever. There seems to be here in this country the same lack of regard for precautions to prevent the spread of contagious diseases that there is in India, where the people believe that not germs but the goddess Kali is responsible for disease.

REPLY.

You are right. Measles, smallpox, scarlet fever, whooping cough, and many other acute infectious diseases are just as serious as ever. During this year measles has been unusually prevalent throughout the United States. Acute diseases such as those named above must not be regarded lightly. Each may be followed by serious complications that handicap the individual throughout life.

SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please answer the following questions relating to the handling of property owned by an unmarried man whose direct heirs are brothers and sisters, and who died without making a will: 1. Will an executor have to be appointed? 2. If so, how soon after death is this done? 3. By whom is he appointed? 4. Is it lawful to sell personal property, such as live stock, to pay the funeral expenses of the deceased?
K. M.

1. The necessity of probate proceedings depends on the nature of the assets. If the deceased owned real estate, then probate would be necessary in order to produce a merchantable legal title. If there are personal assets in the possession of other parties, then probate may be necessary to reduce these assets to possession. The personal representative appointed by the court is called an administrator rather than an executor.

2. There is no statutory minimum.

3. By the Probate court.

4. Since the funeral expenses are a preferred claim in probate, there is not much danger that other creditors can criticize the action that you suggest; but if the nature of the entire estate is such that probate will be necessary, then we would advise against informal meddling with the assets.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ASSETS OF ESTATE.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—At my mother's death [1] my stepfather received a check for $1,000. Funeral expenses were $600, leaving $400. My stepfather, the undertaker, and I went to the bank to cash the check and to pay the undertaker's bill. The $400 was given to me to take care of. I said I would put it in my deposit box, which I did, the undertaker being a witness. My husband objected, saying there would be trouble, and told me to give the money to my stepfather to take care of. This was done, but I have no witness to the transaction. Now he has spent most of the money foolishly and I am afraid he will accuse me of taking his money, since he has a witness to prove he gave it to me, but I am not able to produce a witness to having returned it to him. 2. How can I prevent him from doing this?
A. H.

1. You do not tell us from whom you received it or in what capacity.

2. If the money that he is holding is an asset of your mother's estate, then the proper technical course is to petition the Probate court to appoint an administrator. If the facts are such that several persons have an interest in the money we do not understand why you have delayed distributing it. We suggest that you have a personal interview with an attorney.

From Across the Sea

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The infantry of the British army is to be completely reorganized. Under the new scheme, which is now taking shape at the war office, an infantryman will be relieved of the more than 56 pounds of ammunition and equipment which he now carries on his back. The new plan provides also for reorganizing battalions in the interests of mobility. Each infantry regiment at present consists of four battalions, which have machine gun, anti-tank gun, and trench mortar detachments in addition to detachments of ordinary riflemen.

The presence of these heavy weapons impedes the quick movement of the infantry battalion. Though this is not a drawback in trench warfare, it is considered by experts to be a great handicap in open country. All the heavy machine guns, trench mortars, and anti-tank guns will, therefore, be withdrawn from three of the battalions of a regiment and concentrated in the fourth, which will become a support battalion, moving into action behind the more mobile riflemen.

War office musketry experts are now carrying out experiments with a new type of automatic rifle and a new light one-man machine gun. If these prove successful they will be adopted as the weapons of the new light infantry battalions.

It has also been announced that the whole of the British army will soon be wearing the new "comfort" uniforms that caused so much amusement and criticism when they were first tried out two years ago. The new uniforms consist of low, baggy slacks, somewhat like plus fours, open necked shirts, deerstalker hats that can be folded and carried in the pocket, and sleeves that button around the wrist. The army will shortly be wearing this uniform for field work, but it will not be used in barracks or for "walking out."

WHERE ACCIDENTS HAPPEN.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—The police safety squad car, touring loop streets with a police officer broadcasting safety warnings, is amusing. Chicago's loop streets are practically free of accidents, as statistics show. Trafic is so congested that care is necessary and speeding impossible. The officer's warning to pedestrians to "obey the trafic signals" is a joke, as the turning movement of street trafic prevents the pedestrians from crossing when they have the green light, forcing them to cross against the red light.

The safety broadcasting machine will accomplish more in the safety campaign if used on streets where numerous fatal accidents are continually occurring—viz., Broadway, Western avenue, etc. Records show that outlying, widened streets and not loop streets are the death traps. Moreover, it must be remembered that cars parked near street intersections, and especially all night parking in residential districts, cause most accidents.

DISTINGUISHED PLANNERS.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—I have been wondering if what the Roosevelt administration is doing could not be best explained to the country by drawing on sporting experience. We know that the wrestlers, the box fighters, some racing men, the old foot racers and many others have at different times tried to introduce a planned economy into the various sports.

Planned economy introduced into horse racing was good only for the planners. So, too, with all the other sports. Look what the economic planners did to foot racing and the troubles that ensued. Now it looks as if the thing is about to be turned all around so that the public itself will be planned. But if Tugwell, Morgenthau, Wallace, and the rest of them fall down, they might call in some promoters or some of the wire tapping gang. I forget if I ever knew their names.

RUSTED CANS OR GREEN GRASS!

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Just north of 57th street is a peninsula of land projecting out into the lake. It might have been converted into a spot of real beauty, enhanced by the natural charm of its situation, or it might at least have been left in its natural state, but instead those in charge have seen fit to use it as a city dump. Of course, I am aware that vast acres of rusted tin cans stretching in gentle undulations over the landscape may have a particular charm of their own, a symbol of utility and the noble enterprise of keeping the city clean, but really cannot one be so commonplace as to prefer a very ordinary lawn?

ANIMATED SHOCKERS.

Chicago, Aug. 9. — It occurred to me yesterday, as I viewed a screen cartoon at a local movie palace, that the self-appointed guardians of public morals should turn their efforts towards outlawing and eliminating the vicious forms of this so-called amusement. No intelligent adult would willingly admit any enjoyment in these cartoons; they are clearly designed for the delectation of our younger friends. In cartoons of the "Mickey Mouse" and similar varieties no fault can be found. They caricature amusingly the characteristic actions and foibles of the human race. But in some of the others the producers' efforts are reminiscent of "Dracula" and "Frankenstein." They have displayed every form of horror possible. It seems as if they had deliberately calculated to make these cartoons as frightening as they could. The number of nightmares caused to children by each such cartoon must be very large indeed. We had better take care now or our next generation of hard headed business men will be covered [figuratively] with psychic scars. As a last measure, I suggest that we put the label "Adults Only" on these cartoons until their objectionable features are removed.

A NEW CONSTITUTION.

Eagle River, Wis., Aug. 7.—An editorial in THE TRIBUNE of Aug. 7 on "The Constitution of Illinois" states that the voters of Illinois will determine next November whether a constitutional convention is to be called in this state. Then further states: "The proposal should be voted down." How in the name of common sense amidst A Century of Progrss in 1934 can an editorial writer conscientiously tell the people of Illinois to vote against changing an 1870 constitution? That is the last time Illinois changed its constitution, but that was the third time Illinois had changed its fundamental law in order to adjust its law to the needs of the time and place. The reason given by THE TRIBUNE writer for keeping the 1870 constitution in 1934 is that the danger is great that mass hysterias might sweep a constitutional convention "off its feet." Is that the truth? I doubt it.

Blanket Orders Expected at August Price

Future Needs Met at a Saving

Hot weather or no—it's the wise shopper who keeps winter in the back of her mind and takes advantage of special sellings that will mean substantial savings.

Field's is offering an all wool blanket, and though it may seem difficult to think of a blanket in hot weather, it will prove well worth the slight mental effort because it's such an extraordinary value. Why? The wool was bought at a very low price; the blanket was made in our own mills. It weighs four pounds, four pounds of fluffiness, in lovely two-tone color combinations. Rose and green, peach and green, lavender and green, offer an attractive choice. The size is 72x84 inches. It's bound in two-tone satin. Buy now—in the late Fall this quality will be more than it is today, $5.95.

Comforter Joins Selling

The same story applies to a comforter value—Field's made a special purchase of five hundred comforters to offer in an off-season selling.

Too much cannot be said about this all silk satin comforter. Its cut size is 72x84 inches. It is distinguished by hand guided stitching and a corded edge. The colors are extremely effective—rose and blue, rose and green, gold and green, orchid and green, peach and green, rose and gold, brown and eggshell, and cedar and eggshell.

And though the thought of wool is not one to linger on it must be stated here that this comforter is all-wool filled, which is another reason why it's nothing if not a surprise at its price of $8.95. These two bedding specials are headline news in the Bedding section on the Second floor.

"Painting with Light" Opening Tomorrow in the Little Theater

Fresh from the World's Fair, where it was a sensation, "Painting With Light," a fascinating show by Westinghouse Electric Laboratories, comes to Field's tomorrow for its only public showing in Chicago.

You'll sit entranced through demonstrations of "complexion light," "invisible, or black, light," illuminations that produce third dimensional effects, and other miracles of light which are still being perfected in the Westinghouse Laboratories.

In addition, thirty-one paintings of the Century of Progress by such famous artists as Birrin, Forsberg, Ingerle, Hake, Ponsen and others are shown illuminated by lights which bring out all the concealed beauty of the colors.

The show will be held four times daily, 11, 12:30, 2:30 and 4, on Thursday and Friday this week, and Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday next week, in our Little Theater on the fourth floor. Admission is free. By all means, plan to see this amazing and entertaining show.

New Wrinkles in the August Sale for Babies

Save Money in Outfitting the Little Tots

Whether you have quintuplets, twins, or one single little mite to look after, absolutely everything that is needed, from soap to safety pins, offers you this month surprising values in the August Sale of Layettes and Nursery Furniture. The sale is in progress in the Infants' Room on the fourth floor and in the Evanston, Oak Park and Lake Forest stores. Among the new ideas for baby's comfort, many have been developed by Field's and made especially according to rigid specifications.

For Adventures in Bathing

Speaking of soap and such, the Infants' Room is the only place in Chicago which carries a new talcum, as soft as baby's own skin, and properly made to prevent chafing and similar calamities. It comes in a tall can decorated, appropriately enough, with cunning design of babies' heads. This big can is only 25 cents; while matching dusting powder in a big round box, complete with puff, is 70 cents. Baby soap, with a lather as soft as foam, is four bars for 50 cents. Wash cloths, small knitted squares that couldn't hurt the tenderest skin, are 8 cents each, and 40 inch square turk knit towels, edged in pink or blue, are big enough to wrap up the little fellow after his bath and leave enough to dry him perfectly. These are $1 each. Oils, Q-tips and other important little things are just as specially priced. Another new item for the bath, a crinkly crepe cover to fit into the metal scoop of baby's scale, is $1.85. The scale itself, which weighs up to 25 pounds, is a really marvelous value at $6.95.

It is easy to balance and the weights are attached so that you can't possibly lose them.

Raised Play Yard Is New

A new folding play yard, designed for Field's, is built 6 inches off the floor, to avoid drafts. It is sturdily made of hardwood in a natural finish; it has colored beads, an alphabet and a little group of animals to keep a youngster amused. Priced at $6.95. A new high chair of hardwood has a solid back, a seat built for comfort and a wide spread for safety. The tray is sanitary and treated to make it stainproof. It is also specially designed for Field's and is so attractive and so well made that you will be amazed at its sale price of $4.95.

Great Variety in Cribs

Full size 54 inch cribs, which youngsters can use until they are about 6 years old, with drop sides, good link springs, either painted finish, many with hand decorations, or maple finish. One group at sale prices ranges from $9.75 to $19.75 and are excellent values. The mattresses for these cribs are made expressly for Field's. Practically all cribs may be matched with wardrobes and other nursery furniture for a complete set.

Chicagoans and Visitors Throng Store for Famous Annual Shopping Events

Attracted, as in former years, by the enormous range and thrifty prices of Field's annual August Sales, Fair-going out-of-towners and Chicagoans have thronged the store during the past weeks. Wise women, knowing the advantage of buying during these sales, have planned visits to the Fair and trips to town from summer homes to coincide with these shopping events.

Notable among the sales are those in "Homecrest" Wilton rugs, in shoes for men, for women and for children, including all the famous Field makes of shoes; the sale of winter coats in progress on the sixth floor, the sale of custom made draperies, the sale of frames and framing and of kitchen furniture.

For Walking Into Winter

Many a famous shoe name and many a new shoe fashion make the August Sale of Shoes one of unusual importance. Every shoe in stock in the various shoe sections is specially priced and there is a constant addition of brand new shoes to the sale stocks.

Men make their selections on the second floor of the Store for Men from Field Aristos, Field Arch Preservers, Comfopedics and Anatomiks, names well known and liked by all the men who have worn these comfortable and good looking shoes.

Women may choose the trimness and fine workmanship of Field Aristos, Field Arch Preservers, Peacocks, Young Moderns, Dr. Locke's and Antiochs in the women's or the Young Moderns' sections on the fifth floor.

No August Sale of Shoes would be complete without the important shoes for the younger members of the family. It's well worth trotting them all into town, even from some distance away, to fit them out in comfortable shoes for school at the modest prices of the sale. Field Specials, Nature Jrs., Comfopedics and Young Teen shoes are all ready on the fourth floor.

Amateur Decorators Gather

With August Sale prices prevailing on the ninth floor, on all custom made draperies and reupholstering work, people with a flair for decorating are inspired to concoct whole new color schemes for their homes, and carry them out at once. The standard of the work done in the drapery workroom is as high as ever, and the new materials are unusually interesting.

A typical value is a pair of draperies made to the measure of your window in an Italian or English damask chosen from a large selection, pleated, lined and ready to hang for $22.50.

HUGE TOW SETS RECORD FOR NEW LAKES-GULF LINK

The largest tow to navigate the Illinois waterway link between the Great Lakes and the gulf docked yesterday afternoon at the North Pier river barge terminal at 2905 South Western avenue.

The tow consisted of four 135 foot barges of 500 tons capacity lashed two abreast, a 300 foot barge of 3,000 tons following, and the rear brought up by the 100 foot Mississippi river tug William T. Warner. A second 300 foot barge which was to have formed a part of the tow was left behind at Lockport because of the strength of the waterway current.

As it entered the terminal the tow had an overall length of 940 feet. With the sixth barge the length would have reached 1,240 feet. As it was, a record was set for the waterway when the tow eased against the terminal without mishap.

Brings Varied Tow.

The tow brought to the city one of the most varied cargoes that has come from New Orleans. While the cargo in the holds of the barges was not as romantic as the "ivory, apes, and peacocks" of the quinqueremes of ancient Tyre, they were bulged with sturdy articles of commerce.

There were ammonia tanks, nails, sugar, beer, leather goods, cotton, and the like. The 300 foot barge held in its maw 1,500 tons of wheat gathered from Iowa, Nebraska, and Kansas farms.

At the wheel of the William T. Warner, which pushed the barges at a steady and graceful pace between the banks of the waterway, was Capt. Charles Warner. The tug he commanded was named for his grandfather, a famous Mississippi river captain. The grandson, who has spent most of his thirty years on the same river, is known as one of its ablest navigators.

Workers Speed Unloading.

Fifty workers gathered at the terminal dock as the tow made its way under the Western avenue bridge.

When Capt. Warner stepped out of his pilot house to receive the congratulations of Frank Cullen, assistant manager of the terminal, and D. V. Douglas, Chicago superintendent of operation for the Federal Barge line, the workers already had attacked the hatches of the barges. It is estimated the cargo will be unloaded in forty-eight hours.

Capt. Warner predicted that the present record would be broken year after year as waterway shipments increase.

When the steel cables which lashed the tow together were unloosed, the big barge was taken to a grain elevator.

Within an hour Capt. Warner was on his way back to Lockport with another cargo. He plans to pick up the second 300 foot barge during the night and bring it into the city in the morning.

COURTNEY PICKS ASSISTANT FOR PENSION INQUIRY

State's Attorney Courtney announced yesterday that Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown has been placed in charge of the investigation into alleged irregularities in the handling of the police pension fund.

JAMES A. BROWN.

Assistant State's Attorney Brown said he would study two audits made of the pension board's books and probably would call in board officials for questioning. He said that he will confer Friday with Shelby Singleton, secretary of the Citizens' Association of Chicago, which had one of the audits made.

The other audit was made at the request of one of the pension board advistory committees. State's Attorney Courtney said this audit "shows that the brokerage firm of Joseph M. Johnson & Co. made a profit of $100,000 in excess of what would be considered a reasonable profit in selling $2,500,000 worth of securities to the pension fund committee." Capt. Hugh T. McCarthy is a member of the pension fund's investment committee. His son, Hugh Jr., is a member of the Johnson company.

COURT APPROVES $266,000 BUDGET FOR S. M'CORMICK

Santa Barbara, Cal., Aug. 14.—(AP)—A budget of $266,000 for the care of Stanley McCormick, for the year ending June 30, 1935, has been approved by the Superior court here over the protest of his wife, who is visiting in the east, it was disclosed today.

Of this sum, $150,000 is for maintenance of his Montecito estate, $50,000 for personal care and expenses, $36,000 for a medical general care fund and $30,000 for a contingent medical fund. McCormick's brother and sister, Harold F. McCormick and Anita McCormick Blaine; Dr. Langley Porter chairman of the board of guardians, and Dr. W. S. Franklin, Santa Barbara medical adviser, approved the budget.

"I vote no on the proposed contingent fund," telegraphed Mrs. McCormick. "I am in favor of a maintenance budget of $12,500 a month and medical care general fund budget of $3,000 a month and also am in favor of medical care special fund of $5,000 a month."

BUNIONS

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

A Bug in Binks' Ear

August 14, 1934.

BINKS, the little fox terrier, got into more trouble yesterday afternoon. A new enemy, one that he never would suspect, upset him. Binks went along with two of the boys when they made an inspection tour of the pasture where the Herefords now are finding their food. This pasture is on the north bank of the Fox river and extends along Rob Roy creek, a beautiful little brook that winds through the meadows past tall willow trees to pour waters into the river.

When Binks went through the wire fence into the field where the cattle were feeding he naturally started to look over the whole field. The game was to find a woodchuck, a pocket gopher or anything in the "varmint" line that would give him some excitement. His sniffing finally took him into a patch of fairly long grass next to the creek. The boys noticed that the dog finally stopped in this grass, apparently intrigued by a discovery.

Before they could walk over to the little terrier, he started to yelp and run around in circles as if something were after him. Sleezer finally got hold of the dog and then discovered what the trouble was. A good sized beetle, around one and one-half inches long, had grabbed poor Binks by the ear!

Poor Binks didn't quite know how to cope with this hard-biting insect which he couldn't see nor get his paws on. Sleezer rendered first aid to the puzzled pup by lifting the "gold bug" beetle from Binks' ear. It was a handsome specimen with a green back and bronze gold border on the wings. It has been preserved and is now in a bottle in the headquarters building.

The pasture now being used by the 117 Herefords is a veritable garden spot compared to the other acreage which has been burned by the drouth. [Lucky cattle to have such a place these days!] With plenty of water from the Rob Roy creek still coming through the wooded pasture, and the low places getting seepage from the stream so that the grass can grow, the Herefords are getting plenty to eat these days in spite of the general lack of pasturage on the farm.

As A. Nelson of Woodhull, Ill., a visitor to the farm a few days ago, said when he saw the cattle and their green pasture: "This is the sort of pasture and water supply that will fatten cattle and 'shoot them along' even in hot weather."

When I was looking at the test plot of giant Russian sunflowers the other day I noticed that some of the flowers were minus seeds. Something had been pecking away at the plants, which stand very high, but with a sort of forlorn look because the heavy flower heads on the tops of the stalks are drooping.

Now we know what has been robbing the sunflowers of the seeds. It's a pair of goldfinches or so-called "wild canaries." Sunflower seeds represent an "ice cream and cake" delicacy to the handsome goldfinches. They will go for this food every time.

In fact, one good way to lure goldfinches into a suburban or country garden is to grow sunflowers and let them come to seed. The sunflowers here in the test plots have been discovered by one pair of the birds, so we can expect to be robbed of seeds every day from now on.

COURTNEY TELLS COUNTRY TOWNS TO WAR ON CRIME

Detective Chief Opens Hoodlum Drive.

A drive on crime in Cook county was begun yesterday on two fronts. The mayors and chiefs of police in 25 country towns were summoned to the office of State's Attorney Courtney and warned to enforce the law in their communities or "expect the state's attorney to step in."

At the same time John L. Sullivan, Chicago's newly appointed chief of detectives, told 250 detectives meeting at the detective bureau to "move the hoodlums, racketeers and criminals to the penitentiary or the morgue."

State's Attorney Courtney told the village mayors and police chiefs that investigation had revealed law violations throughout the county. He pointed particularly to automobile thefts, the slot machine racket and bawdy houses in country towns.

Warn Villages to Act.

Stickney, Cicero, Tessville, and Calumet City, the state's attorney said, harbor the worst violators of the law. He told the village heads that the state's attorney's force were tired raiding in the rural districts and warned the officials that law enforcement is "up to them."

The state's attorney announced that he had written to the Illinois liquor commission recommending revocation of four suburban tavern licenses. In all four cases, he said, the tavern owners have been dealing in illicit liquor.

The taverns and their owners are: The Silver Slipper, 3939 South Harlem avenue, Stickney, operated by Tony Melcher; the Harlem Nut House, 4239 South Harlem avenue, Stickney, owned by John Vasatka; the Hollywood inn, Hass and Oakwood streets, Lyons, operated by a Mrs. Zimmerman, and the Del Norte tavern, Touhy and Milwaukee avenues, Niles.

Report Brewery Threats.

Mr. Courtney also told the suburban officials that he had heard that a brewery, operated by hoodlums, had turned to intimidation to place beer with suburban tavern owners.

The meeting called by Chief of Detectives Sullivan was the first of its kind held at the detective bureau for several years. He told the men to begin a drive against automobile thieves and robbers.

Woman Dies After Eating Piece of Glass in Pickle

A small piece of glass imbedded in a pickle she ate Sunday caused the death of Mrs. Blanche Karnatz, 64 years old, 1649 School street, yesterday at the Illinois Masonic hospital. Her husband, Charles, said that after eating the pickle Mrs. Karnatz complained she had trouble breathing. At the hospital it was revealed the glass particle had lodged in her throat, and she died of strangulation.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In the issue of Aug. 9, it was incorrectly stated on information supplied by the City News Bureau that Superior Judge David had dismissed a suit filed by Attorney Louis J. Victor against the NEA Service, Inc., the Chicago Daily Times, and Ovile Dionne, father of the Dionne quintuplets. Judge David did not dismiss the suit, but refused to issue a temporary injunction restraining publication of pictures of the quintuplets.

BLAMES LACK OF WINE DRINKING IN U. S. ON ETIQUET

Says Americans Fear Use of Wrong Glass.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 14.—American sophisticated snobbery is killing the French wine trade with the United States.

This was the wail made here today by Marcel Labourdette, wine expert and exporting agent for America of one of the biggest Rheims champagne firms. He has just returned from New York thoroughly pessimistic over the prospects of unloading substantial quantities of champagne or other French wines on Americans.

Blames Glass Advertisers.

Labourdette puts the blame on glassware advertising and magazine articles, which, he says, have terrified the average American into thinking he must have a complicated set of glasses, a different one for each drink. Matters are made worse by etiquet advisers, he claims, who have flooded the newspapers and magazines with articles on the proper wine to serve with each course of a meal.

The result has been that most Americans, occupied with watching each other's manners, are afraid they will commit grave social errors, like serving red Burgundy with fish. They have solved the problem by abstaining altogether from wine, substituting mineral water, iced tea, and highballs, the Frenchman says.

Labourdette sees no future for French wines in the United States until Americans learn, like Frenchmen, to work out their own rules.

Complains of U. S. Greediness.

"Americans should be told that this complicated business of a different wine with each course is nonsense, and is so regarded among expert French wine drinkers," says he. "Outside of a few elementary rules, such as not taking port with fish, no three French experts agree on which wine to take with which food."

Labourdette also complained that the champagne trade with America is dead, with sales being much less than during prohibition, because of excessive import duties, internal taxes, and the greediness of American hotel keepers and restaurateurs, who want more than 100 per cent profit. He predicted that bootlegging of champagne must be resumed, or America will go without entirely.

HAY FEVER TIME ARRIVES; CLINICS HELP SUFFERERS

Northwestern Uses New Nonpainful Serum.

The hay fever season opens officially today, although some hay fever and seasonal asthma victims began showing symptoms a week or more ago.

Meanwhile in hay fever clinics over the city patients who have been receiving injections for desensitization are being joined by victims who are obtaining injections for the first time. At the Northwestern university medical school's hay fever clinic on McKinlock campus more than 75 men, women, and children were seen undergoing treatment yesterday.

Patients who have received serums prepared from the pollens to which they are sensitive once every two weeks for the last year, can laugh at the season in most cases, according to the physicians in charge.

Take Pre-season Treatment.

Others in luck are those who have had pre-seasonal treatment, twice a week for the last month. Nevertheless, it is not too late for hay fever and seasonal asthma sufferers to obtain partial relief, it was pointed out, even though they have had no immunizing treatment.

The Northwestern university hay fever clinic recorded 85 per cent good results last season, the worst in the history of Chicago for hay fever victims, according to Dr. Leon Unger, the director of the clinic. He started the clinic in 1924 in the old Northwestern university medical school at 24th and Dearborn streets.

A recently perfected solution, in which dextrose is employed in place of glycerin, is used for the injection of the sterilized pollen extracts. It is considered nonpainful, an advantage over the glycerin solution, according to Dr. Marjorie B. Moore of the Abbott laboratories, research chemist, who, with the clinic director, developed the solution.

Weeds Chiefly to Blame.

Eighty-five per cent of all hay fever is caused by weeds. The cause never is goldenrod, roses, or other flowers often supposed to cause it.

Patients range from 9 months old upward. They obtain injections in the arm twice a week, on Tuesday and Saturday mornings, at Northwestern clinic.

Persons who are beginning to suffer their annual siege of sneezing and weeping may reflect that, according to the experts, hay fever victims are as a group more highly intelligent than the normal run of persons. This was proved in an experiment conducted at the University of Oklahoma at one time.

Hay fever clinics are in progress at the University of Illinois Research hospital, the University of Chicago, and elsewhere.

MRS. HAMPSON GARY, WIFE OF EX-ENVOY, WINS QUICK DIVORCE

Fish Creek Has Large Colony of Chicagoans

Tennis Tourney There Is in Early Stages.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A LETTER from a member of the summer colony at Fish Creek, one of society's favorite Wisconsin resorts, brings word of some of the Chicagoans who are there or have been there this season. Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer and her daughters, Miss Louise Brewer and Mrs. Herbert McLaughlin, spent two weeks there recently and they are planning to return there next summer for a longer period. Most of their waking hours were spent on the golf course.

Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson and Mrs. Edward L. Hasler drove up while Mrs. Brewer was there and, being unable to get accommodations at Fish Creek, went to Maxwellton Braes at Bailey's harbor—seven miles from Fish Creek—where they still are, although they are expected home momentarily. Mrs. Hasler plays golf frequently, but Mrs. Patterson takes her exercise on a bicycle.

Mrs. Nathan S. Davis III. and her four boys have joined Mrs. Thomas L. Marshall and her two sons at Thorp's at Fish Creek and the six boys are having a glorious time together, our correspondent adds. Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Marshall are sisters. Miss Helen Gilbert, who is spending the summer there, is the organizer of numerous bridge parties in the evenings, so we are told.

Tennis Tourney in Early Stages.

The annual tennis tournament has just started, and although the early stages are interesting only to the participants the final matches generally bring out such good tennis that every one in the neighborhood attends. The Fish Creek tournament is a peculiar one with all ages and both sexes mixed, and often a grandmother finds herself in a battle with her grandson.

Mrs. John B. Allen and her baby, Constance, are there with the James W. Rogers' children while Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are motoring in the east. During their trip they are visiting several friends, including Prentiss Andrews, who is living on a farm at Sugar Hill, N. H. Mrs. Allen's and Mrs. Rogers' mother, Mrs. James W. Linn, is one of the popular members of the Chicago colony at Fish Creek and spends the entire summer there.

Mrs. Arthur Bissell has returned from a month at Fish Creek, but she plans to return there later in the summer.

Mackinac Island is another resort that always has a fair sized colony of Chicagoans in the summer. Some of the families who go there have been going there for years and years and many of the youngsters who enjoy vacations there now are following in the footsteps of their parents who used to spend the summers there when they were young.

The Edward A. Cudahys have been going there for years and now that all their five children are married and have children of their own, it is seldom that the great house of the Cudahys is without the sound of childish voices. The sons of the junior Cudahys, Anthony and Buddy, are with their grandparents this summer while their mother and father and sister, Sheila, are in Ireland. Mrs. Vaughan C. Spalding, one of the Cudahys' four daughters, has been visiting her parents and will return to Lake Forest tomorrow.

William Dixons Return Next Month.

The William Warren Dixons, among the Chicagoans who have summer homes at Mackinac, will return to the city early in September.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Harvey did not open their house on Mackinac Island this summer, but are staying quietly at home in their Barry avenue house enjoying the Fair and the other pleasures Chicago has to offer in the summer. Their daughter, Mrs. Charles G. Le Forgee, and Mr. Le Forgee are leaving the end of this week for a vacation at Mackinac.

The Harveys' other daughter, Mrs. Royal C. Vilas, and her husband, are enjoying semi-rural life in Deerfield, having moved there from an apartment on East Walton place July 1. They plan to be year 'round residents of Deerfield.

Mrs. Paget Cady and Miss Frieda Foltz are spending this week with Mrs. John L. Cochran at Mackinac. Walter Frazier also has been visiting the Cochrans, and so has Shepard Vogelgesang. The Cochrans will return before mid-September, when the two daughters of the family will return to school.

If business permits, Mr. and Mrs. John Dern are leaving Saturday for a three weeks' vacation in and about Mackinac Island. They will drive north, leaving their car at Mackinac City while they are on the island. On their return they expect to have several days at Harbor Point.

Rosecrans Baldwins Due Sept. 22.

The Rosecrans Baldwins will return to their Astor street residence about Sept. 22 from Murray Bay, Que., where they are spending the summer.

Mrs. Honoré Palmer and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. d'Orsay Palmer, have been joined at the Manoir Richelieu in Murray Bay by the senior Mrs. Palmer's sister, Mrs. Walter Keith of Baltimore. The Palmers will return to Chicago shortly after Labor day.

Mrs. Edward W. Pardridge and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins are among other Chicagoans summering at Murray Bay.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase is anxiously awaiting word from her daughter, Mrs. Louis F. Swift Jr. of Fort Worth, telling of the time of her arrival here for Mrs. Chase has a Charlevoix week-end in prospect, but wants to make it before or after Libby's visit. All that Mrs. Chase knows now is that her daughter and new son-in-law will come some time the latter part of August. Mrs. Chase also expects her daugh-

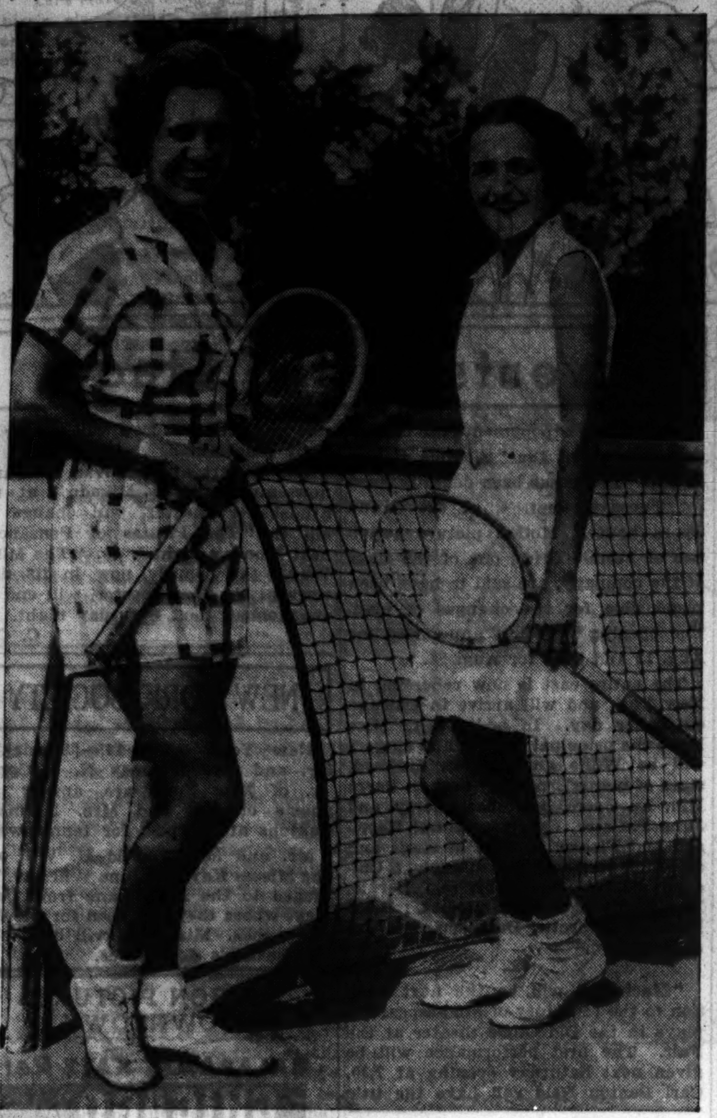
Enter Tennis Championships



Miss Mary Lyon (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lyon of Winnetka, and Miss Nancy Bastien, whose parents are the Alvin E. Bastiens of Glencoe, had just finished a lively tennis match on the Indian Hill courts when this picture was snapped. They will both take part in the north shore team championships to be played Sunday afternoon at the Skokie club.

SIR HAMILTON HARTY, conductor of the London Symphony orchestra, who is conducting several concerts of the Chicago Symphony at the Swift Bridge for two weeks, came to Chicago from the west coast, where he conducted at the Hollywood bowl. There is no backer for the concerts there and so everything is run on a very economical basis, he pointed out. Sir Hamilton said he found a handsome laurel wreath on his desk when he arrived. He was very pleased with this attention, but discovered, when he started to take it away, that it was nailed to the desk.

Economy—
Admirer—
Eyefuls—
Ambiguity—
Place names.

"Why do they give me a laurel wreath, then nail it down?" he asked a group of the musicians.

"O, Sir Hamilton, you can't take that wreath away. It cost $17, and it has to do for every conductor that comes," one of the men explained.

SPEAKING of orchestras, one of the enthusiastic admirers of Ossip Gabrilowitsch, who has been conducting at the Ford gardens, was a little old lady who was at Sunday night's concert. She carried a large lether satchel, and from it she kept producing pairs of spectacles and trying them on. Frequently she did not remove the foregoing pair completely, merely pushed them down under her chin and left them, still suspended from her ears, while she wore another pair on her nose. She applauded the Wagner program enthusiastically and said excitedly, but in a cultured accent, to people about her:

"I'm from Boston. We wanted him there."

It was pleasing to see her enthusiasm which culminated, at the end of the program, in a unique demonstration. She rose, cupped her lips with her hands, and emitted a shrill, schoolgirl trill instead of a shouted "Bravo!"

BIG city sights. The balloon peddler on the north shore who brings his knitting. . . . The idler sitting on the front steps of the Frank G. Logan home in Lake Shore drive, eating a hot dog. . . . A pair of doves spending the afternoon under the sprinkler, alternately lifting their wings to let the water spray underneath. . . . The West Madison street vagrant with sanitary instincts who uses a cigaret holder with the stubs he picks up. . . . Woman on bus asking driver: "Is this the bus that passes Buckingham palace where the fountain is?" . . . A girl in the loop with a rubber ice pack around her neck. . . . Sign on five and ten cent store advertising bargains. . . . MR. ELMER T. STEVENS saw an unprepossessing, stocky little woman, a kind of Tugboat Annie, going down State street the other day raising high overhead a sign which read: "God's inestimable Gift to Man." It took a second glance to discover that on the sign was painted a Bible.

EDWARD RILEY tells about the fellow who was driving into Chicago from downstate to see A Century of Progress. Driving on Route U. S. 45, he passed through Arcola, then Tuscola, where he stopped for gas.

"I suppose the next town will be Coco-Cola," he gagged to the attendant.

"No, Champaign," retorted the attendant without a smile.

Two More Mothers Are Assured Trips to Camp Algonquin

Two mothers will be assured of vacations at Camp Algonquin before the season is over, thanks to two contributors who sent the fund $9 each yesterday. One gift was from a teacher, and the other from "a friend."

These, with $1.50 from Ella Riese, gave the Camp Algonquin fund the day's total of $19.50, and brought the grand total of $6,148.16. More contributions are necessary to keep from disappointing many mothers and children who wish to attend camp.

The Free Ice fund was aided yesterday by $3, the proceeds of a children's lemonade stand. Those selling lemonade were Laurie Pfaelzer, Laurie and Bob Powell, Howard Lorney, and Tommy and Bob Auerback. The ice fund gifts in full were:

M. H. Yondorf	$ 10.00
Proceeds of lemonade stand	3.00
A Friend	2.00
Ella Riese	1.50
Total	$ 16.50
Previously acknowledged	6,519.79
Grand total	$6,536.29

Contributions to both funds should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

National Meat Board Tells of New Ways for Cooking Roasts

The meats that grandmother cooked may have had a fine flavor in retrospect, but the meats of modern housewives will have an incomparable flavor in actuality if they cast aside some of grandmother's methods, Miss Jessie A. Cline of the University of Missouri said yesterday in addressing the conference of the National live stock and meat board at the Stevens hotel.

"As an example," Miss Cline said, "consider the old idea of covering a roast. We now know that a roast, whether beef, pork, or lamb, should never be covered and should be cooked without water.

"If a roast is covered while cooking it ceases to be a roast and becomes a pot roast. Likewise, basting has gone out of date with the discovery that placing a roast fat side up accomplishes the same results with a minimum of labor."

Guesswork in regard to meats should be eliminated by the use of meat thermometers, she said. Lower cooking temperatures and longer cooking periods are now recommended universally for roasts.

Bennett Group Wins Women's Chorus Contest

Director Follows Husband in Success.

ALL SEATS ARE GOOD.

Every seat in Soldiers' field will be a good seat Saturday at the Music Festival. Reason—magnificent amplification. But to save yourself time you may want to buy your tickets now. They are on sale at Tribune Public Service offices. They sell for 25 and 50 cents.

A chorus of twenty-five housewives, stenographers, and other young business women—the Cathryne Bennett singers—won last evening the women's chorus contest in the Cook county semi-finals held in connection with the Chicagoland Music Festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

The director was Mrs. Cathryne Bennett, and the victory kept the Cook county men's and women's chorus championships in the Bennett family. On Monday evening Mrs. Bennett's husband, Frank, directed the Chicago Rotary Glee club to the men's chorus title, his second victory in two years in this contest.

The Bennett singers were the unanimous choice of the three judges, Miss Gilderoy Scott, Dwight E. Cook, and Leroy Wetzel, although they did not consult with each other before arriving at their individual decisions. Miss Scott characterized the chorus as "possessing superior tone and artistry." The contest song last evening was "Sylvia" by Oley Speaks, and the winners sang as their optional number "Praise Be the Lord," by Gretchininoff.

A close second was the chorus of the Chicago Daughters, whose seventy-six voices were directed by Jacques Homier. Well trained and with a balanced group of good voices, this chorus came within a few points of the winners. Their optional number, "Heav'n," by Burleigh, was especially well done.

The third choice was the Chicago Daughters of Isabella Choral society, directed by Clement Hunter. This group consisted of thirty-two singers.

The contest was held in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. Six hundred persons, most of them members of the twelve competing choruses or relatives and friends of the singers, attended. "Sweet Adeline," which one of the music directors designated as "that postscript number," was sung by the united choruses at the end of the contest and many of the hotel guests, attracted to the ballroom by the earlier singing, joined in lustily.

Tonight eight mixed choruses, one with 125 members—the Irish Society of Music and Drama Chorus, directed by Clemens Hutter—will meet at the Drake for the Cook county semi-finals in this classification. The other seven choruses and their directors are:

Tercentenary choir, Tennyson T. Butler.
Chicago and North Western Railway Choral club, Harry A. Slater.
Armenian National Chorus of Chicago, Harout Mehrab.
Douglas Smith Choral club, Berthena Klahn.
Lutheran Memorial Church choir, Mrs. T. Bach.
Emanuel Reformed choir, Henry M. Baar.
Grant A. M. E. Gospel chorus, Mrs. Arlene Scott.

Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the festival vocal and choral contests, will be in charge. The judges will be Edgar Nelson, George A. Carlson, and Harry S. Walsh. The public is invited and there is no admission fee.

Committee Helping Negro Spectacle to Meet Today

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin who heads a committee interested in the musical and dramatic spectacle, "O, Sing a New Song," to be staged the evening of Aug. 25 at Soldiers' field by a cast of 5,000 colored singers, dancers and actors has called a meeting of her committee this noon at College Inn at the Hotel Sherman. Among those who will attend the meeting are Dr. and Mrs. Charles King Corsant, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby G. Walling, and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Richardson.

Metal Gleam Marks Styles for Evenings

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The witching hour before dinner, before the first curtain or before the evening's real festivities begin this season, will be your hour for glittering and gleaming, if the best clothes designers have their way. Cocktail clothes, dinner costumes, and dance dresses positively take your breath away because of the metallic brocades, the lamés, and the rainbow effects of rich, tawny color introduced or woven through the metal weaves.

Entire creations of lamé and stiff picturesque brocades are for real dress parade, but the designers have achieved some very splendid combines with dull crêpe and velvet, topped with lamé or supple metal cloth. Tunic blouses with long tight sleeves; cleverly draped metallic blouses that seem to be molded to the ribs, having long sleeves with fullness above the elbow; and some jacket-blouse effects with buttons and frogs and slim trim silhouettes, are just a few of the possibilities.

Even the wool frocks for street wear have their quota of this flashing metal stuff, in a big bow, a curving collar, turn back cuffs, belts, and some of the best looking vestee effects imaginable. You've no idea what a bit of glitter will do for dark green, brown, and burgundy red thin wool dresses, especially if the lamé or brocade is shot with the same color as the dress. That, by the way, is another new idea for metal weaves.

Not content with using trimmings of metal cloth, textile makers have sent some seductive looking bolts of wool woven with metal threads, green with copper or gold, sapphire blue with silver, gray with gunmetal, brown with dusky old gold, and a lot of other equally effective contrasts. Flecks of metal, spots and dots, invisible checks, and blurred criss-crossed lines of either gold or silver or gun metal threads cause some of the hitherto rather drab woolens to rise and shine in the fall fashion parades as never before.

Fashion photograph — New mink coats are made with amazingly slim silhouettes, with new draped sleeves and large collars with squared corners. The model illustrated is from a Chicago shop.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The height of beach elegance, cosmetically speaking, is a white washable kit that dots a lot of shop counters. Husbands and wooers, in particular, are urged to look at it if the love of their life is contemplating a vacation. It's a trim little affair in a white washable fabric. Inside is every blessed thing a woman ever yearned for when she went near the water.

The cosmetics are definitly in the swanky class; every woman likes them and likes her feminine friends to know she uses them. Only a woman could appreciate the satisfaction of flashing a kit like this around.

If she's the type and thinks she'll give this sun tan idea a little fling, there is an efficient sun oil with which to douse herself. But if she knows in her heart that while the bronze coat may be broccoli to some people it's spinach to her, she'll give her whole heart to all the aids to beach beauty that come in the little case.

Cream, of course . . . you can't replenish the complexion without it, and this is a beautiful one. Then there is a tube of sunproof cream, to use as a makeup base as well as a protective, and guaranteed to keep her lily fair. Two shades of powder, one light and one dark. A vivid lipstick to give her most casual moments a certain dramatic finesse and, as the final swell-elegant touch, a flask of perfume so marvelous it would tear your heartstrings.

So much for the external aids to loveliness in the beach kit de luxe. There are grooming aids, too—a comb, cleansing tissues and the minor matter that is a huge contributor to ultimate perfection—a little packet of hairpins. And to top all this, literally and figuratively, there's an honest-to-goodness sized mirror that reflects the face with which you face the rest of the swimming world.

It's the answer, this beach kit, to the question of how to be elegant while at ease. ELEANOR NANGLE.

ENGAGEMENTS

An engagement announcement of interest concerns the engagement of Miss Mirjane Strong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gillespie Strong of Highland Park, to Donald S. Kemmerer, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Kemmerer of Princeton, N. J. The wedding will probably take place in the late fall. Miss Strong is now visiting in Maine with her fiancé and his family, and plans to return to Highland Park soon.

Garden Party Is Style Revue for Hollywood

Film Famous Wear Their New Fall Outfits.

BY ROSALIND SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Gene Raymond, platinum-haired screen star arrived on the invitation of a friend at the Russian Eagle gardens and found himself his mother's chief guest at a swank party in honor of his birthday. His mother, Mary Kipling, is here on a visit from New York; she is well known under that name as a novelist.

The tea was the occasion of a perfect fall turnout of fashions, as it was a cool day, and velvets and woolens were worn by the film famous. The party was held under the spreading palms of the garden with the costumed Russian orchestra playing the sentimental strains of "Black Eyes" and Viennese waltzes that are suddenly so popular again.

Marguerite Churchill was noted in a stunning white and brown floral print dress with three-quarters brown velvet coat and wide stitched brim brown velvet pirate hat. Muriel Kirkland, in dark blue chiffon print, wore one of the new blue velvet wide tams, with blue velvet coat. Mrs. Johnny Mack Brown was smart in a black organdy costume entirely tailored with flat tucked shirt front and jacket and a clever corded black silk tam.

Mary Brian, just back from her eastern tour a few days, had a woolen sports suit, blue tailored jacket and blue and white fine checked skirt. A wide stitched felt hat in blue matched the costume.

Marjorie Gateson, in a handsome afternoon ensemble of tucked black chiffon with a long skirted gown and snugly fitted jacket with flaring peplum, had a triple white sheer collar, the edges bound in white satin, and a black felt tricorne with a saucy cockade of black ribbon.

Marjorie was laughing over her encounter with Murray Roth the other day at the studio.

Roth, a director, said: "You were with the Shuberts, weren't you?"

"Yes, in the Gaieties," she answered, wondering to herself.

"There were a lot of good looking show girls in that," said Roth.

"O, yes, indeed," said Miss Gateson, preparing to be asked the usual "What became of the cute blonde in the second place from the right?" or such, but nothing further was said.

Later, Miss Gateson saw a very pretty girl on one side of the set and remarked to Roth, "My, she looks familiar—I wonder who she is?"

"You recognize her?" said Mr. Roth. "She's my wife—used to be in the Gaieties. I was peddling songs back stage in those days."

Bing Crosby is living on borrowed time, according to two doctors now holding consultations over him. They are urging an immediate operation for appendicitis which probably will be performed next week.

Dick Arlen and his wife, Joby Ralston, are simply tearing up the Hollywood bookstores buying maps of the South seas. It's all on account of the new yacht now being built, which is sixty-three feet nine inches long and fifteen feet four inches in the beam. The ship has a Marconi rig and auxiliary Diesel engine.

Her Husband's Fiancee

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Cecily Marshall returns after a year's absence to the home in Bellchester, England, where she had lived with her husband, David Marshall, the city's leading merchant prince. Cecily had been a shopgirl at Marshall's. Beautiful Audrey Lowe, who had wanted David for herself, bribed an innkeeper to swear that Cecily had spent the night in the same room with Audrey's cousin, Reggie Davies, a night they were marooned due to motor trouble. David won a divorce from Cecily and the custody of their small child, Rose Ann. The child grieves for her mother. Fearing for her health, Nanna, her nurse, secretly wires Cecily. When David, who is about to marry Audrey, discovers Cecily's presence he orders her and Nanna from the house. Rose Ann develops brain fever and David is forced to send for Cecily. Rose Ann recovers. Cecily rejects David's proposal that they remarry for Rose Ann's sake. She takes rooms in Bellchester, with Nanna, and determines to prove her innocence. She sees Rose Ann daily. David tries unsuccessfully to break his engagement to Audrey. Audrey is blackmailed by Mrs. Partridge, the wife of the deceased innkeeper. To get her to leave Bellchester, Audrey gives her a valuable brooch, which was a present from David. Audrey tells David she lost the brooch. He insists on advertising for it. Cecily appeals to Reggie Davies to help her clear their names. He refuses to become involved. As they are about to leave the cafe where they had met David walks in and Reggie makes a hasty exit.

INSTALMENT XXVII.
A SUPPOSED CATASTROPHE.

Cecily said: "If you're not careful somebody will hear you and begin to take an interest in our conversation."

She rather admired David for making this scene. He showed up very well by contrast to Reggie.

"Excuse me, sir." That was the waitress, wanting him to move his arms from the table so that she could unburden her tray.

Cecily helped herself to one of the sandwiches and bit into it.

"O—O—O! Delicious!" she murmured.

"Cecily, I want to know. Are you seeing that cad constantly?"

"Not very constantly. I have a shrewd idea I shan't ever see him again, after this. You haven't put any sugar in your coffee, David."

"Are you actually contemplating marrying him? You said just now——"

"He wouldn't have me at any price. That was just my fun. Reggie wouldn't marry a piece of damaged goods, even if he was the one responsible for its depreciated market value. I don't think he will ever marry at all, if he can help himself."

"You're being simply disgusting," said David, in a tone of voice that matched the strong word he had used.

"Are you sure it's not a case of dog-in-the-manger? Although, of course, you did ask me to marry you—I mean, remarry you."

He walked home with her—but it was like walking barefooted on thorns. He wondered if Cecily felt the same about it.

"Please don't remind me of that mental lapse of mine," David said bitterly. "I want to know what you and Davies were doing there together. I've a right to know."

"I don't think you have. All the same, I understand how irritating it is when somebody won't gratify another person's curiosity."

"It isn't curiosity."

"Well, whatever it is. I dragged Reggie here—he didn't want me to come to his boarding house—to ask him to join forces with me. I thought he would want to help me prove our innocence. He didn't. He's afraid. I don't know what of, exactly. All the same, I'm getting a little nearer to it. I think he knows who let the petrol out of his tank that night, and he knows that the Partridge woman is in Bellchester. Her husband is dead. I almost ran her to earth today. If I can find her I shall strangle the truth out of her and make her sign a confession."

David moistened his lips. Something was going 'round and 'round in his mind and making him feel quite dizzy.

Cecily hadn't mentioned Audrey's name, but it wasn't necessary.

On Sunday Audrey had lost her brooch, and it was on Monday when the shops were closing that David fancied he had seen her in the High street walking with a short, squarely built woman, whose familiarity puzzled him.

The mention of Mrs. Partridge brought back that scarcely visualized glimpse of the two women. He had not thought of her as being in Bellchester. In David's mind she was inseparable from that sluttish little hostelry back there in the hills, a place he would not willingly set eyes upon again for a fortune.

If it had been Audrey, if it had been Mrs. Partridge—what should the two of them be doing together in the High street at that time of night, or at any other time?

"What do you mean by saying you almost ran her to earth today?" he asked.

Cecily told him. She had gone out to the Rounford Arms that afternoon, taking the children for a picnic tea. And then when she heard that Mrs. Partridge was in Bellchester, working at Purcell's, she had gone there as soon as she got back. But the woman had thrown over her job only this afternoon and the clerk in the shop could not give any information as to where she lived.

"I shall find her, though," said Cecily, with a confidence she did not entirely feel.

Almost it seemed as though David and she were friends again.

He appeared to have forgotten that he had caught her here with Reggie and threatened dire things in consequence. He asked her if she would not have some more sandwiches, despite the fact that Levy's was filling up now, and the risk of recognition more probable.

They left the café together and he walked back with her to Standish crescent.

But it was like walking barefoot on thorns. He wondered if Cecily felt the same way about it. She was so cool and detached that he doubted if she did.

Over the bridge spanning the rushing water turned darkly silver under the moon. Past the church where they had been married. Along the crescent where, during their short courtship, his footsteps had ever been turning, and parting finally at the familiar iron gate.

"Good night, David."

"Good night," he said abruptly.

He wished he had not gone into Levy's tonight. Bellchester quite obviously was not big enough to hold both him and Cecily—to say nothing of Audrey and her cousin.

For several days Audrey anxiously scanned the advertisements in Bellchester's favorite paper and found no mention of her lost brooch, but on Wednesday morning the advertisement was in The Echo, and when she saw it, Audrey realized why it had been delayed. For all his busyness, David had found time to go to the jeweler's and obtain a file sketch of the ornament, and here it was in The Echo under the Losts and Founds, depicted and fully described in every detail. A reward of £100 was offered for the return of the brooch or information which would lead to its recovery.

The sight of the thing made her feel quite sick. David had not prepared her for this. Indeed, although they had met several times in the interim, he had not mentioned the brooch at all.

Of course, Mrs. Lowe knew all about the supposed catastrophe, and in consequence so did Audrey's friends and relations. The telephone buzzed with sympathetic inquiries.

It seemed to Audrey that in a very short time she would go stark staring mad, and she came as near to disliking David as was possible. She must rouse herself and prepare her defense in case it all came out.

On Thursday the advertisement was in again. It looked like becoming a daily feature of The Echo.

But on that evening something happened which turned Audrey's despair to rejoicing. All was well. The relief was almost more than she could bear.

It had come in the form of a letter from Mrs. Partridge, a letter which bore no address and a London postmark.

It said:

Dear Miss:

In case you are being worried would advise you that the gentleman that bought your article off me is breaking it up to dispose of separate. I seen the ad. but don't in the circs that you put it in yourself.

Hoping this finds you as it leaves me in proper health and spirits, I am,

Yrs. respttly.,
A. PARTRIDGE.

P. S.: My cousin sends me The Echo else I would not have seen it. She breathed again.

GASOLINE ALLEY—VOLUNTEER POSSE

Swimming One of Best Sports for Young Fry

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Give your child every opportunity you can to learn to swim. I see children of all ages doing all kinds of things in the summer time, but I don't know of anything that gives them the satisfaction and actual fun that water and swimming do.

Swimming is not only a pleasure to children. It is valuable to them as a health giving exercise and it is a means of self-protection. But in addition it is an investment in life long pleasure. There is no age limit, practically, to an adult's enjoyment of swimming. Learned most easily when you're young, it's a sport that can be indulged in throughout life. Like walking, it is one of the most enjoyable, least expensive, and most healthful and least taxing of exercises.

When your children first begin to get used to the water, let them flounder happily around without interference, only making it your business to see that they don't get into danger or stay in too long. If they're little, of course they need you right beside them in the water.

Don't try to supervise their strokes and give them directions for learning some definite technique. Let them flop and splutter around in the way that seems natural to them, and the first thing you know they'll be keeping themselves up and even progressing through the water with that easy-going, active "doggee-paddle," as they call it. Let them keep at this, with their other antics like duckings and floatings, until they are at home in the water. Then if they see advanced swimmers every day, they'll begin to experiment with the crawl, and swimming under water, and diving.

Be sure, however, if they are learning in a large body of water that they do no foolhardy things, and that there is some one—a lifeguard or an experienced and interested swimmer—near at hand in case of need. The most expert swimmers are often heard to remark that they have "a wholesome respect" for the water.

Sally's Guests to See Frank Buck's Show at World Fair Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

"One for the money; two for the show; three to get ready, and four to go!"

The only money the youngsters who are to be my guests today will need is carfare—Frank Buck will provide the show—at the Fair. I hope you're all ready with your invitations. And we'll go on the dot at the appointed time today. I know we'll have a grand time today, boys and girls. I want all the winners to be at the meeting place promptly—and remember your invitations!

You children who're not coming with me today had better get your letters written and mailed, because this is your last chance to be included in our delightful theater party next week. Thursday I'm going to read all requests for invitations for that party.

If you want to come to the Jack and Jill theater with me sit down and tell me all about it; include your name, address, and age, and mail your letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 14.—George Brent is trying to be Garbo's leading man in more than "The Painted Veil." . . . Greta's salary has been quoted many times, but never the correct figure. . . . Miss Garbo, the highest price performer, receives the amazing sum of $270,000 a picture. . . . Gladys George, a recent addition to the Hollywood leading ladies, and her wealthy husband have reached an agreement. . . . Thelma Todd now owns a restaurant on the road to Malibu which is called the Sidewalk café. . . . Enzo Fiermonte turned down one of the lead rôles, that of the playboy in "White Parade," for Fox, because he wants to start in a small but suitable rôle and work his way up to stardom. . . . The William Wellmans, she is Dorothy Coonan, expect the baby in three weeks. . . . Mae West uses balloons to get a bosom effect in certain scenes in "Belle of the Nineties." . . . And one of the retake scenes had to be retaken because one of the balloons burst as the camera was turning.

The flicker "Dames" is still in the recording room and the two big songs in the flicker have been well known hits for weeks. . . . The songs were released because some one in the main office got the release date of the picture wrong and gave the okay to let the songs be broadcast. . . . Warners are afraid that this will hurt the box office receipts of the picture. . . . And another song in the picture is still being considered by the censors. . . . It is titled, "When You Were a Gleam in Your Father's Eye and a Smile on Your Mother's Lips."

David Jack Holt is the name of your next favorite movie star. . . . You'll see him when "You Belong to Me" gets to town. . . . He isn't starred, but it is his picture: he is the male Shirley Temple—only a better performer. . . . The yarns about Merle Oberon and Joseph Schenck didn't mention it, but Miss Oberon is Douglas Fairbanks' leading lady in his new flicker, "The Private Life of Don Juan." . . . Those Hollywood friends who sent cables of congratulations to Schenck at Monte Carlo discovered that it cost them $2.66 merely to address the cable. . . . A young boy, one of the visitors on the "Music in the Air" set, walked up to Douglas Montgomery, who was rehersing a scene and asked for his autograph. . . . "I admired you very much," said the lad, "ever since I saw you in that picture, 'Little Man, You've Had a Busy Day'." . . . But that is topped by the girl at Metro who wanders about the sets selling candy to the players. . . . She walked up to Maurice Chevalier while he was doing a scene in "The Merry Widow" and the camera was turning to sell him a piece of candy. . . . Director Lubitsch was very nice about it. . . . He stopped the camera and said to the girl: "Please, during the middle of a scene, don't sell fudge!"

Janice Jarrett in "Kid Millions" is one of the prettiest chorines to flash on the screen . . . Eddie Cantor is among those who votes Miss Jarrett the most beautiful girl he ever worked with and you know the list of Ziegfeld beauties he has appeared with . . . there are so many close-ups of her in the "Mandy" number that the other chorines call it the "Jarrett number." . . . A press agent took a relative of an executive of the Motion Picture Herald on to a lot . . . he pointed to Mary Boland sitting diligently knitting a sweater between scenes. . . . "See," said the press agent, "Miss Boland is not only a good actress—she crochets, too." . . . "Knits to you," chirped demure little Mary Boland. . . . Ketti Gallian, the French imported star, is the only actress in Hollywood whose chest measurement is larger than her hips.

A big name writer was recently signed by a big studio at the big salary of $10,000 a week. . . . He has been here three weeks and a friend asked him what he had done. . . . "Nothing," replied the $10,000 a week supervisor, "I'm just learning the business."

Officials of Missouri objected to the title of Jean Harlow's flicker, "The Girl from Missouri" . . . but Metro reminded them that Jean Harlow was born in Missouri. . . . Janet Cantor, the youngest of Eddie's five daughters, will make her screen debut in "Kid Millions." . . . She will appear in the big ice cream scene. . . . The advertising manager for Sam Goldwyn came to him to get his approval on a set of advertisments to be used in exploiting the new Anna Sten flicker, "We Live Again." The copy on the advertisments read: "'We Live Again'—it combines the beauty of Sten, the genius of Mamoulian, the greatness of Tolstoi, the wizardry of Goldwyn." "That's good," said Goldwyn, approving the copy . . . "that's what we want, no claims—just facts!"

Stan Laurel of the Laurel and Hardy team will be laid up for two weeks by muscle injuries sustained today when he tripped and fell on the "Babes in Toyland" set at Universal.

Girls, It's Bad Policy to Call Boys on Phone

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Girls, don't demand that the young man call you up. Don't ask him to explain why he hasn't called you up. Don't tell him that he promised to call and he didn't keep his promise. That's just telephone etiquet applied with good common sense. There's something maddening about being put on the witness stand over phone calls. It's become such a commonplace to say: "I'll call you up some time" that nobody with sense accepts it as other than a pleasantry of the moment, not a statement to be held against one.

We know how many of you young women kill the male interest you most covet by this sort of hectoring about phone calls. Let the calls come voluntarily or else use some subtlety about getting your man to ring up. By subtlety we don't mean, either, that you phone and leave your number to be called by him unless you have a planned party or engagement of some sort which you would like him to attend. We mean, don't phone him, or leave your number for him to call back, and then disclose your peeve at his telephone neglect. That's suicide to your hopes.

Marriage looks like enough of a noose to a man today without insinuating to him early in the game that he's in for badgering on every little casual promise. This telephoning business, since women assumed the privilege of calling up willy-nilly, assumes terrifying proportions to men, we warn you, young women. With demands and requests, they simply take to their heels. Besides, there is the novelty of presenting yourself as a young woman who doesn't keep after a man, still a very appealing quality in woman. We don't mean, naturally, that you should be formidable, inaccessible. Just have that bit of reserve about pursuing a gentleman which makes him feel he is getting something worth going after and a little bit hard to get.

Events on the Stage

After two postponements the date of the première of the "Ziegfeld Follies of 1934" revue has been definitly fixed for Tuesday, Sept. 4, at the Grand Opera house. Motion picture activities of Fannie Brice, one of the stars of the company, are said to have been responsible for the changes of plan. The opening was first announced for Aug. 12 and then for Aug. 26.

The entire cast is now rehersing in New York and will arrive in Chicago on Labor day. In addition to Miss Brice the principal players and singers will be Willie and Eugene Howard, stars of many Broadway revues; Barré Hill, an opera baritone; Cherry and June Preisser, dancing sisters; Harrison and Fisher, dancers of stage and screen experience; Vivian Janis, a Chicago girl discovered by Ben Bernie; Eve Arden, Victor Morley, Brice Hutchins, Loretta Dennison, and Judith Barron.

"Macbeth" will be the next addition to the repertory of Shakespearean plays in the Old Globe theater at the Fair. The first performance will be given next Saturday evening at 7:30. Carl Benton Reid will have the title rôle and Irene Tedrow will appear as Lady Macbeth.

The Gilbert and Sullivan company, now giving "The Mikado" at the Studebaker theater, will change its bill to "The Pirates of Penzance" next Monday night. . . . "The Milky Way," the comedy now in its fifth week at the Cort theater, will end its engagement next Saturday night.

Witnesses Tell How Miss Dressler Joked at Signing of Will

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Marie Dressler's last will and testament, disposing of her $310,000 estate, was admitted to probate today as witnesses to it described her signing of the document while on her deathbed.

"She sat up in bed, took the pen in her fingers, and scratched her sprawling signature," testified Alan Breen Walker, the actress' lifelong friend whom she named executor of her estate.

"Then she twisted up her face, as she did on the screen, and said: 'Well, that's that'."

"She seemed so cheerful and full of energy, we asked her to autograph some pictures for us. This she did, with the same expression and the same remark, 'That's that'."

After all witnesses had testified Miss Dressler's mind was clear Superior Judge Charles S. Crail ordered the will probated.

ter, Janet, Mrs. Frederick Hauck, home in another week or two. Mrs. Hauck has been enjoying a fishing jaunt with the Joseph Brooks in the Adirondacks and, Mrs. Chase explains, "she has had better luck than the President, for she has really caught something."

Upon her return Mrs. Hauck and her other sister, Polly Chase Boyden, hope to complete their book of children's poems upon which they have been working for more than a year. Polly has done the poems and Janet is doing the illustrations.

National President of Junior League in City.

Miss Elizabeth Taylor of Little Rock, Ark., elected national president of the Junior league last spring at Toronto, was in town yesterday for a brief glimpse of the Fair, luncheon and dinner. Miss Taylor is on her way to her parents' summer camp near Boulder, Colo.

Another Little Rock visitor who was here on Monday was Mrs. Arthur McLean, who is also well known in Junior league circles. Mrs. McLean has gone on to Ridgeway, Ont., where she has a summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway H. Olmsted are expected to return to Chicago in two weeks from their eastern vacation trip.

Mrs. Calvin Fentress is at Charlevoix with friends. Before she returns to her Winnetka home the end of this week she will stop for a day or two in Ludington. The Fentress' daughter, Harriet, is assembling a wardrobe for her return to Vassar the middle of September.

It will be the middle of September at least before Miss Jane Morton returns to Lake Forest to be with her family, the Mark Mortons. Miss Morton is up at Desbarats in her own cabin on her own island.

Mrs. William W. Gurley and her daughter, Miss Helen Gurley, are winding up a European holiday with a visit in London. They are due in Chicago the first week in September.

MacCaughey-Schreiner Nuptials on Sept. 1.

Crisp, white invitations were in yesterday's mail for the reception that is to follow the wedding of Miss Mary Houston MacCaughey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bonner MacCaughey, and John Jacob Schreiner, the Charles Schreiners' son, at 4 o'clock Sept. 1, at the Kenilworth home of the MacCaugheys. The wedding itself is to be a very small affair, with only the immediate families and a few intimate friends present, but several dozen more friends will come in at 4:30 for the reception.

Mrs. Harry A. Allen, Miss MacCaughey's sister, is going to be the matron of honor and Miss Sarah Davis, who was Miss MacCaughey's roommate at Ogontz, will be here from Pittsburgh tomorrow to enjoy the round of parties that precede the wedding and then serve as maid of honor.

Mr. Schreiner's father will be his best man and ushering . . . of course there is really no ushering done at a home wedding . . . will be Charles Schreiner Jr., Paul Gillerlain, Harry A. Allen, and Herbert Moss of Texas.

Mrs. Logan Will Entertain for Guest.

Mrs. Stuart Logan is entertaining at luncheon today in her pent house atop 2344 Lincoln Park West for her house guest, Mrs. Howard Dunbar Smith of New York. Mrs. Smith, known professionally as Cyrena Van Gordon, formerly lived in Chicago and has many friends here who always welcome her visits. Mr. Smith accompanied her to Chicago, but he has gone to California and will rejoin her here in about a fortnight.

There are few things that bring Mrs. William S. Monroe in from her farm in Wayne to the city in the summer, but anything connected with the Salvation Army is pretty certain to be a strong enough drawing card to persuade her to leave the seclusion and quiet of White Gates farm, for the army is one of her pets.

Today she is going to the Fair to act as one of the hostesses in the Army's doughnut hut and to serve coffee and doughnuts to Gov. Hockenhull of New Mexico and his party at 4 o'clock.

Ladies' Wreath.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Ladies' wreath" is another of the numerous four patch patterns, and it is among the more elaborate of those designs. An interesting color arrangement has been made with this block by the use of yellow, red, green print, and white. The original block was pieced in 1869 in Connecticut.

Shall we give meat to young children? And if so, when shall we start, what kind shall we select, and how shall we cook it?

Stickers, all of these, for the mother who is planning meals for her first—or her fifth, for that matter—since ideas on this business of proper nutrition are changing constantly. We'll start by admitting freely that not all doctors and dietitians are yet agreed on the age at which a child should first find meat turning up in his diet. But averaging all the opinions, we find this general view. As soon as our young pretender to grown-up food has cut his front set of four teeth, meat may start to arrive. But before this time, in fact from the eighth or ninth month on, authorities state that scraped beef and bits of well-crisped bacon are safe food for the baby.

But even when meat does join the other foods in the young person's meal schedule, not all meats are equally advisable. Pork and veal are frowned upon at first. Beef, lamb, mutton, and poultry are easily digested and, therefore, placed upon the approved list. Excellent also are heart, liver, kidney, brain, tongue, tripe, and sweetbreads . . . even better, many of these, than the more common cuts, for the edible organs can boast themselves grand muscle builders as well as first class manufacturers of good blood. Certain health-boosting vitamins are present in all lean meats, but especially are they important in kidney and liver—two foods which very decidedly go on the listing of health-raising foods. These meats, by the way, ask to be roasted, broiled, or stewed—but not fried, if their destination is the plate of a child.

In the matter of liver, don't stop with the first calf's liver the butcher hands you. Beef, pork, lamb, and calf's liver are all A1 workers for health, with pork liver given the lead. And, since beef, sheep, and pork livers are less in demand at the market than is calf's liver, they are nearly always lower in price, and therefore better buys.

But whether we're still growing, or have gotten over that business long since, liver with its gay versatility and its all-round health qualities is a food to invite with flattering frequency to family meals.

A neighbor passed on this first recipe to me, together with a man-sized helping to prove it worth making. It was, and here 'tis:

Curried Liver with Rice.

1½ pounds liver, sliced
2½ tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
2 tablespoons minced onion
Salt
1 teaspoon curry powder
1½ cups hot water
3 cups cooked rice

Dip the liver slices in the flour and brown in the bacon drippings to which the minced onion has been added. Turn the cooked rice into a buttered casserole and over it lay the slices of liver, dusting them generously with salt. Add the hot water to the flour and onion in the pan. Stir in the curry powder mixed with a little cold water. Cook about 10 minutes. If not thick and brown enough, add a little more flour-and-water paste and a tablespoon of caramel. Turn the sauce over the rice and liver and heat in a moderate open [350 degrees F.].

Spanish Onions Stuffed with Liver.

1½ pounds liver, cooked and ground
1 cup fine, dry, bread crums
½ cup melted butter
1 tablespoon minced parsley
Salt and pepper
1 cup tomato sauce.

Parboil the onions in salted water, then remove the hearts, leaving a firm, half-cooked shell. Chop the centers and mix thoroughly with the cooked, ground liver, the bread crums, melted butter, parsley, and seasoning. Pack this mixture into the onion shells and place them in a greased baking dish. Pour the tomato sauce around them and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until the onions are completely tender.

Traditional Suit Gone Modern

WOMAN'S AND MISS' JACKET SUIT.

Black and white woolen promises to be a favorite for early fall wear, as shown in today's model. The bodice of this dress and the bow are of black satin crêpe, and the jacket doesn't hide it, either, for it is the collarless youthful, boxy type. This little costume is also stunning carried out in black satin crêpe, with the bodice and bow of tucked net.

The pattern, No. 3052, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Right Coiffure Is Available to All Women

Expert Attention May Be Had Anywhere.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Coiffure beauty is one of those things on which a large audience is likely to disagree, as I discovered in a recent capacity as judge in a coiffure contest. Of course, any beauty contest is bound to be met with wide differences of opinion. A completely unanimous vote among judges, even, is a rare occurrence. But to get back to the coiffure contest of recent judging, thirty young women presented as many varieties of hairdressing, representative of the work of as many hairdressing shops. There was a great deal of originality in the exhibit, indicating the interest of both hairdresser and patron in this phase of modern beautifying. I say modern because I doubt if, in the history of coiffures, there has ever been a time when every woman was in a position to indulge in the glorifying art the way she is at this moment.

The community from which the contestants were drawn in the contest I'm speaking about is an average community populated by people of average means. The hairdressing rates are nominal. Yet, the women here, as in richer settings, are permitted a wide variety of coiffures and, in several outstanding cases, as represented in the contest, they are permitted outstanding chic.

The coiffure of the prize winner was a masterpiece of sheer artistry and originality, as suave and sophisticated and sleek a piece of work as I have seen anywhere, here or abroad. It was a long hairdress, brushed off the forehead, ears three-quarters exposed, with a gorgeous wide wave the head over, the hair ending in the back to give a remarkably clever hair line and exquisite shape to the back of the head and neck.

The second prize winner was a young girl with an adorable Little Jo hair arrangement that suited her personality well. The third was another clever long haired arrangement, and the fourth showed what can be done to give, to a bobbed-head line, style and chic simplicity. The brushed-up ends of the hair in the back, fairly highly placed on the neck, and the simple neatness of the arrangement, made this bobbed head quite distinctive. Others were worthy of comment. But these clever coiffures indicate that in every community or neighborhood there are good artists. If you shop around and demand the clever coiffure you can get it.

The chief fault noted in the noneligibles for prizes was, of course, the heavily ornate and overdressed heads, heads simply borne down with the weight of superfluous rows and rows of "sausage" curls in the back and too many curlycues about the face. Whether taste can be changed away from this too decorative, too fussy headdress is a question.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned Four Horsemen team of four, and has won twenty national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle, which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

SOME GRAND SLAM SITUATIONS.

Sp. K x — Di. A J x
Hts. A 10 x — Cl. A K Q x x

Opener bids a no trump. Partner's response is three spades. Now plainly big things are in sight; there is no real doubt that we are going to make a small slam. The important thing is to handle the bidding so that the grand slam prospects are brought to light. The opening bidder must therefore incorporate in his next bid the fact that the responder need not sign off because he only has one ace. By bidding four clubs, he knows he can only evoke a sign-off response. This would mean a solid concealed club suit and two aces. Partner is marked with five or six spades to A Q, and 1½ primary tricks in the red suits—Q J x and K Q x or perhaps K Q x of both. Again, he may have enough club support to make that suit solid. Opener's proper bid over three spades is five clubs. This positively announces three aces and a solid concealed long club suit. If responder's hand is his bid is five no trumps, denying club support or a six-card holding in spades or three primary tricks plus in the hand. With K Q x in each red suit, his bid is six no trumps, showing a reserve value in high cards only. With A Q J x x in spades and the hand otherwise as given above, or with A Q x x x x, the response of five spades will say that this suit is presumably solid if partner has one of the top three honors as the opening bid and subsequent slam try positively indicate. Opener now bids five no trumps, feeling that the clubs may not break and there may be a red finesse to take. Now if responder has, instead of the hand assumed so far,

Sp. A Q x x x — Di. K Q x
Hts. Q J x — Cl. x x

Sp. A Q J x x — Di. K x x
Hts. K Q x — Cl. x x

his response to five no trumps should be six no trumps on account of his three clear primary tricks in terms of A Q K Q K, and the spade solidity. With,

Sp. A Q x x x x — Di. K x x
Hts. K Q x — Cl. x

his bid is six spades, which opener could raise to seven if holding K J x in support. With

Sp. A Q x x x — Di. K x
Hts. K Q x — Cl. J x x

or

Sp. A Q x x x — Di. K x
Hts. K Q — Cl. x x x x

the responder must make the decision which is plainly up to him. In either case he should bid seven clubs. The only risk is that all the outstanding clubs are bunched in one hand. With Sp. A Q J x x in either of the above hands, responder, knowing no spade trick need be lost, should bid seven no trumps over the five-club bid, which has empowered him to make this decision.

With Two Aces Each.

Opener holds

Sp. K x x — Di. A J
Hts. K J x — Cl. A K Q x x

and his partner has

Sp. A Q J x x — Di. K x x
Hts. A x x — Cl. x x

the bidding is—one no trump, three spades, four clubs [confirming two aces by accepting the slam try], five no trumps [showing a second ace], six spades [showing at least K x x and confirming the four primary-trick content of the hand and its soundness in respect of all bids made so far, but alleging no distinct rebid values in excess of those shown by the four-club bid]. Now, by virtue of his knowledge that both black suits are beyond reasonable doubt quite solid, accounting for ten tricks, plus the two red aces and his diamond king, responding hand bids seven no trumps. Why slam in either black suit when there might be a first round ruff of whichever one is not trumps?

BRAVES ROUT BUSH; DEFEAT CUBS, 15 TO 2

Devise Pass Defense on Train.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hutchinson, Kas., Aug. 14.—"If they let us play college rules we'll take those Bears." This was the sentiment expressed today by Aaron Rosenberg, Southern California's guard; Adolphe [Tar] Schwammel of Oregon State, and Homer [Crooner] Griffith, star back from U. S. C., part of the Pacific slope's contribution to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE All-Star football game at Soldiers' field, Chicago, Aug. 31.

Rosenberg and Schwammel, who played each other to a standstill in a 0 to 0 game which wrote coast collegiate football history at Portland, Ore., last fall, are the type of football enthusiasts who will sit up half of any night to work out playing tricks for the discomfiture of a foe. Rosenberg and Griffith, who played against the Bears in four games on the Pacific coast last winter, conferred with Schwammel today over ways and means of stopping the Bears' passing attack.

"If they have to play college rules, where the passer must stay five yards behind the line of scrimmage, we may do a lot toward breaking up their passing attack," Griffith said.

Schwammel Was a Tar.

Schwammel, yellow haired, hazel eyed giant from Oakland, Cal., won his nickname by serving a two year hitch in Uncle Sam's navy. It was about the time that Bill Ingram was coaching back at Annapolis and some of Uncle Sam's officers stationed on the Pacific coast thought they would transplant the 225 pound coast youth to a place where he could manhandle West Point half backs.

Schwammel went to San Diego Naval Training school expecting to take a course preparatory to the Annapolis mathematics examination, but after he got there, found himself signed to regular enlistment papers and taking a course preparatory to holystoning decks. It took two United States senators and several congressmen to get him back on the Oregon state campus.

Griffith Can Sing.

Griffith, who is the coast's sweet singing contribution to the houseful of gridders assembling on the Northwestern campus, did a turn as a night club warbler at Hollywood's Beverly Wilshire hotel. But Homer's venture into crooning is only deceptive; he's really in his element when the going gets rough on the gridiron. Son of a Welsh father and Swedish mother, he is an inheritor of the far west's pioneer tradition. His father and mother traveled west to Colorado in a covered wagon.

Schwammel's father was an Austrian brewer from Bavaria. Fred Canrinus, tall and lithe pass snatching end from St. Mary's college at Oakland, was to have accompanied Schwammel, Griffith and Rosenberg to Chicago, but was delayed at his home in Oakland and left from there direct.

OPEN CAMPS TODAY

The electors have completed their task. Today the elected, the university and college All-American players of 1933 and their coaches, chosen in the greatest popularity contests in the annals of sport, prepare to take office in their training camp at Northwestern university. Two weeks from Friday night these players will meet the Chicago Bears, professional champions of the National league, at Soldiers' field in football's greatest battle.

Today will be devoted to organization in both the professional and university camps. Converging on Chicago

THE GUMPS—WHO?

Paddy Driscoll Will Help Coach Bears for All-Stars

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Paddy Driscoll, the famous Northwestern alumnus, will take a hand in preparing the pro champion Chicago Bears for their football struggle with the college all-stars at Soldiers' field Aug. 31. Return of the ex-Purple half back, also an ex-Bear and ex-Cardinal, to gridiron affairs for the professionals' two weeks training period was announced yesterday by Head Coach George Halas.

PADDY DRISCOLL.

"We had to do something to balance the football brain trust assembled to direct the collegians," Halas declared after Driscoll had come to terms.

Paddy will start masterminding along with Halas and Laurie Walquist tomorrow when the Bears go into a huddle for the first time at Lane Tech High school field, their temporary base of operations. The practice will be a public affair for a few days, but thereafter the Bears will turn collegiate and work behind locked gates.

Kopcha Will Play.

Doubt as to the appearance of Joe Kopcha, one of the Bears' star guards, against the collegians was dispelled yesterday. The ex-Chattanooga athlete graduates today from Rush Medical school and thought it might be necessary to start immediately on his course as interne. After a conference with the Rush dean, arrangements were made whereby the 220 pound lineman will be able to delay this indefinitly. This makes him available not only for the All-Star tussle but for the pro season of 1934. After that he plans to desert the gridiron.

Kopcha is one of five Bear members who either have completed their work for a degree or are still at it. Joe Zeller, the former Indiana guard, reported yesterday and fetched along his new master of physical education rating. He has been practicing at Indiana almost daily. Gene Ronzani, half back, is working for a law degree at Marquette. Bill Karr, end, recently received his degree at West Virginia, and George Corbett, quarter back, the same at Millikin.

Grange Ducks Issue.

The North Central Kiwanians had the veteran Red Grange before them at a luncheon in the Drake hotel yesterday, but the former Illinois great and present Bear ball carrier wisely side stepped a prediction on the outcome of the Aug. 31 battle. He pictured it a tossup, but did furnish a hint of his real thoughts when he said so-called All-America footballers don't show up well against professionals.

Grange declared the playing of the game under lights probably will make a big difference in the effectiveness of the passing game. The famous Red Head also said that, because of the limited time for training, the coaches face a big order in trying to whip the squads up to the point of finished team play. This probably was his way of saying the Bears will not be bothered much in this respect. They've played together before.

Crowley Coming

JIMMY CROWLEY, head football coach at Fordham, will arrive tomorrow morning to assist Noble Kizer in the development of the college all-stars. Crowley's acceptance of The Tribune's invitation gives the 1933 All-Americans the benefit of instruction from the four coaches who led the nationwide poll. The others are Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Robert Zuppke of Illinois.

PARKER WINS IN NEWPORT TENNIS AFTER FIVE SETS

Newport, R. I., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Five of the eight quarter finals brackets were filled today in the Newport Casino tournament. The gallery saw nothing exciting until the sixth seeded Frankie Parker, playing poor tennis, was carried to five sets by Eugene McCauliff of New York, before he won, 2-6, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2.

All of the other quarter finalists qualifiers, with the exception of Bryan Grant, the national clay court champion from Atlanta, gained straight set victories. Grant opposed Henry Prusoff, promising Seattle player suffering from an ailing stomach, who had to default. Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., entered the round of eight by defeating Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C., 7-5, 6-0, 6-3. Gregory Mangin of Newark won from John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., 6-4, 6-2, 7-5, and Berkley Bell defeated the veteran E. W. Fiebleman of New York, 6-1, 6-2, 6-4.

YEA, TEAM!

That shout will go up from thousands of throats at Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31 when the All Americans of 1933 battle the Chicago Bears in football's greatest spectacle.

Tickets are on sale at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn, in Tribune Tower and in the Hall of Science at A Century of Progress Exposition. All are reserved and they cost only $1.10.

If you prefer to order by mail, address applications to Football Ticket Manager, Chicago Tribune. Telephone reservations may be made by calling Superior 0100 and asking for extension 466 or 530.

MISS NUTHALL IS BEATEN IN U. S. TENNIS TOURNEY

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The foreign threat to Helen Jacobs' reign as women's tennis champion of America lost most of its power today when Betty Nuthall of England, top-seeded foreign player, was beaten in a second round match by Mrs. Maude Levi of Minden, Nev., 6-4, 6-4. All the other seeded players gained the third round of the 47th national tournament.

Uses Chop Stroke.

Miss Nuthall, twenty pounds heavier than when she played in this country last year, was far off the game that carried her to the American title in 1930.

Steady from the start, Mrs. Levi employed chop strokes almost exclusively, aiming them at the English girl's backhand. When Betty's powerful forehand drives failed to shake the American she resorted to lobs, whereupon Mrs. Levi scored heavily with overhead smashes.

After a somewhat shaky start in the first set, Miss Jacobs improved her game to eliminate Jane Sharp of Pasadena, Cal., 6-4, 6-1. Miss Sharp got away to a 3-1 lead in the first set.

Spectators Annoy Miss Jacobs.

Miss Jacobs was visibly annoyed by the conduct of the spectators, who cheered the Pasadena player's winning shots and the champion's errors. Miss Jacobs complained to the umpire who requested silence while the ball was in play. After that Miss Jacobs steadied down and made short work of the remainder of the set and ran through the second in little more than ten minutes.

Sarah Palfrey of Brookline, Mass., Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles and Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., the other seeded Americans in that order, disposed of their opponents more easily than did Miss Jacobs. Miss Palfrey conquered Mae Ceurvorst of Wichita, Kas., 6-0, 6-2; Miss Babcock took over Anne Page of Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-0 in a match that required less than 20 minutes, and Miss Andrus defeated Charlotte Darling of Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-1.

CORBETT HANDS MICKEY WALKER 10 ROUND DEFEAT

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, who once held the welterweight and middleweight championships, suffered a ten round trouncing from Young Corbett of Fresno tonight. Walker had hoped the fight would signalize his victorious return as a 160 pounder.

For eight of the rounds the study 33 year old former champion was on the receiving end of sharp smashes to the face and body dealt out by a speedy left hander, who himself last year was shorn of the welterweight crown.

Only in the seventh and ninth rounds did Walker show flashes of his old time form.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

KIKI CUYLER of the Cubs, who broke into the majors in 1921, never has been bounced out of a ball game. . . . Ernie Quigley was about to give him the bum's rush in Pittsburgh recently for yelling too much about a third strike, but Ki remembered his record and pulled in his neck. . . . Cuyler has the highest lifetime batting average of any right handed hitter among the ten year men now playing regularly in the National league. . . . Rogers Hornsby and Riggs Stephenson have higher lifetime marks, but no longer are regulars. . . . The major league stars who will go on a world tour at the close of the season will play in a new $100,000 stadium in Manila. . . . It was built from the proceeds of two sweepstakes authorized by the government. . . . Charley Seaver, who won national golf recognition while at Stanford, has quit the game. . . . He does not intend even to defend his California state championship. . . . He is working as a laborer in the oil fields at Bakersfield. . . .

Jimmy Dykes is one of the calmest players in baseball, but during a football game he loses all control of himself. . . . When a Notre Dame player missed a short forward pass in the Army game last fall Dykes, who was watching the contest from the press box, rose to his feet and shouted imprecations. . . . "Then I was sorry," Jimmy says. . . . "I said to myself that I had kicked a lot of 'em on the ball field that were just as easy." . . . It is reported that Glenn Cunningham, Kansas mile runner, will enter the University of California this fall for graduate study. . . . His intercollegiate career is ended, but it is said he will assist Brutus Hamilton, California coach. . . . He will serve without pay, for he wants to preserve his amateur status for the 1936 Olympic games. . . . Meredith Hopkins, White Sox third baseman, says Schoolboy Rowe and Lefty Gomez have the best fast balls he has seen in either the National or American leagues this season. . . . He says George Blaeholder of the Browns has the best curve ball he has faced. . . .

China, which had only one entry in the Los Angeles Olympic games, will send a full squad to Berlin in 1936. . . . A national athletic carnival will be held at Shanghai in October, 1935, to pick talent for the Berlin games. . . . Wayne Osborne, young pitcher bought by Pittsburgh from the San Francisco Missions, is minus the first joint of his right index finger. . . . The trick finger enables him to throw a fast breaking curve and a fast ball which jumps at a peculiar angle. . . . Bart Cummings of Illinois is getting in condition for the coming season by rowing on Fence lake, in the Lac du Flambeau Indian reservation in Wisconsin. . . . Conrad M. Jennings, Marquette athletic director, has returned to the United States with only four of the six track stars whom he took on a tour of Germany this summer. . . . John Lyman, Stanford weight star, went on to join another American team, while Ivan Fuqua, Indiana runner, moved into Sweden to visit a girl he met on a similar tour last year and with whom he has been corresponding since then. . . . Those returning with Jennings were Venzke, Spitz, Draper, and Brown. . . .

Our Count, now 3 years old, the first son of Reigh Count-Anita Peabody, which, after numerous failures, slipped away from the stable of Mrs. John Hertz for a song, has developed into one of the best overnight handicap performers racing at the Detroit track this season. . . . His daddy, Reigh Count, did not start to show real greatness until his 2 year old campaign was behind him. . . . Keith Parsons, who won six letters as center on Chicago football and basketball teams in 1930-'31-'32, will fill Ken Rouse's former position in the university's promotional offices. . . . Rouse is now manager of public service for the TVA town of Norris, Tenn. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—George Lott Jr. won the national junior tennis title. . . . Earl Sande was slowly improving from his bad spill at Saratoga. . . . Dazzy Vance pitched his twentieth victory of the season when he defeated the Reds, 5 to 0. . . . Eldridge Robinson of Chicago and Donald Carrick of Toronto were the finalists in the western junior golf championship.

ALVIN CROWDER.

The mammoth stadium was crammed to capacity long before game time and it was estimated 25,000 customers were turned away from the gates.

After Crowder and Marberry had given Mickey Cochrane's determined young men the opening victory, although touched for a total of 11 hits, Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe, ace of the Tiger staf, held the slugging Yankees to four hits in the second game.

That's 14 Straight.

The double conquest ran the Tigers' string of victories to 14 straight. Entering the sixth inning of the opener, Detroit was six runs behind, but with the recuperative power that has marked many of their recent successes, the Tigers got to Lefty Gomez, who had yielded only one hit in the first five innings, and tied the count, driving Gomez to cover.

In the seventh, Jimmy Deshong, who relieved Gomez, Johnny Allen and Russell Van Atta, were pounded for four more runs.

Alvin Crowder, who went to Detroit on waivers from the Washington Senators recently, held the Yankees scoreless after the first three innings, during which they collected six hits, including a homer by Saltzgaver. Fred Marberry went to his rescue in the ninth when the Yankees put two men on with one out.

Ruffing Is Easy Mark.

In the second game the Tigers stepped into a two run lead in the first inning when Charley Gehringer slapped his second home run of the day into the right field bleachers with Joiner White, who had singled, on base. They added another in the third, but the Yankees came back with one in the fifth and two in the sixth to tie the score.

The tying hit was Lou Gehrig's thirty-seventh home run, which gave him the lead in the major league race.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Guy Bush, who recently has been talking a strong brand of pitching in reciting the part he is going to play in the winning of the pennant, yesterday lost his voice and his arm simultaneously in the course of a seven hit, six run blast which the Boston Braves turned on after two were out in the third inning of the Cubs-Braves opener at Wrigley field. The attack on Bush whetted the appetites of the visitors and they carried on to a 15 to 2 verdict, including a ninth inning harvest in which the Braves made six runs on eight hits off Roy Joiner and Charley Root.

Goose Ball Explained.

The sad collapse of Bush came when he sought to make use of his "goose ball," which he first introduced in Cincinnati two weeks ago. On that occasion the Reds made six hits in a row off Guy. Yesterday the Mississippian allowed seven hits after two were out, but they were not consecutive, he having thwarted the batsmen by walking a man after three singles.

The goose ball, in case you aren't up in technical baseball matters, is what a pitcher throws when he has nothing but his glove. It is completely different from a fast ball, a curve or a change of pace ball. It is something like the ball which former Coach Johnny Schulte used to throw in batting practice when he was feeling very tired.

Roy Joiner tried to outdo Bush and his goose ball when he threw singles to the first six batsmen in the ninth, but Root had to come in and pitch two singles to bring the inning's scoring up to a half dozen.

Brandt Stops Cubs.

The flop, which was celebrated as "white flag day," really had its inception when the batteries were announced for the Giants-Pirates game in Pittsburgh. When the Cubs learned that Burleigh Grimes was to pitch against Carl Hubbell Cubs started swooning all over the dugout. When they learned that the Pirates had won they showed a few signs of life

THREE TIE FOR MEDAL HONOR IN C. D. G. A. TOURNEY

Wagner, Sweet and Banks Each Score 154.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Ties would seem to be the vogue in the preliminaries to the 21st annual amateur championship of the Chicago District Golf association, judging by the scores submitted yesterday in the 36 hole qualifying round. After Tom Armour and Frank Walsh and their partners had run a dead heat in the pro-amateur event on Monday, three amateurs followed suit yesterday in tying for the medal with scores of 154, although all three had their chance to take it alone.

The trio which came home in front included Johnny Banks, the budding commercial artist, who captained Notre Dame's team last year; Art Sweet, Ridgemoor's golfing author, and young Pick Wagner of Kildeer. Banks was the first to reach the scoreboard with his 154. Wagner, with a chance to win, encountered tree trouble, a common malady on Medinah's No. 3 course, on the last few holes, while Sweet failed to connect on a four foot putt on the last green, after having made a fine third shot. Art had picked up four shots in four holes on Wagner, with whom he was playing, dropping ten foot putts on the 16th and 17th.

Dawson to Meet Lain.

George Dawson of Glen Oak, the defending champion, was exempt from the qualifying round, but will go to bat today in the first round against Bill Lain, Beverly star, who led the Chicago qualifiers in last year's national amateur. Banks is matched against S. L. Reinhardt of Northmoor, Wagner against Warren Dawson of Glen Oak, and Sweet against C. H. Moore of Green Lake, Wis.

Of the 31 qualifiers yesterday two were forced into a play off to decide the last place in the championship flight. They were George Victor of Glen View and H. P. Dearborn of Ridge, each of whom finished with the qualifying limit of 172. Victor won with a deuce on the second extra hole.

Anderegen Shoots 73.

Al Anderegen of Cherry Hill shot the best round of the day, a 73, one over par, after having struggled for an 83 in the morning. This enabled him to tie Bob Baldwin of Bloomington for fourth place in the medal scoring behind Banks, Sweet, and Wagner.

The cards for the three co-medalists follow:

The Heilemann family stole the show yesterday in the nineteenth annual Tam o' Shanter tournament at Westmoreland, each of the four competing members taking a prize. It was Ken, one of the three sons, who turned in the best golf of the day, shooting a 67 to set a new record for the rearranged course. This, with a 75 on his second round, enabled him to take second low gross for 36 holes, a stroke back of Bill Chambers of Briergate. A field of 178 competed in the tournament.

Ken's brother Don and his father Fred led the low net winners for 36 holes, each coming in with a handicapped total of 142. All three and Don, another brother, combined to take the low net foursome prize with a 541. The low gross foursome honors went to Chambers, 141; Dick Martin of Briergate, 158; Ralph Phelen of Evanston, 161, and F. M. Schieble of Westmoreland, 177. Their total was 637.

The morning prizes were won by W. A. Maxwell, 74, and Harry Kline, 77—6—71, and in the afternoon by Ray H. Matson, 74, and R. S. Drew, 76—5—71. Flight winners included Gilbert Sykes, 77—4—73; P. W. Cook, 82—10—72; R. S. Phillips, 78—11—67; R. R. Cook, 81—10—71; J. A. Colvin, 83—14—69; Arthur Crosman Jr., 85—16—69; H. M. Ellis, 88—18—70, and S. F. Miller, 94—22—72.

Walter Carroll of Evanston won the qualifying medal in the first annual Illinois junior golf championship at Cog-Hill yesterday with a 71, followed by Jack Chamberlain of Chicago Meadows with a 73. Other low scoring qualifiers were Mike Lucheon, Cog-Hill, 74; Joe Cure, Cog-Hill, 76; Pete Cure, Cog-Hill, 78; Chester Bland, Rockford, 78; Ralph Carlson, Glen Oak, 78; Adam Jemsek, Cog-Hill, 79; Larry Davidson, Armour Tech, 79, and Johnny Coghill of Cog-Hill, 81. The tournament will continue at match play through Sunday.

North Shore will hold its fourteenth annual Silver Tassel tournament today, with a field of 200 expected.

George Dawson and Warren Dawson of Glen Oak will meet Joe Tivnan, Mid-City professional, and William Lorimer of the home club in an exhibition match at the Crystal Lake Country club Sunday afternoon.

from every direction, the university men will assemble at the Wrangler fraternity house, Evanston. With only one or two exceptions all are expected to report to Head Coach Noble Kizer by midafternoon. Uniforms will be issued at the training quarters at Dyche stadium and the stage set for the initial strenuous workout tomorrow morning. Kizer will arrive at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Indianapolis, where he appeared at Butler university's coaching school.

Kizer on W-G-N Tonight.

Tonight at 6:30 over W-G-N Kizer will outline his plans for the two weeks training of the university players.

The members of the squad will make their headquarters at the Wrangler house. Subject to approval of the coaching staf, rules for the training period will be adopted today. In short, the old fashioned training table of another football era will be revived. With no other thought than football, there is no reason to doubt that these college graduates, with a background of success on outstanding teams of the nation, can be welded into a unit which will be a worthy opponent for the professional champions.

The players from the Pacific coast and from the Atlantic seaboard will arrive almost at the same hour this morning, although at different stations. Homer Griffith and Aaron Rosenberg of Southern California, and Adolphe Schwammel will arrive at La Salle street station at 10 o'clock. An hour earlier Fred Canrinus of St. Mary's will arrive at the Northwestern station. Bill Smith of Washington, Cliff Montgomery of Columbia, and Nick Lukats of Notre Dame, who has been employed at Perth Amboy, N. J., also are early arrivals. Tom Hupke of Alabama also is scheduled for arrival this morning.

Down in Front!

You won't have to worry about the other fellow obstructing your view if you order your tickets now for the world championship wrestling match between Jim Londos and Strangler Lewis at Wrigley field Sept. 20.

Mail orders are being accepted today for the match wrestling fans have been waiting years to see. Send them to the Wrestling Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

Prices are $2.40, $3.60, $6.

DUKELSKY AND STUHLEY SIGNED ON TRIBUNE CARD

Middleweight Contenders to Meet at Wrigley Field.

Hayden [Young] Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., and Solly Dukelsky, Chicago, leading challengers for the middleweight boxing championship, have been signed to meet in an eight round bout on the charity athletic card to be presented under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE at Wrigley field on Sept. 20.

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday approved the contest, which will be one of several events being arranged to support the windup wrestling title bout between Champion Jim Londos and Ed [Strangler] Lewis.

Logical Title Contenders.

Stuhley and Dukelsky, in recent months, have come to the fore as logical opponents for a championship encounter and the winner of their impending bout may get the shot. Whether or not the champion will be Vince Dundee remains to be seen as the current custodian of the crown is to defend it against Teddy Yarosz at Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 11.

Dukelsky has displayed considerable improvement in every battle since he graduated into the 160 pound division a few months ago. He first gained recognition by stopping My Sullivan in four rounds at Shewbridge field. He followed that contest by winning a seven round technical knockout over Kid Leonard and last week proved it was no flash in the pan by decisively defeating Frank Battaglia in 10 rounds at Marigold gardens.

Stuhley advanced to a leading position in his class much faster than did Solly by giving the champion a thorough 10 round trouncing in a nontitle bout at Mills stadium in June.

Accept Mail Ticket Orders.

Ticket orders for the show are now being accepted by mail. Address applications to Wrestling Ticket Manager, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

A special ringside accommodating more than 5,000 will be erected in front of the grandstand at Wrigley field. The ring probably will be pitched about half way between home plate and the pitcher's mound.

The top price seats sell for $6, tax included. There will be thousands of others at $3.60 and $2.40. None of the seats in the $1.20 section will be sold until the night of the game. All are reserved except in the latter location.

Williams Falls from Ring; Woronick Wins

Julius [Mephisto] Woronick defeated Al Williams in the windup match of a wrestling show at White City last night. Williams won the first fall in 22 minutes and 38 seconds, but Woronick took the second in three minutes and 18 seconds. Then Woronick was declared the victor when Williams fell out of the ring and was unable to return. In the other matches Walter Roxy pinned George Schwab in 26 minutes and 12 seconds, Dick Gannon gained a 30 minute decision over Mike London, and Bill Brooks threw John Yurkovich in 18 minutes and 30 seconds.

Lack of Weight Is Boon to Londos; He Goes Scientific

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Greek championship which Jim Londos won in New York when he defeated Bill Demetral had practically no value. It was a subordinate title, appealing only to one racial group, which is tantamount to saying Londos was a big frog in a small pond but lost in the ocean.

Perhaps Jim didn't realize, but this period of discouragement, privation, and frequent failure actually was the training ground for his later triumphs.

Londos' handicap was weight. Until five or six years ago Jim never passed the 180 pound mark; indeed, in 1924 he weighed only 172 pounds for his second St. Louis match against Strangler Lewis. This weight handicap will exist on the night of Sept. 20 when Londos, new world champion, faces his bitter detractor, Lewis, at Wrigley field in the greatest title match in a decade, but Londos will weigh nearly 200 pounds. And 200 pounds, packed on a sturdy, muscular frame, will be quite an assignment for Lewis to master.

Jim Studied Game's Science.

In the immediate years after the Demetral bout Londos won and lost. He defeated Charlie Cutler, Jess Westegard, and Hussane the Turk. He lost to Joe Stecher, exponent of the punishing scissors hold, and Earl Caddock. But Londos' travels took him to many large cities and his consistently satisfactory performances increased his reputation and popularity.

The handicap of weight also was to prove an advantage, strange as this may seem, for Londos was forced to study the science of wrestling. His experiments with leverage by which to subdue larger and heavier opponents made him one of the most skilled wrestlers. Fundamentally, there is slight opportunity for criticism of Londos' technique. Because of this proficiency he is vitally different than the Sonnenbergs and Savoldis, who have been flung into spotlight of the sport, popularized briefly by one spectacular method of wrestling, but who know only the superficialities of the game.

It is this group, directed by such expert manipulators of and caterers to public interest as Jack Curley, that introduced the theatrical. The public, which may frequently be damned but always is right, wanted to see and hear the punishment these hairy anthropoi inflicted in their battles. And so the artists of catch-as-catch-can wrestling became masters of pantomine. They beat their chests and leered with disdainful, restrained anger. They registered primitive emotions, pain, rage, frustration. They bounded from rope to rope with a deftness worthy of Frank Buck's colony of simians, and hurled their huge bodies in flying tackles which dropped so many of the grapplers on the wide eyed boys in the press row that these hardy souls abandoned the front line trenches.

He Could Clown, Too.

Did the public approve? The fans stormed the doors, accepted the boisterous hippodrome, and cried for more.

Londos proved himself as adept as any at these clowneries. His pantomime, acrobatics, and simulated frenzies became models for the neoterics. He was a colorful performer, a showman, an actor. But behind these necessities of the trade, Londos had an intimate working knowledge of wrestling. When the prancing prologue was concluded Londos, the workman, knew how to apply the pressure and his opponent took second honors.

Londos had the respect of the trade. So much so that the champion, Strangler Lewis, after the second St. Louis scrap, declined the issue. In 1918 Londos followed Lewis to Paris, seeking a match. Lewis side stepped, and Londos then continued to Greece for his first visit to his homeland. He was received royally and when Jim wrestled Karol Zbyszko, champion of Poland, in the Olympic arena at Athens, 110,000 saw the bout. Londos won and gave all receipts to charity.

He Signs with White.

Back in America Londos began another campaign for the heavyweight championship. There was no difficulty getting matches, and the returns were excellent. Londos had plenty of money, but Lewis still barred the door to the title. In 1928, disgusted at his inability to force Lewis into a championship defense, Londos was ready to quit. Then he met Ed White, to whom Jim willingly gives credit for guiding him to the top of the sport. A better combination can not be imagined. White's shrewdness, his business acumen complemented Londos' ability. With White making the matches, Jim had no worries. He followed instructions.

White supervised Jim's training, watched his diet, advised the investment of his increasing fortune, and most important, led the chorus of criticism against Lewis' inactivity which caused the New York and Pennsylvania athletic commissions and the National Boxing association to vacate Lewis title. In the subsequent world tournament Dick Shikat emerged winner only to lose the championship to Londos in Philadelphia, June 6, 1930.

"My signing of Londos was not haphazard," White recalls. "I had watched the little Greek's progress for several years and saw in him that which others overlooked. Despite handicap of weight, Londos was intensely serious, loved wrestling, was determined and ambitious. His mind is quick and retentive. These attributes have brought Jim fame and wealth. We have one more goal. Jim can and will defeat Strangler Lewis and that victory will be the payoff for Lewis' actions ten years ago."

The state boxing commission announced yesterday that no dates would be allotted Arcadia gardens promoters until a legal controversy at the building has been straightened out.

The request of James C. Mullen, matchmaker for Promoter Billy Cepak, for permission to offer a show at Mills stadium Aug. 27 was refused yesterday because of conflict with a show at Marigold gardens on that date. . . . The new date for the card at Mills, which will be headed by a 10 rounder between Lou Brouillard and Solly Dukelsky, may be Aug. 29. . . . The show scheduled at Quincy, Ill., tonight has been postponed until Aug. 23. F. M.

Pacho Given Decision Over Kid Frattini

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Bobby Pacho, Los Angeles welterweight, punched out a close eight round decision over Kid Frattini of Italy tonight. The judges disagreed and Referee Eddie Forbes cast the deciding ballot. The Californian weighed 142 pounds, Frattini 147½.

Women Play First Round in Park Golf

Miss Josephine Souchek of Big Oaks Country club became an early favorite yesterday to win the Illinois women's state public parks golf championship at the Lincoln park north course. Miss Souchek, medalist on qualifying day, survived the first round of match play yesterday when she defeated Mrs. Roxie Schenkman of Twin Orchards, 3 and 2.

Miss Souchek was two up in her match with Mrs. Schenkman, and her lead was cut down when she lost the 10th and 12th holes. The match ended on the 15th green when Miss Souchek won the 11th, 13th and 14th holes.

Shirley Ann Johnson, 17 year old Sunset Ridge star, was forced to forego defending her title this year due to illness. Only one extra hole match featured the day's play yesterday with Miss Violet McQueen of Jackson park defeating Mrs. F. C. Staples, Medinah Country club, 1 up on the 19th hole.

Miss McQueen was four up at the turn, and lost the 11th, 12th, and 13th holes to have her lead cut down to 1 up. Mrs. Staples lost the 14th hole, and came back to take the 15th and 17th to square the match. She lost the match on the 19th green when she took four putts.

In the second round matches this morning Miss Souchek will meet Violet McQueen, Virginia Jensen will oppose Mrs. O. F. Burnett, Mrs. Thelma Kurry will be paired against Mrs. D. F. Albery and Mrs. Roy Garland will meet Mrs. Z. A. Doughty.

Yesterday's results in the championship flight follow:

Paul Stagg and Virginia Russell Wed at U. of C.

Forty years ago this Sept. 10 Amos Alonzo Stagg and Stella Robertson, then a junior co-ed at the University of Chicago, finished a tennis game, hurried off to the minister's, and were married. Almost as quietly yesterday afternoon their youngest son, Paul Stagg, took Miss Virginia Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Russell of Coles avenue, for his bride.

They were married at 5:30 o'clock in the Thorndike Hilton Memorial chapel at the university by Dr. Norris L. Tibbets, pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist church. But, instead of tennis togs, they wore formal wedding attire, and there were 50 members of their families and friends to witness the ceremony.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Kathryn Russell. Frank Howard was best man.

Shortly after the wedding Mr. Stagg and his bride left on a motor trip through Michigan. After this they will go east to Bethlehem, Pa., where Mr. Stagg has a coaching position at Moravian college. Mrs. Stagg will not spend the winter in the east, however, for she is returning to the university, where she is a member of the Wyvern club, to complete her undergraduate course.

PIRATES TIE SCORE IN EIGHTH, THEN BEAT GIANTS, 3-2

Triumph in Ninth on Double, Single.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP)—A pair of pitching veterans, Burleigh Grimes and Waite Hoyt, got the better of the brilliant Carl Hubbell today as the Pirates turned back the Giants, 3 to 2, in the first game of the league leaders' final invasion of the west.

For seven innings it looked like Hubbell's game as the southpaw star limited the Pirates to one hit, a single by Lloyd Waner in the fifth. But the tide turned suddenly in the last two innings. Trailing 2 to 0 going into the eighth, the Pirates tied the score on the second and third hits off Hubbell, plus an error by Hughey Critz, and won with two more hits in the ninth.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Two pitching veterans Dazzy Vance and Jess Haines, limited Philadelphia to five hits today and the Cardinals took the opening games of the series from the Phillies, 5 to 1.

Vance, who retired in the eighth with a blistered finger, yielded only three hits in seven innings. Haines got credit for the victory.

Trailing, 1 to 0, in the seventh, the Cards tied it up when Delancey hit a homer into right field. Then in the eighth the Cards routed E. Moore, who took up the Phillie pitching burden, with three singles, a bunt, and an intentional pass, which scored three runs. A fourth run crossed the plate when Frisch scored on a force play. Browns Held to 6 Hits; Red Sox Triumph, 7-3

Boston, Mass., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox, behind the six hit pitching of Robert Moses Grove, today won the first game of the current series with the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 3. The game marked the first appearance of Grove since the removal of his tonsils several weeks ago.

The Browns scored all their runs in the second, when Lefty issued four of the six safeties recorded against him. A single by Campbell and doubles by Melillo and Hemsley accounted for two of the runs, while a walk to Strange, a single by Coffman, and Billy Werber's wild throw to first base accounted for the third. Johnny Stone, Washington outfielder, who left the lineup after an ankle injury received July 13, celebrated his return by driving out a double as a pinch hitter. Score:

Fine, Suspend Deans; They Tear Up Suits

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Jerome [Dizzy] Dean and his brother, Paul, star members of the St. Louis Cardinals' pitching staf, were fined and suspended indefinitly today by Manager Frankie Frisch. The suspensions followed a row with Frisch after they had been fined for not appearing in an exhibition game at Detroit yesterday.

Early this afternoon Manager Frisch announced to newspaper men the two Deans had been fined, Dizzy $100 and Paul $50. When Paul and Dizzy met Frisch they were told of the fines and ordered on the field.

"Ain't we suspended, too?" they asked. Frisch again told them to get on the field, and when they replied, "In a few minutes," Frisch told them they were suspended.

Dizzy went directly to the clubhouse where he tore up his uniform. Then he took another player's uniform and tore it to pieces. The brothers sat in the stand near the Phillies' dugout during today's game.

"We're going on a fishing trip near my home in Bradenton, Fla., if we have enough money coming," Dizzy said. "Of course, they'll need us pretty badly pretty soon and they'll probably remit the fines."

Dizzy thus far this season has won 21 games, while losing five. Paul, who is spending his first year in the major leagues, has won 12 games and lost 6.

on the offense, but of course not enough to mean anything.

Of course you have to take into consideration the fact that the batsmen were looking at pretty good pitching when they faced Dutch Brandt. He would have had a good chance to defeat Bush even without Bush's goose ball.

The Cubs got off to a lucky one run lead in the first inning. Billy Herman dropped a Texas leaguer in short right and was credited with a double when Mallon, in hot pursuit, kicked the ball with his knee. Billy went to third on an infield out and scored on Stainback's fly.

Brandt had fanned and Urbanski had been thrown out by O'Farrell when Bush introduced the aforesaid goose ball. Mallon beat out a bunt to Bush and stopped at second on Jordan's single to left. Berger also singled to left, Mallon scoring the tying run. To temporarily halt the flood of hits, Bush walked Lee, filling the bases. Then he came right back in with the goose ball to Moore who singled to right, scoring Jordan and Berger and putting Lee on third.

Whitney singled to center, scoring Lee and putting Moore on third. Hogan singled to right, scoring Moore and putting Whitney on third, then Brandt, up the second time, singled to right, scoring Whitney. Urbanski, who had supplied the second out, supplied the third with a foul to O'Farrell.

Bush Goes Out.

On the way to the dugout Manager Grimm told Bush he didn't believe Guy was effective and that he believed he would send in a pinch hitter. Later in the Cub third he sent in Hurst, if you can call Don a pinch hitter.

In the fifth the Cubs got their first clean hits off Brandt. O'Farrell singled to left and stopped at second on Tinning's line single to right center. Hack and Hurst were soft putouts.

Tinning, who relieved Bush, kept the enemy away from the plate until Lee led off the seventh with a homer over the left field wall. There was no further damage in the inning.

The Cubs again got two hits in the seventh, but Hurst again was the man at the plate to drive the runners home. This time he was called out on strikes. Cuyled led off the inning with a single, then O'Farrell fanned. Jurges, making his first appearance in the lineup since June 27, singled to center, Cuyler stopping at second. Hack forced Cuyler at third with a tap to Whitney, then Hurst let the third strike drift by.

Root Replaces Joiner.

Joiner pitched the eighth and held the Braves to a triple and three singles, good for two runs.

The Braves made six hits in a row off Joiner before it was discovered he, like Bush, was not effective. Root relieved him and the barrage continued when Berger singled to left to make it seven hits in a row. Before the Braves could be retired they had scored another six run inning.

The Cubs scored their second run of the game in the ninth after two were out. O'Farrell made the Cubs' seventh hit and his second of the game and scored when Pinch Hitter Stephenson singled to center.

Frankhouse and Braves to Face Warneke Today

Heroic efforts were made throughout the night to get the Cubs breathing again, and high hopes were held that their heart action would be back to normal this afternoon, when Lon Warneke faces Fred Frankhouse and the Braves.

WHITE SOX FACE DOUBLE HEADERS AT PHILADELPHIA

Two Games to Be Played Today and Tomorrow.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Four games in the next two days are scheduled for the White Sox and the Athletics, who delayed the opening of their five game series because of "wet grounds" today. At the time the announcement was made, two hours before noon, the sun was shining brightly and the weather was hot.

The motive behind this move doubtless was to lure the fans out to Shibe Park with two double headers in succession. The A's are in seventh place and the Sox in eighth, seven and one-half games behind, so the management expects little public interest in the series.

Athletics Have a Goal.

Though the Chicagoans simply are playing out the schedule and waiting for next year, the Athletics still have a goal this season. They hope to pass the Browns and Senators to take command of the second division. This is not an impossibility, since they trail St. Louis by only four and a half games and the Senators by five.

Milt Gaston and Les Tietje will handle the Sox pitching tomorrow afternoon, with Merritt [Sugar] Cain and Al Benton the probable Athletic choices. Milt has lost 15 and won 4, while Tietje won 4 and dropped eight.

Simmons Bats .352.

Al Simmons has entered the American league's "Big Five" in hitting with a .352 average. Only Gehrig, Gehringer, and Manush are ahead of him.

Al has a four point edge over Jimmy Foxx, his former teammate, who is hitting .348. The A's have four other .300 hitters—Crane, Coleman, Higgins, and Bob Johnson.

HEWITT, BEARS' STAR, OBTAINS LICENSE TO WED

Bay City, Mich., Aug. 14.—[Special.] Bill Hewitt, star end on the Chicago Bears football team, champion of the National Professional league, today obtained a license to marry Miss Edythe Inez Hayes of Chicago. Miss Hayes gave her age as 27, while Hewitt said he was 24. It will be her second marriage.

Hewitt will report with other members of the Bears in Chicago to start practice for the game with the 1933 All-American squad at Soldiers' field Aug. 31. The law requires a five day wait before the ceremony can be performed.

Cigars... like Wines
now selected by their "Vintage"

Look for the Grade A Vintage Mark on the White Owl box—your assurance of fine filler tobaccos

GREAT WINES are not known by name alone... they must be made in Vintage years—years in which nature favored the vineyards.

Few smokers realize it, but tobaccos, too, have Vintage years. Rainfall, sunshine, temperature—affect tobacco . . . just like the Vintages of wine.

The filler of every White Owl contains only our Grade A Vintage tobacco. It comes from the pick of the finest American filler tobaccos.

That's why we are able to put a Grade A Vintage mark on every White Owl box. Look for this mark... it identifies a mild, mellow smoke—a Vintage White Owl.

How White Owl Smokers are Protected

THE General Cigar Company maintains a comprehensive Crop Inspection System built up over the last ten years. By this means, we learn the condition of nearly every tobacco district in Pennsylvania and Ohio—the two states which produce practically all the cigar filler tobacco grown in the United States.

So accurate is this inspection system that every vintage crop can be forecast, and our buyers are on the spot to purchase the best of it for White Owls.

But vintage tobaccos alone are not enough. Even in Vintage years we classify all filler tobacco into seven grades. And only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades passes White Owl's strict requirements for its Grade A filler tobacco. No other filler tobacco is ever used in White Owls. That's what we mean when we say Grade A Vintage tobacco.

At the present moment, we have sufficient Grade A Vintage filler tobacco mellowing in our warehouses to make nearly 1 billion White Owls—more than a two-year supply. With this tremendous reserve, we can assure every White Owl smoker of a continued supply of the mild, fragrant cigars which Vintage tobaccos yield.

White Owls are now being made from famous Vintage Crops... the 1931 Pennsylvania and the 1930 and 1931 Ohio.

NEW DEAL FINDS COMPANY JUST TO HIS LIKING

Runs Away from Advising Anna at Hawthorne.

BY FRENCH LANE.

That colt, New Deal, from Kentucky—son of Broadway Jones-Ethel Dear—which wasted a good part of the summer chasing Cavalcade home in the big 3 year old specials, has hit his stride at the Hawthorne race track.

Galloping out in a drizzle which had not affected the track conditions, he leaped and sprinted for a mile and a sixteenth in the fast time of 1:44 2-5 to win the Springfield handicap yesterday afternoon.

He was going in terrific stride near the finish and was pulling away from his rivals to win by three lengths over weak hearted Advising Anna from the stable of Jack Howard of Kentucky. Navanod, a Tennessee colt which races for the Brentwood Farm stables, was running easily in third place.

It Took Courage.

New Deal had to display a lot of courage and running ability to get up in time to beat Advising Anna.

When the end of the run down the back stretch had been reached and Advising Anna began to wheel into the turn which leads to the home stretch she was in front by four lengths. New Deal was running second and Late Date, which for a time had attempted to keep pace with Advising Anna, was third. Advising Anna had whirled around to the half mile mark in :47 3-5 and was still making a dizzy pace as the end of six furlongs was reached.

The crowd began to chant "Anna won't quit today."

Just when the chorus got well organized Advising Anna did begin to falter. Then New Deal started to lengthen his stride and increase the speed of his fast moving feet.

Watch New Deal Now.

He flew past Advising Anna, Jim Owenby described it "quicker than you could say Jack Robinson." Once in front New Deal ran faster than ever. This colt is improving and from now on few horses will be able to take liberties with him.

New Deal had an army of backers in the stand and along the rail. He was at $4.14 to win, $2.88 to place, and $2.72 to show. Advising Anna paid $4.08 to place and $4.98 to show. Navanod, which seems to want to run two miles more, paid $5.34 when he raced up into third place at the end.

There were two other races on the program which came in for much speculation on the part of the big weekday gathering. They were the Naperville, engaging old sprinters at 6 furlongs, and the fourth race, which brought seven fleet 2 year olds into action. Favorites were upset in both numbers.

Star Banner Triumphs.

Star Banner, a 2 year old son of Pennant-Star Stone, from the barn of Thomas Piatt in Kentucky, after being all but left at the post, had enough courage to win the 2 year old event.

After his gallant gallop he sailed past the line of finish two lengths in front of Great Haste and the favorite, Hathy, which at one time during the race—while heading the first turn—was learing by four lengths. Great Haste was heavily backed and came up with a rush and had the Joseph Widener silks in second place when the tussle ended. Stay tried to run with Hathy during the fast early part of the race, but faltered and wound up fourth.

A plunge on Star Banner while the field was nearing the post sent the odds against him down from 6 to 1 to 3 to 1. He paid off at $8.06 in the mutuels after running the six furlongs in 1:13 3-5.

This Was Easy.

Wacoche, from the Corsicana stable in Texas, won the Naperville handicap at six furlongs in runaway fashion. After staging a spectacular rally at the head of the stretch he wound up winner by four lengths from his former stable companion and the favorite, Bright Shadow.

Wacoche's six furlongs in 1:11 3-5 was the fastest race of the season at Hawthorne. He paid off at $7.06 in the mutuels.

Brown Wrestles Pacer at Marigold Tonight

Jack Brown of Shreveport, La., and Lefty Pacer of Toledo will meet in the windup wrestling match tonight at the Marigold Gardens. They will wrestle in a best two out of three fall match with a ninety minute time limit.

Basanta Singh will wrestle Jimmy Demetral of Madison, Wis., in a 30 minute match. Karl von Lehman opposes Jack Kennedy, Phoenix, Ariz., and Buck O'Neill and Ed Van Herrick are in the opening bout.

Time, :23 3-5, :47 4-5, 1:12 4-5, 1:19 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Renaissance, $9.54 straight, $6.00 place, $3.80 show; Aga Ray, $7.66 place, $5.60 show; Uncle Less, $9.94 show. Winner trained by A. Schwartz. Went to post at 2:18. At post 3½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Winner ridden out, place driving.

RENAISSANCE, fractious at the post and away fast, forced the early pace under light restraint, wore down AGA RAY under strong urging, and kept up pressure, came away in last sixteenth. AGA RAY, favored by light weight and also away fast, saved ground throughout, stumbled soon after being headed in final eighth, and never fully recovered, yet held UNCLE LESS safe. Latter, a prominent factor from start, did not threaten leaders in the drive.

JESTER B., having speed from the start, came around SASSABY with a rush after reaching stretch and was under mild hand riding the closing eighth. COLD STEEL, away fast but unable to keep up, swerved behind horses on stretch turn and, coming up approaching final eighth, closed with a rush. SETH POLANTE lost ground and finished well in a good effort.

AKNAHTON RINGER CASE SUSPECT IS TAKEN IN EAST

P. C. Barry, Three Others Arrested at Saratoga.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Peter Christian Barry, concerned in several ringing cases, the best known being that in which Aknahton was substituted for Shem, was arrested here today.

With Barry were three other persons one of whom Capt. Clovis Duhain of the race track detail of the Pinkerton National Detective agency said he recognized as Mrs. Jean Browning, the owner in whose colors Regula Baddun ran at a New York track.

The Shem-Aknahton case took place at Havre de Grace in Maryland.

Gives No United States Address.

Barry gave his age as 40, his birthplace as London but gave no address. The others arrested were John Botnick, 29, and May Enright and Helen Lewis, both of whom gave their address as 3245 West 59th street, New York.

Arraignment which had been set for tonight was postponed until tomorrow morning. The four are booked on a charge of grand larceny. Capt. Duhain said that Barry, who jumped his bail when arrested in Miami some time ago, would not be admitted to bail.

Barry and the others were caught just outside the Saratoga race track as the day's program was about to begin. Barry and the two women drove up in an automobile, according to Capt. Duhain, while Botnick was the driver of a horse van. The four were coming for the horse Easy Sailing, which recently had been claimed and which was in a local stable.

Recognizes Handwriting.

Capt. Duhain recognized the handwriting of Mrs. Browning on a note requesting delivery of the horse previous to the capture. A trap was set by Pinkerton detectives and Capt. Duhain and the four were arrested when they called for the horse.

Barry was photographed by the local police who indicated he may be deported, alleging that he had entered this country without proper papers.

EXPECT 600 TO COMPETE TODAY IN K. OF C. GOLF

The seventh annual tournament of the Knights of Columbus Golf league, which will be held today at Olympia Fields, is expected to establish a new record for the event. Four hundred reservations already have been filed, and the eventual field is expected to number nearly 600.

All of the former champions, with the exception of James Kennedy of Commodore Barry council, will compete for the Fred B. Snite trophy, emblematic of the state championship. The Snite trophy remains in competition until it is won three times by any member or members of a council. The cup has been in competition six years and only two councils have won it twice. George T. O'Shea is a two time winner from Columbus, while Walter Crowe and Kennedy have won two legs on it for Commodore Barry. The other winners have been Frank Garrity, Acacia professional who took it last year while playing for St. Augustine; F. M. Cullerton of O'Connor and Francis Jordan of Quigley. O'Shea and Crowe tied for the title in 1928, and since there was no playoff, each of their councils was awarded a leg.

Tom Walsh, Westgate Valley professional, and his brother Packy will give a slow motion demonstration of the swing during the afternoon, at about 3 p. m., on the first tee of the No. 1 course. A special foursome match has been arranged between K. of C. members of the police and fire departments.

MEENAN FUNERAL TO BE HELD FROM OAK PARK HOME

Denver, Colo., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—The body of Ken Meenan, 22 years old, former Northwestern university football star, who died in a hospital last night following amputation of his left leg, was sent to Oak Park, Ill., Meenan's home, tonight.

His mother, Mrs. Anabelle Meenan, and sister, Mrs. F. P. Gunter, both of Oak Park, who came to Denver several days ago when Meenan's condition became critical and who were at the bedside when he died, returned with the body. They said funeral arrangements would be made after their arrival in Oak Park.

Coria Wins Minnesota Open Golf with 289

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Joe Coria, state public links champion, won the Minnesota open golf title today by scoring 289 in the 72 holes of medal play at the Town and Country club.

8 Go to Post in Rich Harness Stake Today

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—A field of eight of America's greatest three year old trotters will take the word tomorrow afternoon in the ninth Hambletonian stake, the world's richest and most famous event for light harness horses.

With an estimated gross value this year of $40,000 the Hambletonian will be the third event on a program of five races, the first of which will be called at 2 p. m.

Possibly thirty thousand enthusiastic followers of light harness racing will crowd the greatly enlarged grandstand and bleachers, pack the alle and rails and overflow into the infield. It is not improbable that all attendance records will be broken at Good Time park.

Each Heat Is Race in Books.

The stake is raced in mile heats, best two in three. Each heat is a race in wagering with the books. The open character of the contest has aroused unusual interest. Never in the history of the classic has there been such uncertainty as to the outcome, so many possibilities among the leading candidates, with several more having better than a fair chance of getting the winner's share of purse.

Three horses are likely to be held about even in public estimation. This triumvirate is made up of Reynolda, 2:03¼; Muscletone, 2:03½, and Emily Stokes, 2:04. Each has beaten the others.

Many Dark Horses.

There is much talk of dark horses. The winner may come from among Lord Jim, 2:05¼; Bertha C. Hanover, 2:04; Princess Peg, 2:05, and Vitamine, 2:06¼. Amid all this uncertainty and the knowledge that some long prices were obtained in the winter books, there is certain to be heavy wagering. Today's results:

Leaders Remain Unchanged in New U. S. Polo Ratings

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Thomas Hitchcock Jr. of New York, Cecil Smith of Texas, and Elmer Boeseke Jr. of California—all ten goal polo players—still remain at the top of the list of handicapped players in this country, it was announced by the handicap committee of the United States Polo association today.

Most of the changes made at the annual summer meeting of the association involved the newer players, but two men in the high goal list were raised, adding another eight goal player and another in the seven goal division.

Gerard Balding of England has been raised from seven to eight goals, while Cyril Harrison was made a seven goal man from his former handicap of six goals.

Balding distinguished himself on the 1930 British international team and also has been prominent in the sport in America during the last four years. This accounts for his being included on the association's handicap list.

Harrison, who was rated at five goals three years ago, has been active in polo both here and on the west coast since 1931 and has shown a steady rise.

Two other changes of interest were the raising of the veteran Robert Bullock from five goals to six, and changing Arthur Borden from four goals to five. Bullock excelled with the Hurricanes, who won both the high goal tournaments at Meadow Brook this summer, while Borden played with the Burnt Hills team, which won the junior title at Rumson.

Among the younger players, the addition of the two sons of Devereaux Milburn, former internationalist, is noteworthy. Devereaux Milburn Jr. and his brother, John, both are listed at two goals. Edward A. and Henry A. Gerry, twin sons of Elbridge T. Gerry, a candidate for the east team, have been raised from one goal to two.

J. Peter Grace, a Yale player, has been raised to three goals.

Will Rogers and his son, Will Rogers Jr., have been advanced from two goals to three.

REXINGER AND QUINN ADVANCE IN PARKS TENNIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Two Chicagoans, Eugene Quinn and Scott Rexinger, former Big Ten conference champion, were among the eight players who advanced to the quarter-finals of the twelfth annual national public parks tennis tournament today. Quinn defeated Roy Huber, St. Paul, 6-3, 5-7, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3, while Rexinger scored an easy victory over Malcolm Doane, former St. Cloud (Minn.) Teachers' college athlete, 6-0, 6-0, 6-0.

Others in the quarter-final round are Arnold Simons, Louisville, Ky., defending champion; Ted Drewes, St. Louis, who has won the title four times; Bernard Welsh, Washington, D. C.; Walter Smiggel, Cleveland; Ernest Koslan, New York, and George Robson, Duluth, Minn.

WEETAMOE RUNS AGROUND IN CUP TRIAL; NONE HURT

Spinnaker Is Blown Out Before Accident.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Weetamoe ran aground after blowing out her parachute spinnaker and Yankee gained another victory in the fourth race of the New York Yacht club's annual cruise today.

The run was from Mattapoisett to the harbor here. Weetamoe's accident occurred as she was approaching the finish line off Westchop. She was still a mile or so from the end of a leeward leg with the wind fairly light, when the spinnaker of some 12,000 square feet in area, came toppling down on deck, torn to shreds, and strung under the bow.

All hands were so busy clearing the wreckage that no one, apparently, noticed that the boat had gone about to starboard and was heading for the middle ground shoals before it was too late. The boat's deep centerboard was sent crashing on the flats and members of the crew went catapulting overboard, fortunately without injury.

Runs Hard Aground.

She ran hard and fast despite the efforts of Clifford Kilburn's motor work boat Friend and a number of others, it was a long while before she could be budged.

This evening the extent of the damage wrought had not been determined.

It was the second time during the cruise that Weetamoe ran afoul the bottom, the first being on Saturday, when her centerboard scraped on the mud as she was finishing the run from Newport to Mattapoisett. Saturday's mishap caused no serious damage. At the time of her accident today Frederick H. Prince's boat was trailing Yankee and Vanitie and there was no chance of overhauling either.

She had led the cup division for awhile only to drop to last place and then work up to third before ill fate overtook her and forced her out.

Yankee won with ease, Vanitie finished second, and Rainbow, trailing until Weetamoe got into trouble, came in third.

ENDEAVOUR QUALIFIES.

Bristol, R. I., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—T. O. M. Sopwith's America's Cup challenger Endeavour today passed inspection and qualified officially to compete in the international match next month against the American defending yacht to be chosen to meet her.

Prof. Harold W. Webb of the department of physics of Columbia university, who is official measurer of the New York Yacht club, completed his inspection of the challenger this afternoon. He went back over the chalk mark notations he had made on her hull, put away his tape, and gave his approval of the Endeavour as a class J racer under the universal rule with 76 feet rating.

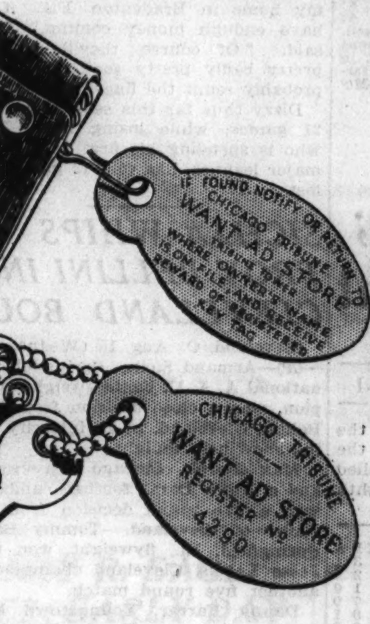
Have you registered your keys at Tribune Tower?



● Whether you carry one key or a dozen, it is worth while to avail yourself of the new, free key-registering service recently inaugurated by the Want Ad department of the Chicago Tribune.

New Tribune Service Is Free

All you have to do is come to the Tribune Public Service Office located on the ground floor of Tribune Tower. A courteous attendant will give you a handsome bronze key-ring tag on which a registered serial number has been stamped. There is no charge or obligation whatever.

Provides Property Protection

Every key-ring or container should carry an identifying tag. The safest tag is the registered, serially-numbered tag. A name-and-address tag may lead thieves to your home, your office and your car. The identity of the owner of keys registered with the Tribune is known only to the Want Ad department of the Tribune.

Losing Keys Is Always Annoying

Few persons own a complete duplicate set of keys. Losing your keys not only will cause extra expense for new locks and refitting, but it may inconvenience you, possibly for many months. Registered keys are most likely to be returned promptly, and you will be saved many days of annoyance.

Come to Tribune Tower Today!

The Want Ad department's free key-registering service is available only at the Tribune advertising and Public Service Office in Tribune Tower. Stop at Tribune Tower. Call any time during the day and get a registered key-ring tag. Remember, there is no charge or obligation whatever.

RAYMOND HOOD DIES; SHARED TRIBUNE AWARD

Won Fame by Work on Newspaper Tower.

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Raymond Mathewson Hood, internationally known architect and one of the designers of Rockefeller Center, the Chicago Tribune building, and other famous skyscrapers, died early today at his home, Southfield Point, Stamford, Conn., following a lingering illness from heart and circulatory disorders complicated by arthritis.

Announcement of the death of Mr. Hood, who was 53 years old, was made locally from the offices of Hood & Fouilhoux, architects, of which he was a member.

Strives to Regain Health.

Mr. Hood, whose unconventional designs for skyscrapers have changed the skyline of New York and other cities and often stirred controversy, was last at his office three weeks ago. Immediately afterward he was confined to his bed by his final illness.

Under medical treatment for more than a year and a half, Mr. Hood more than a year ago spent several months in Fifth Avenue hospital under the care of Dr. C. S. Tenney, director of medicine at that institution. Later he made an extended trip to Bermuda, returning when his health improved, and subsequently going to Johns Hopkins university for observation and treatment by Dr. W. T. Longcope. At intervals his condition improved or became worse and he was compelled to forego regular trips to his office.

Funeral services will be held at Mr. Hood's residence at Southfield Point Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment will be in Sleepy Hollow cemetery, Tarrytown, N. Y.

Utility a Keynote.

With simplicity and utility as the keynote, Mr. Hood designed or collaborated in designing some of the most striking skyscrapers of his time.

Notable among his contributions to the most modern architecture are Rockefeller Center in mid-Manhattan and to A Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, also the McGraw-Hill building and the Daily News building in 42d street, the American Radiator company building in West 40th street, the Chicago Tribune building in Chicago, and the Beaux-Arts apartments, Manhattan.

For his part in designing the Chicago Tribune building in collaboration with John Mead Howells, son of the novelist, William Dean Howells, Mr. Hood won wide recognition and a share in the $50,000 awarded to the winners in that competition.

Student at Beaux Arts.

With his degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mr. Hood arrived in New York City, worked for six months as draftsman for Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson, then went to Paris to study at the Ecole des Beaux Arts. There he received his diploma in 1911. The same year Mr. Hood returned to the United States and became associated with Henry Hornbostle in Pittsburgh.

In 1914 Mr. Hood started out for himself in New York City. He disclosed his penchant for the unusual by papering in gilt the front room of the floor he had rented for his offices in an old brown stone building at 7 West 42d street.

Mr. Hood's American Radiator company building is black, crowned with gold. In the McGraw-Hill building he employed a blue-green with lateral stripes, and for the Daily News building he used perpendicular white stripes, suggesting, he once agreed, tall piles of newspapers.

Mr. Hood is survived by his widow, the former Miss Elsie E. Schmidt, whom he married in New York City, Oct. 25, 1920, and three children, Raymond, Trientje, and Richard.

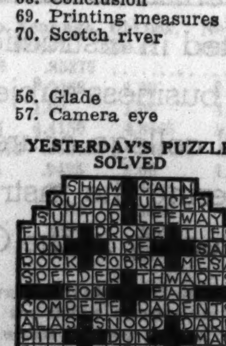
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

So that the man on the flying trapeze may float through the air with the greatest of ease a rehersal of the songs that are to be used for community singing at the Chicagoland Music Festival Saturday evening is to be held over W-G-N at 7:15 o'clock this evening. Under the direction of Frank Bennett the Lawson Y. M. C. A. Glee club will lead the singing on THE TRIBUNE station with the suggestion that every one listening join in at the receiving end. The songs: "There's a Long, Long Trail," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Tipperary," "My Old Kentucky Home," "The Man on the Flying Trapeze," "Sweet Adeline," and "Old Folks at Home."

Bing Crosby and Richard Arlen next week will engage in a shortwave long distance tuning contest—the winner to take a side bet of $1,000. Crosby and Arlen live within a block of each other in Toluca Lake, Cal., and are both enthusiastic shortwave fans with verified reception reports from more than 30 foreign countries. The sets they will use will be exactly alike. They are being finished this week in Chicago by McMurdo Silver, the young radio expert who built four official receivers for the Byrd Antarctic expedition. The receivers will be expressed to California Saturday and after tests the contest will start on Aug. 25. Crosby already has logged stations in Indo-China, Brazil, Russia, Japan and Australia. Arlen claims a flock of foreign countries and a Vienna station that is said to be extremely difficult to log. Both are hoping to bring in Admiral Byrd's station, KFZ, direct.

It will be easy to keep up with the Rev. Father Charles Coughlin's radio crusade hereabouts this fall. To date KYW has contracted to carry the Sunday afternoon addresses, as it has done heretofore. Additional outlets will be WJJD and WIND.

Ireene Wicker, the Singing Lady of W-G-N and NBC, was a guest of William Beebe aboard his exploring vessel at Hamilton, Bermuda, last week. She missed witnessing his dive under the ocean on Saturday by a day, because she had to return to Chicago for the premiere yesterday of her husband's new NBC show, "Song of a City." Ireene has two more weeks' vacation from her Singing Lady programs. Allan Grant, her accompanist, is taking his "vacation" playing the piano for the Chicagoland Music Festival contests. He will also be the official pianist the night of the Festival.

The motor dealers sponsoring Fred Waring are going on the air with an additional CBS program once a week beginning tonight and featuring Mickey Cochrane, manager and catcher of the league leading Detroit Tigers. Mickey will discuss the pennat race at 8 o'clock each Wednesday.

RITES TOMORROW FOR HAYMARKET RIOTS VETERAN

Funeral services for James Bulman, 80 years old, police veteran of the Haymarket riots, who died Sunday, will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from St. Thomas of Aquinas Catholic church. Burial will be in All-Saints cemetery.

Mr. Bulman was born in Chicago, joined the police force in 1880, and was attached to the Des Plaines street station on May 4, 1886, the day of the riots. One of the first policemen to arrive on the scene, he was injured by fragments of a black powder bomb. He was retired with a disability pension in 1889 and entered the chemical manufacturing business.

He is survived by a son, Robert, of San Francisco, and three daughters, Mrs. Mae Buckley, Mrs. Jennie Lord, and Mrs. Loretta Moritz, all of Chicago.

Conrad V. Richter Buried Today; North Side Furrier

Funeral services for Conrad V. Richter, 52 years old, north side furrier, who died Monday in the Libertyville Memorial hospital, will be held at 2 p. m. at the chapel at 2742 Lincoln avenue. Burial will be at Irving Park Boulevard cemetery. Richter was fatally injured when a motorcycle he was riding skidded on the wet pavement and crashed into a tree. He is survived by his widow, Hildegard, and two children.

ST. LOUIS HOSPITAL RAIDED; GUNMEN FREE 2 PRISONERS

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Two armed men entered the St. Louis county hospital today. They freed two prisoners who were patients there.

One of the prisoners, William Olin Perkins of Newburg, Mo., had to be carried downstairs because he has a broken right leg. He was being held for authorities of Texas county, Missouri. There he is charged with bank robbery. A month ago the man accused of being his confederate in two bank robberies was delivered from the Houston, Mo., jail by a lone gunman.

The other prisoner freed today at the hospital was Paul Mills of Overland. He was recuperating from bullet wounds in his chest and left arm which he received July 25, when he fled from a deputy sherif who arrested him on a charge of automobile theft.

SPAIN PREPARES GREAT FUNERAL FOR BULLFIGHTER

No common burial awaits Mejia. He will be laid to rest in the Pantheon at Seville tomorrow besides the body of his brother-in-law, Joselito, "the perfect artist." Mejia was with Joselito in the bullring at Talavera when "the perfect artist" was killed on May 16, 1920.

AUDIO PROJECTOR AMAZES MUSIC GROUP IN N. Y.

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—A new method of recreating and projecting sound, which provides the auditory illusion of tone arriving at the ear from a wide angle, as from a large number of musicians playing on a stage instead of from a single point as when music is reproduced by a loudspeaker, was given its first demonstration here today outside the New York laboratory, where the device has been under design for three years.

Music was given with such brilliance over the system, compared with the tone emitted by a standard radio-phonograph unit that well known musicians said they were amazed at the fidelity and realism attained.

The audio projector, as the device is called by its inventor, Maximilian Weil, New York electroacoustic consulting engineer, is scarcely larger than the average sized radio cabinet.

WORLD SURPLUS STILL MENACE TO WHEAT PRICES

London Parley Convenes to Set Export Quotas.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The world wheat situation was reviewed here today by representatives of fifteen wheat producing and consuming nations, who are attempting to fix world export quotas. In the background of today's meeting was the fact that, despite the drouth in the United States and other parts of the world, the 1934-'35 crop will be sufficiently large to leave the world with a surplus large enough to menace world prices. World carryover this year will be something around a billion bushels.

Despite the fact Argentina broke last year's agreement and exported more cereals to Europe than its fixed quota, speakers today favored continuance of international coöperation in regulating wheat production and distribution.

Argentina Explains Stand.

In the absence of American Ambassador Robert Worth Bingham the American minister to the Baltic states, John Van A. MacMurray, presided. Other prominent representatives were J. A. I. McFarland, manager of the Canadian wheat pool, and R. G. Arias, economic councilor of the Argentine embassy, who opened today's discussion. He explained that Argentina exceeded her wheat export quota because the harvest was more than usually bountiful last year.

Canada, Australia, and the United States did not raise much of a dispute over the Argentine breach of agreement, but they did object to the latter's apparent project for an unrestricted export of all its surplus cereals.

The present assembly of the wheat advisory committee had been set for June, but it was postponed until August with the hope that more information would be available about the present year's crop in the northern hemisphere, and about the acreage seeded in the southern hemisphere.

In any case, the next couple of days here are expected to show whether, under existing conditions, it will be possible to arrive at any marketing coöperation among the wheat exporting nations, and prospects do not seem to be bright.

Task Not Easy One.

The Financial Times says the task of today's wheat conference is not an easy one, for the influence exerted by the drouth on the glut situation has already caused violent price fluctuations and those countries with surpluses to sell will not readily tie their hands if there is a prospect of securing relief for their harassed farmers by playing a lone hand.

"The quota agreement," continues this authority, "entered into a year ago, did not survive unbroken for the allotted period. Faced by a heavier crop than was estimated, Argentina exceeded her allowance by 32,000,000 bushels. It is not denied that special circumstances existed in the case of Argentina, but any new scheme devised must take account of what actually occurred during the last year if it is to prove acceptable to other wheat exporting nations."

It is expected that Ambassador Bingham will preside at tomorrow's session of the conference. The parley will extend through Friday.

STOCK AND GRAIN SHIPMENTS AID WESTERN ROADS

Loadings of the Rock Island railway last week amounted to 22,373 cars, a gain of 391 cars or 1.8 per cent over the preceding week and 3,475 cars or 18.4 per cent over the corresponding week of last year, it was announced yesterday.

Western roads during the week showed heavy movements of live stock and grain which boosted the gain over a year ago. Southern Pacific reported a total of 25,434 cars, against 25,414 for the preceding week and 22,022 for the corresponding week of last year. Missouri Pacific moved 22,555 cars, against 21,941 and 19,933.

The Illinois Central showed a substantial gain over a year ago, but a slight decline from the preceding week. The total was 26,788 cars, against 27,231 and 24,772. Nickle Plate reported a decline from both periods with a total of 11,199 cars, against 12,164 and 12,258. Wabash loadings aggregated 12,058, compared with 11,391 in the corresponding week of 1933.

ORDER WIDESPREAD MORATORIA FOR CUBAN INDUSTRY, FARMERS

HAVANA, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Cuban cabinet tonight took drastic steps toward economic readjustment of the island's business by declaring a series of moratoria and deferred payments on obligations of sugar mills, railroads, public service groups, farms and private homes. A decree issued by the cabinet provided a special arrangement for sugar mills, which form Cuba's basic industry. The arrangement is as follows:

A complete moratorium on all sugar mill debts until 1936, when they must pay 2 to 10 per cent of the gross value of the sugar they manufacture, based on a scale of sugar prices ranging from $1 to $3.50 a hundred pounds. The yearly amounts increase thereafter. These figures apply to all debts due on or before June 30, 1938. The amounts due between 1939 and 1942 would be handled on a deferred basis. The sugar growers were given a moratorium until 1942 on the amounts they owe the mills.

Railroads and public service companies were granted a moratorium on mortgages and bonds until 1942, but they must pay six months' interest annually. Docks and storehouses are treated similarly under the provisions of the decree. Farm owners and private home owners were granted deferred payment by a plan under which they pay during 1935 2 per cent of all amounts due on mortgages on or before June 30, 1939; another 2 per cent during 1936; 3 per cent in 1937, and 4 per cent for each year in 1938 and 1939.

AIR EXPRESS FIRMS REDUCE RATES TODAY

Cuts Range as High as 57.5 Per Cent.

Air express rates will again be reduced today to a level one-third that in effect three years ago, according to announcements yesterday by General Air Express and the air express division of the Railway Express agency.

The new tarifs will carry a flat minimum rate of 85 cents for shipments up to three-quarter pounds and $1 per pound between any two cities. Minimum rates formerly ranged from $1 to $1.85 depending on distance.

Cuts Range to 57½ Per Cent.

Other reductions ranging as high as 57½ per cent, based on weight and length of haul, and including pick up and delivery service, have been made. The cuts carry tarifs on light weight packages to approximate air postage rates.

Illustrative of the new rates out of Chicago, United Air Lines announces its charges to San Francisco for one pound will be $1 against the old cost of $1.62; five pounds, $4, compared with $4.74; to New York, one pound $1, against $1.25, and five pounds $1.92, against $2.14.

The move is an attempt to stimulate business of the air lines which in the past have always felt an appreciable gain in trafic following any reduction. Volume for the first half of this year increased 139 per cent over the same period in 1933.

Trafic Volume Heavier.

General Air Express concluded its second year's operations yesterday as an inter air line operating unit with a poundage increase of approximately 40 per cent over its first year, according to Roger M. Combs Jr., chairman of the system and express trafic manager of American Airlines.

Based on preliminary reports express poundage carried amounted to 590,000 pounds, compared with 424,449 in the first year, he said.

The inclusion of Northwest Airlines as a member of the system becomes effective today. Long & Harmon, Inc., operating between Fort Worth-Dallas, Galveston, and Brownsville, Tex., will join the system Sept. 1, it was announced. Present members of General Air are American Airlines, TWA, Inc., Eastern Air Lines, and Pennsylvania Airlines and Transport company.

PWA School Program Cost Placed at 160 Millions

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Public Works administration said today its program would add $160,603,032 worth of school buildings to the nation's educational facilities. PWA has put up $126,755,474 for construction and alteration of school structures and the rest has come from local sources. School buildings ranging in cost from $2,695 to $2,250,000 have been approved by the federal agency.

Two Downtown Buildings File Reorganization Pleas

Petitions for reorganization under provisions of the amended bankruptcy law were filed yesterday on behalf of two large downtown properties—the Michigan-Lake Building corporation and the Dearborn-Lake Building corporation. Liabilities of the former were placed at approximately $3,000,000. Debts of the Dearborn property are estimated at $1,000,000.

CREDITORS SEEK TO REORGANIZE THEATER BUILT BY W. H. MALONE

Reorganization of the Pickwick Building corporation, owner of the $1,300,000 Pickwick theater and office building in Park Ridge, erected in 1928 by William H. Malone, former chairman of the state tax commission, was sought yesterday under the amended bankruptcy laws in a creditors' petition filed in the U. S. District court. A suit to place the corporation in foreclosure was brought last November.

Liabilities of the corporation are listed as $356,000, including a $350,000 defaulted bond issue guaranteed by Malone. Assets are estimated at $200,000, the present market value of the building.

Last October Malone was indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of defrauding the government of $59,580 in income taxes for the years 1929 and 1930. Shortly before he and his wife left for Europe. When last heard from in Palma, Mallorca, in January, Malone said he was abroad for his health and would return in March. The offense for which he was indicted is not extraditable. Last month his attorneys petitioned the board of tax appeals at Washington for a redetermination of income tax claims totaling $105,452 for 1929, 1930 and 1932.

Western manufacturing companies lost approximately $631,000, while the eastern manufacturing units reported a $160,000 profit for the same period, the company declared. Unfilled orders on hand June 30 totaled $1,431,000 for the western airplane manufacturing group and $6,246,000 for plane, engine, and propeller factories including in the eastern division.

BUILDING TO PAY INTEREST AT NEW REDUCED RATE

Frolic Theater Plan Is Announced.

BY AL CHASE.

Bondholders of the Manaster building, at the northwest corner of Morgan and 37th streets, in the central manufacturing district, this morning will receive a notification that cash for the payment of three past due interest coupons at the reduced rate of 4 per cent is now in the hands of the committee. According to C. S. Tuttle, chairman of the committee, the reorganization plan provides for the extension of the issue to April 3, 1943.

It also provides for the establishment of a sinking fund to which annual payments for the retirement of bonds will be made on the following basis: $7,000 in 1937, $8,000 in 1938, $9,000 in 1939, and $10,000 annually in 1940, 1941 and 1942.

Will Pay 3 Coupons.

"The Manaster buildings plan provides for immediate payment of three coupons at the new rate of 4 per cent to all bondholders at the time of the deposit under the plan," said Mr. Tuttle. "All the expenses of the extension are to be paid by Harry Manaster & Bro. In addition the company is to pay all taxes through 1931 and provide monthly payments thereafter as a reserve for 1932 and subsequent taxes."

The Manaster bond issue, originally $250,000, has been reduced through payment and cancellation of bonds to $171,300.

Bondholders of the Frolic Theater building, at the southwest corner of 55th and Ellis, also will receive notification of the completion of a reorganization plan in this morning's mail. The bonds have been extended and bondholders are asked to call at the depositary for the committee and receive the new securities.

Frolic Theater Plan.

"The Frolic theater reorganization, involving $62,500 in bonds, represents an unusually satisfactory solution for the bondholders," said Mr. Tuttle. "At the time the plan was declared effective, a few weeks ago, bondholders received a payment of $35 for each $100 par value of bonds; in addition, the semi-annual interest due June 30, 1934, was paid.

"The remaining $65 of each $100 bond was then extended to 1940 with interest at 6 per cent, under the provision that a further $15 on account of principal be paid the first year. Further payments on account of principal are required prior to the final maturity.

"All taxes through 1932 have been paid in full, and the plan provides for monthly installments on account of principal, interest and taxes."

$3,000,000 PLANT WORK PLANNED BY FISHER BODY

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Expenditure of approximately $3,000,000 for new equipment, additional plant space and re-arrangement of all production facilities, was announced today by the Fisher body division of the General Motors corporation.

The program will involve every Fisher body plant in the country, with the major investments centered in Cleveland, Detroit and Pontiac. An investment of $1,500,000 has already been made in new press equipment, including purchase of the largest triple action presses ever built.

At Cleveland, 40,000 square feet of manufacturing space will be added to the present plant, vastly increasing production facilities. Another $1,000,000 will be spent in re-arranging production facilities of plants serving Chevrolet branch assembly units throughout the country.

GERMANY TO AID EXPORT FIRMS IN RAW MATERIALS

Restrictions Apply Only on Home Consumption.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—German export firms will receive preferential treatment in raw material supplies to enable them to carry out export orders punctually, it was announced tonight by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, reichsbank president who is also temporarily directing the ministry of economics.

Dr. Schacht pointed out that foreign sales of German industry are only 10 per cent of its entire sales, and therefore the amount of foreign raw materials required for export plays no decisive rôle.

"The restriction on consumption of foreign raw materials only comes into the question for German firms which are selling on the home market," he added.

Trade Balance Unfavorable.

A 10 per cent increase in German imports during the first half of this year compared with the corresponding period in 1933, announced today was largely due to an increased demand for raw material—especially wool, cotton, metals, iron ore and wood. At the same time German sales abroad dropped 12 per cent, largely owing to the collapse of exports to Russia. Thus, Germany's favorable foreign trade balance of $86,500,000 at the present rate of exchange for the first half of 1933 was converted into an adverse balance of $116,500,000 for the first half of the current year.

German sales to the United States dropped $11,000,000 to just $34,000,000, while German purchases from the United States were nearly $3,500,000 lower, at $98,000,000. Increased imports from Australia, Uruguay, British South Africa, and Argentine were specially noted.

Demands for saltpeter caused total imports from Chile to be doubled, while demand for metals brought increased shipments from Canada, Belgium, and the Congo.

Impose Clearing Regulations.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 14.—Dutch commercial transactions with Germany will be put under clearing regulations tomorrow. The Dutch government has decided to end a situation under which amounts due for goods bought from Germany had to be transferred in full, while payment for goods exported to Germany could not be obtained without much delay, loss, and difficulties.

For all goods imported from Germany tomorrow buyers will have to make their payments to the Netherlands National bank, which will transfer the amount to the reichsbank after having paid Dutch exporters. In this way Dutch interests will be safeguarded, while further negotiations proceed in order to come to a definite understanding with Germany.

Roosevelt Hailed in Germany as First U. S. Nazi Fuehrer

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—Political and economic events in the United States are beginning to command more than the usual attention in Germany because German commentators are discovering more than passing resemblances between the policies of President Roosevelt and those of Chancellor Hitler. Between the lines these commentators are already hailing President Roosevelt as the first Nazi führer [leader] of America.

The most pronounced statement to this effect is printed in the Deutsche Bergwerks Zeitung, the organ of Ruhr industry, in connection with the United States oil industry's court fight against the "dictatorial economic leadership" of the NRA. The newspaper says:

"Roosevelt's measures show in many respects similarity with the Nationalist Socialist decisions in the economic field. The labor creation program may in many ways be regarded as a far reaching imitation of the German model.

See Struggle in U. S.

"It is extraordinarily interesting for us to follow the development of the impending economic debate and to discover in it that on one side Roosevelt advocates the principle of leadership, while on the other side the industrial and capitalistic Republicans are still desperately fighting for the maintenance of the liberalistic business system."

"If American cotton can no longer find its way to central Europe then central Europe will have to find its raw materials in regions willing to consume central European products," it says.

It mentions as exchange possibilities cotton from Turkey and the French colonies, flax from the Baltic states, and wool from the Danube basin.

Change in Economics.

This debate, in the newspaper's view, has been precipitated by a fundamental change in the economic structure in the United States, as elsewhere in the world, necessitating a like change in political and social structure. The newspaper concludes:

"In America, significantly enough, the structural change takes its initiative from the economic side, while in Germany the reorganization of economy followed transformation of the political structure. At any rate, the events in America show that the upheaval in Germany may become a trumpet signal for the world."

France Fears Devaluation.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 13.—The nationalization of silver by the United States and the news that gold shipments now crossing the Atlantic had been ordered returned to Europe have strengthened the French belief that monetary manipulations are pending in Washington. They have also strengthened the determination here to maintain the franc and shun devaluation.

Paris expects President Roosevelt will use the powers obtained from congress to their full extent and depreciate the dollar to half its former value. That the French market fears the unsettling effects of this prolongation of the international monetary contest has found evidence on the bourse where French rentes have fallen.

This indicates apprehension that France might be drawn into a devaluation policy, and to subdue this apprehension both the Bank of France and the finance ministry have given firm assurances that the government has a fixed policy against devaluation and will not abandon it, whatever the United States may do.

Warn Against Action.

Newspapers warned against permitting France even to consider a new devaluation of the franc.

"We must remember," says the Liberte, summing up the arguments used throughout the press, "that France has already had a devaluation of her currency by 80 per cent and the United States has had only 40 per cent. We cannot afford to upset our money every five or six years.

"Liquidation of the damages to our economic system caused by the world depression is not yet finished, but technical experts believe that it can be completed by the end of this year and that by the beginning of 1935 our market will be completely restored and sound. The situation of raw materials is improving, and this gives a much better hope for the resumption of trade than any monetary manipulation."

OLDSMOBILE SALES INCREASE 96% DURING 1934

Oldsmobile sales for the first seven months of 1934 were 96 per cent ahead of the corresponding period of last year, while sales for July were 131 per cent above July, 1933, it was reported yesterday by D. E. Ralston, vice president and general sales manager.

The statement was made before Oldsmobile field men meeting for a two day regional convention at the Palmer house. C. L. McCuen, president and general manager; H. A. Trevellyan, assistant general sales manager; V. C. Havens, advertising manager; M. P. Vorberg, sales promotion manager, and L. J. Blunden, zone manager, are among executives attending the meeting.

GOODYEAR TIRE CUTS DIVIDENDS ARREARS BY $1

New York, Aug. 14.—Goodyear Tire and Rubber company today declared a dividend of $1 a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock on account of accumulations, which will be reduced to $5.25 by this payment.

Lehigh Portland Cement company voted 87½ cents a share on its 7 per cent preferred stock to apply on accumulations, which will thus be reduced to $7 a share.

Hancock Oil company of California approved dividends of 10 cents a share on the no par A and B shares. The company made a similar payment in March.

John Morrell & Co., Inc., declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents.

FIRST DEPOSITS OF SILVER MADE UNDER U. S. RULE

New York Assay Office Gets 200,000 Ounces.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 14.—More than 200,000 ounces of silver had been delivered to the New York assay office late today under the administration's order for nationalization of domestic stocks of the metal at 50.01 cents an ounce.

First deliveries were made today as the metal started to move from hoards and out of licensed warehouses. Today's deposits netted holders around $100,000 on the basis of nationalization.

New silver certificates in $1 and $5 denominations also began to flow into circulation. The Federal Reserve bank of New York planned to give them preference in circulating money in this district, it was reported.

Banks Object to Selling Terms.

Banks which are owners of silver contracts on the Commodity Exchange, Inc., are understood to object to terms of liquidation of contracts open Aug. 9 when the exchange ordered suspension of trading, it was learned today.

The exchange ordered all contracts be closed out through the clearing corporation affiliated with the exchange on the basis of 49.96 cents an ounce. Under terms of that resolution no silver will be tendered on such contracts, but differences will be adjusted for cash.

Some of the banks which are said to hold future contracts for delivery of silver in amounts believed to aggregate millions of ounces are refusing to liquidate, as ordered by the commodity exchange, but are demanding that interests which sold them the contracts shall deliver the silver as provided in the contract. Their reason for taking that attitude is said to be the commission which the commodity exchange is exacting for the liquidation of all open contracts.

Aggregate Commission Large.

The disputed commission amounts to only .06 cents an ounce, but on a contract for 25,000 ounces of silver that apparently insignificant sum amounts to $15, and when contracts aggregating millions of ounces are at stake the commission involved runs into big figures.

Banks which are large holders of silver contracts feel that the commission which they already have paid for buying the silver should be all that the commodity exchange should require of them. As one banker today remarked, "What we object to is to be taken for a round trip ride by being forced to pay a double brokerage fee."

Some of the bankers threatened today to take the question to courts for settlement rather than pay a double commission.

HIGHEST PRICE IN THREE YEARS PAID FOR HOGS

Top Grades Soar to $8.25 a Hundred.

Farmers yesterday were paid the highest prices for hogs in almost three years. Returns showed an average advance of 67 per cent over the low point of spring and 23 per cent above a month ago. Values of full carloads yesterday, tax included, were 92 per cent over the same day in 1933.

Carloads of 20,000 pounds cost packers an average of $1,520 here yesterday, including $450 in processing taxes. A year ago packers bought carloads of 20,000 pounds for an average of $790, and at the low point of the depression the carload price was $600.

Light receipts, cooler weather, and brisk demand for fresh pork are bullish factors now forcing hogs higher.

Highest Since September, 1931.

The new high levels attained yesterday were highest since September, 1931, indicating a $1.25 to $1.35 advance over the low of last month and gains of $2.15 to $2.40 compared with the minimum early in June. All interests were eager for numbers again yesterday, enabling sellers to effect an early clearance at the new rate.

Top grades cost $8.25, of which the farmers' returns were $6, against a peak of $6.90 at the low last month, including tax, and $4.65 a year ago. On Dec. 31, 1932, a 54 year low of $3 for top grades was made.

Cattle continued to drag yesterday at the lowest price levels in recent weeks and prices in some classes sagged more, extreme instances showing as much as a 25 cent loss compared with the best time of Monday.

Choice Steers Steady.

Only a few scattered loads of good to choice grades of steers were in yesterday's receipts, and these were picked up at about steady rates. They still are 25 cents lower than at the close of last week, while lower grades indicate as much as a 50 cent loss for the first two days of this week.

Choice 1,253 pound steers topped the market at $9 yesterday, but very little was of good enough quality to sell above $8, with the majority of sales of steers within a range of $5 to $8. Many of the grassy steers sold at $3 to $4 both for slaughter and on country account. Grassy hefers ranged from $2.50 to $3.25, while some corn fed yearling hefers reached $6.25 to $6.85.

A semi-demoralized trade met the offerings of cows. Sellers late in the afternoon reported a fair number still on their hands. Fleshy cows cashed at $3 to $3.50, while canners and cutters brought $1.25 to $2. Calves ruled strong to 25 cents higher, selected vealers selling at $6 to $6.50.

Lambs Also Decline.

Bearish news from the wool trade had more influence in the lamb market yesterday than the size of receipts. Offerings were light again, but buyers pounded quotations down 15 to 25 cents more, buying most of the sorted natives at $6.75 to $6.85, with buck lambs at $5.75 to $5.85 and culls at $5 to $5.25.

A few of the lightest culls ranged down to $4. Several scattered lots of hand picked native ewe and wether lambs to city butchers topped the market at $7.10. Prices have lost a good deal of the recent advance and current quotations are only about 50 cents above the low spot of last month.

Reach $6 at East St. Louis.

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Six dollar hogs returned to the National Stockyards today for the first time since Oct. 19, 1931, when the top was $6.25. The market was 25 to 30 cents higher today, hogs weighing 190 pounds and up bringing $5.85 to $6 a hundredweight.

RAIL OFFICIALS CONTINUE RATE INCREASE STUDY

Members of the committee of the American Railway association which is endeavoring to find new revenues to meet increased operating costs continued their discussion at the Drake hotel yesterday. The roads propose to raise freight rates on commodities. It was stated that while all the members are in accord as to the need for more revenues, they differ as to the methods of collecting them.

The situation is complicated by the fact that members of the committee represent roads in the east, west and south, with each section of the country having its own interests to preserve. It was stated that while it may be possible to get the roads in one part of the country to agree it is difficult to get them all into an accord.

The increased costs which it is stated the roads must find revenues to meet are variously estimated at from $300,000,000 to $360,000,000, including the $60,000,000 which it is stated the roads will have to pay annually under the new pension act if they lose their fight against it. The roads are endeavoring only to increase rates on freight which is not likely to be driven to competitors by such action.

Closed West Side Bank May Pay Dividend

A substantial dividend will be paid to the 25,000 depositors of the West Side Trust and Savings bank and ordinary receivership liquidation will be ordered by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett unless new money for the long awaited reorganization is forthcoming within three weeks or less, according to a statement made yesterday by Receiver William L. O'Connell.

"We have definitely decided to pay dividends and not wait any longer," Mr. O'Connell asserted. "Reorganization plans have been on the fire for more than a year and they do not seem to be getting anywhere. We have the approval of the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a loan of $1,650,000 but the money isn't doing anybody any good."

Mr. O'Connell would not estimate the size of the dividend, but it is believed that the payment will amount to 30 per cent. After payment of the balance of $809,170 on a former RFC loan, the present advance would net $840,830. To this will be added the $166,081 cash on hand June 30 for a total of more than $1,000,000 available. Deposit liabilities of approximately $4,000,000 are to be reduced by several hundred thousands through offset allowances on loans and discounts.

Technicality to be Met.

Before the dividend payment can be made, one technicality must be straightened out. The RFC loan was granted as part of the reorganization plan, and the form of the resolution approving the plan must be altered to permit the loan to be made independently of reorganization. Mr. O'Connell made application for this formal change on Tuesday with Frederick D. Gallagher, manager of the Chicago office of the RFC. He anticipates no difficulties.

The West Side Trust and Savings bank, located at 735 West Roosevelt road, was one of those which did not reopen after the banking moratorium in March, 1933. At one time it was one of the largest outlying banks. Deposits of more than $11,000,000 on June 30, 1932 had been paid down to $4,000,000 when the moratorium was declared.

Talk of reorganization or the formation of a new bank began almost immediately.

Plan Is Prepared.

A plan was prepared whereby depositors would waive 60 per cent of their claims and stockholders would raise $750,000 in new money—$350,000 to capitalize the new bank and $400,000 to the receivership in settlement of stock liability. The Morris interests held large blocks of the old stock and were reported to be particularly active in the plan.

Waivers for $2,600,000 were presented March 1 by S. K. Stearn, secretary of the depositors' committee, and the plan received formal approval of Auditor Barrett a few days later. The program was contingent on a loan from the RFC—$2,100,000 was to be asked, netting $900,000 after payment of a previous RFC loan which then stood at $1,200,000.

The loan was completed the last of June—for $1,650,000 since the RFC obligation had been cut by nearly $400,000. Since then, nothing has been done pending the raising of new money In the meantime, depositors have raised such a clamor for action that the state auditor's office has felt forced to do something, according to Mr. O'Connell.

Time Limit on Drouth Area Crop Loans Is Extended

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Farm Credit administration announced today extension until Sept. 15 of the time limit on crop loans in drouth areas. The loans are available for purchasing winter seed wheat, rye or barley, or summer fallowing or for general purposes. The ruling does not apply to loans being made in drouth areas for purchase of live stock feed or for moving live stock to new pastures.

ENGLEWOOD BANK PAYS 30% DIVIDEND; AIDED BY RFC LOAN

A dividend of 30 per cent to depositors of the closed First Englewood State bank was authorized yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. Checks were mailed last night by Receiver William L. O'Connell. The distribution totals $178,891, which brings the aggregate return to $236,825, or 40 per cent. This payment was made possible by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The loan and payment give the Englewood bank one of the best receivership records in Cook county. Depositors have received one-third of receipts of liquidation, compared with the average of one-fourth. Secured and preferred creditors have been paid $368,780, or 52 per cent of the money collected—a total of 85 per cent for creditors against a county average of only 68.3 per cent. As of June 30 the record was 79 per cent to creditors.

FORMER CHICAGO BROKER ON STOCK CONTROL BOARD

Leon Cohen, former Chicago broker, and Frank J. Meehan of New York yesterday were appointed by the securities and exchange commission as assistant chiefs of its trading and exchange division. This division, under the direction of Commissioner Ferdinand Pecora, has charge of supervising trading methods on stock exchanges.

The selection of Cohen was applauded here by Barnett Faroll of Faroll Brothers. Cohen was a partner of Faroll Brothers for more than a year before transferring to E. Lowitz & Co. in New York, from which he resigned to take his new job.

Meehan assisted Pecora in the senate stock market investigations, being in charge of field work. He also is a former chief statistician of the New York state bureau of securities and former special accountant for the department of justice. In the latter post he helped prepare bucket shop and mail fraud cases.

$10,000,000 LOEW THEATER GROUP ACTION SETTLED

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Settlement of $10,000,000 suits against Loew's Theater and Realty corporation, Loew's, Inc., and Paramount-Publix corporation, was announced today by counsel for a bondholders committee, which started the actions.

The committee, representing owners of $9,000,000 Allied Owners corporation first mortgage bonds, had instituted the suits against the theater firms.

E. Barron Rockwell, secretary of the committee, said Loew's Theater and Realty will pay bondholders a total of $12,875,000, at the rate of $500,000 annually to June 1, 1943, and $525,000 annually thereafter until June 1, 1958. He said also that Loew's, Inc., guaranteed the payments. The settlement is subject to approval by two-fifths of the bondholders and by the federal court in connection with reorganization proceedings of Allied Owners corporation.

Illinois Buys 345,000 Tons of Coal at Cost of $700,000

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The state today purchased 345,000 tons of coal from 32 Illinois companies at a cost of $700,000. The coal, which will meet institutional and other state needs during the ensuing year, must be Illinois mined. Contracts awarded to various companies varied from 350 tons to as high as 52,875. The average ton price agreed on was $2.20 for delivery at destination.

Life Insurance Sales Rise 14.5 Pct. During 1934

New York, Aug. 14.—New life insurance during the first seven months of 1934 amounted to $5,143,946,000, compared with $4,492,539,000 in the same period a year ago, an increase of 14.5 per cent, according to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. New ordinary insurance in the period totaled $3,361,221,000, against $3,003,995,000.

Retail Food Prices Reach High for Thirty Months

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—(AP)—A level of retail food prices higher than at any time for the last 30 months was reported today by the labor department for the two weeks ended July 31. Prices were 110.4 per cent of their 1913 average of 100, compared to 90.4 per cent April 15, 1933, the low point in postwar days. They were 5.5 per cent higher than a year ago.

Jones Hints Loss on Loan to Dawes Bank

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, tonight hinted that the RFC may take a loss on its much criticized 90 million dollar loan to the old Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago, known as the Dawes bank.

"Of course, we cannot hope to escape losses in some cases," said Jones today in denying statements made yesterday in which he was quoted as saying the RFC would take little, if any, loss on the Dawes loan. His correction today was taken as a broad hint that the RFC does not expect to get all its 90 millions back.

Denies Serious Losses.

"I made no prediction as to whether there would be an ultimate loss of this loan," Jones said in a formal statement tonight, "but stated that losses by the corporation on loans generally would not be serious. But, of course, we cannot hope to escape losses in some cases."

"Repayments on the principal of this loan have been $31,738,062," Jones explained again tonight. "In addition, $2,283,958 has been paid as interest. There is no significance to the fact that the loan is carried as past due instead of being renewed from time to time."

Security for Loan Shrinks.

Yesterday Jones had revealed that behind the $58,200,000 unpaid balance of the Dawes loan there remained only "either 14 million or 28 million dollars" in securities and "other substantial property," some of which was the notes of Chicago business men and industries. This statement gave rise to reports that Jones was intending to collect on the "other substantial property" by insisting that the Chicagoans take up their notes. His statement today was evidently aimed at quieting these reports.

The security behind the loan, which it no longer large enough to cover the unpaid balance, according to Jones, has shrunk because it originally included 11 millions in Insull paper and much foreign paper.

MEETING THE NEEDS OF INDUSTRY AND BUSINESS

Each phase of banking activity engaged in by the Live Stock National Bank of Chicago has been especially developed to meet the needs of the great industries the bank serves . . . and re-attuned each year, since 1868, to changing economic trends and business requirements.

It has been the primary aim and resolve of the management that the bank must always serve its depositors HELPFULLY. In fulfillment of this ideal no compromises have been made with basic management practices.

Live Stock National has provided the utmost in modern banking service . . . has shown a consistent readiness to counsel its depositors in their financial and marketing problems when such counsel was desired . . . and, further, has conscientiously though conservatively extended rediscount and credit privileges to those of its depositors whose financial statements provided definite evidence of responsibility.

A banking institution of this character has specific appeal to corporations and business firms who find need for more adequate banking accommodations. Inquiries of this nature, either by mail or in person, are always welcomed and promptly administered.

APPROVE FIRST EXPORT OF GOLD SINCE EMBARGO

U. S. Allows Normal Exchange Transfer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 14.—The first shipment of American gold to Europe since the embargo was placed on such shipments by President Roosevelt in April, 1933, was arranged today by the Guaranty Trust company. The bank obtained from the federal reserve bank a license to ship $1,000,000 of the metal to Paris on the steamship Manhattan, sailing tomorrow.

This shipment was an exchange transaction and based on the fact that the French franc had risen to 6.69½ cents, at which level it was more profitable to ship the metal than to buy francs in the exchange market. Other shipments are expected to follow if the franc holds up.

May Reship $2,659,000.

Reshipment of a total of $2,659,000 in gold from New York to London, Paris, and Holland was indicated today with the dollar weaker in the foreign exchange market.

The reshipments are of metal which arrived here today on the Majestic and Scythia and other ships last week. The Scythia brought twenty-seven boxes of the metal from England worth about $1,397,000. Eleven boxes worth $577,900 were consigned to the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking corporation and three to J. P. Morgan & Co., some of which may be reshipped. No license is required in that case, as the gold has not actually been delivered here.

Chase National bank planned to reship to England three boxes of gold which arrived on the Majestic this morning.

Franc Breaks Sharply.

Announcement of the engagement of $1,000,000 gold for shipment by the Guaranty Trust was followed by a sharp break in the price of the French franc to 6.68¼ cents, well under the export level. It steadied around that figure.

The gold value of the dollar rose to 99.22 cents. Both these movements were on covering by the speculative short interest in dollars, which is very large. There were some indications that this covering movement might develop and put the franc and dollar back to former levels, where gold would again be imported from Paris and London. The pound fell a cent and a quarter to 5.09½.

Taken in conjunction with Secretary Morgenthau's statement that silver certificates would be issued against purchases of the metal only to the extent of the cost price, the shipments of gold served to diminish inflationary fears about the American dollar in foreign exchange quarters. Other foreign currency rates showed weakness.

Hint at Orthodox Policy.

The fact that the government appeared willing to allow gold to move freely out of New York, in the normal response to high premiums on foreign gold currencies, was interpreted in some quarters as an indication of orthodox policy on the part of the monetary authorities.

The daily gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed a gain of $70,700 through a net decrease of that amount in gold held under earmark for foreign account. There were no exports or imports.

London bar gold declined ½ pence to $35.27 an ounce, with purchases amounting to $3,455,239.

U. S. Treasury Officials Pull Levers to Steady Bond Mart

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The "public relations" work that always accompanies an administration announcement of further inflation was well under way yesterday, and it became evident that fears of immediate monetary collapse were subsiding.

The treasury was working all the levers to steady the situation. Reassuring statements were given out by Secretary Morgenthau to the effect that there was to be very little additional inflation in this silver move—just another trickle to help the boys out west. The treasury's market experts were pushing up bond prices by buying back the treasury's own bonds with treasury funds. And with adequate press agentry shipments of gold were permitted to leave the country.

Every effort was being made to convince the public that the "nationalization" of silver would help the silver producer and the debtor and not hurt the investor. There would be enough inflation to help the debtor, but not enough to injure the creditor.

Throughout the financial district the excitement that attended the President's "nationalization" of silver order was subsiding yesterday. Markets seemed to be settling back into their accustomed grooves, and the fears and hopes that inflation talk always stirs up had begun to expire.

Out of all the confusion of the last few days there have been several rather definite discoveries.

1. The "nationalization" of silver was not intended by the administration to be very inflationary. The amount of additional currency to be issued under this program will probably be very small in comparison to the total already outstanding—at least for the present.

2. Hopes for a swing to the right y the President were unfounded. Both in his speech at Green Bay and in his silver order the President definitly indicated that his course will continue to lie in the direction of "managed" currency, big government expenditures, unbalanced budgets, and more borrowing.

3. Every effort will be made during the next few weeks to persuade the public that more inflation is not in prospect, because the treasury must sell $1,700,000,000 of new bonds before Oct. 15 in order to pay off maturing issues.

The ups and downs of prices and fears incidental to the silver flurry, however, have not altered the longer term monetary prospects—one way or the other. The currency and the national credit depend on the balancing of the federal budget before the public becomes distrustful of government bonds.

"With the government credit supported by public confidence, adequate government securities can be issued to finance the administration's expenditures," says C. F. Childs, head of C. F. Childs & Co., in a bulletin issued yesterday. "Otherwise the alternative could be currency inflation, with a consequent chaotic reaction and still higher costs of living."

Mr. Childs, whose business is the sale of government bonds, in the past has frequently called attention to the dangers of governmental extravagance. In his latest bulletin he carefully avoids questioning administration policies and exhorts the banks and private investors to rally to the standard of government credit.

"Buy more bonds," he says, "and there will not be any currency inflation. The banks and public can do that, and should. It will be their fault and their loss if they do not. Eventually a return to real economy and a balanced budget must be substituted. A termination of experimental expenditures by the government is anxiously awaited."

The "Commercial and Financial Chronicle," leading financial weekly, takes a more definite stand against government financing in the red.

"If the Washington administration persists in pinning its faith to its ability to oblige banks to absorb its securities and to its program of 'rigging' the market for its obligations, refusing to alter its spending policies and proceeding in utter disregard of the dangers to which it is exposing itself, the ultimate outcome will be unoftrunate indeed," says this journal.

"The government can no more maintain indefinitly an artificial market for its securities than the manipulators of the New Era, which public officials have been so fond of condemning.

"It may or may not be true, as many believe, that it can do so for a good while to come. Failure in the end is in any case certain, with far reaching and disastrous results.

"If, on the other hand, the hesitation in the government bond market of the last week were to rouse the administration to the dangers of its present course, and to cause it to alter that course before further damage is done, the whole country would have good cause to be thankful for the weakness which has appeared there."

Four Get Memberships on Chicago Board of Trade

Four new members were elected to the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. They are Henry C. Merritt Jr., Thomas C. Parsons, partners of Graham & Co., New York, and Homer V. Boyd and Harry Troup of Chicago. Mr. Troup is a partner of Lamborn, Hutchings & Co.

GRAINS DECLINE AS SPECULATIVE FEVER SUBSIDES

Nervousness Rules Day's Activity.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Speculative fever in the grain markets subsided yesterday, with trading slowing up abruptly and prices fluctuating nervously. Traders were inclined to shy away from the market as a result of the shakeout which was experienced at the close of last week.

Strength in foreign markets encouraged buying here early in the day and wheat and corn sold above Monday's last quotations, but as the trading progressed a reaction set in and prices closed lower.

Wheat was around 2 cents a bushel lower at the close, with the September contract selling at $1.02⅝. Corn was a quarter of a cent off and the September delivery brought 75½ cents at the close.

Other Grains Irregular.

The price trend in other grains was irregular. The September delivery of oats advanced ¼ cent, but other contracts closed off slightly. Barley futures advanced ½ cent. Rye showed conspicuous strength. There is not enough rye in the country to cover needed requirements and importations will be necessary to make up the shortage. Argentine and Canada will be depended upon chiefly to supply our deficiency and neither country has a large amount to spare. A moderate accumulation of buying orders yesterday sent rye futures up a cent a bushel because of the scarcity of offerings.

The decline in wheat and corn came in the face of generally bullish character. Reports on the corn crop are growing worse, and although no estimates have been made since the government figures were issued there is general belief that the deterioration has been great.

Foreign Developments Bullish.

Foreign developments on wheat were bullish and were reflected in markets abroad. Liverpool wheat advanced a cent a bushel and in Rotterdam the price climbed 3 cents. The Argentine market was strong. Confirmation of the Germen decree allowing free importations of grains, coupled with unfavorable reports on the Russian wheat crop out of that

STOCKS RECEDE AS U. S. MOVES WORRY TRADERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 14.—Stocks drifted lower today in the quietest trading session in weeks. The treasury department's overnight attempt to clarify its silver purchase program, the mild setback in commodities and the market's failure to make any great capital out of the opportunities that have come its way in the last few days had a cooling effect on the revival of inflationary sentiment and set traders to lightening their commitments somewhat against the lingering uncertainties of the situation.

The selling was of a leisurely nature, however, with no evidence of particular pressure in any quarter. There was considerable profit taking, particularly in the silver and other so-called inflation shares prominent in yesterday's little upturn.

Losses Are Moderate.

Losses generally were confined to a point or so and the closing tables were plentifully sprinkled with modest plus signs. The turnover amounted to only about 531,000 shares.

Steel shares attracted more selling than the mill run of groups, being adversely affected by the fall in plant operations to a new low for the year and to weakness in scrap prices. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem finished about a point lower and lesser lights of the division ceded ground with the leaders.

Canning shares were less disposed to "celebrate" the food hoarding movement and the food issues generally made a rather sorry showing. In spite of official predictions of rising prices as a result of the drouth shortage, Armour shares gave up about all the ground they had won in the preceding session.

Trafic Reports Ignored.

Statistics showing a mixed trend in railroad trafic had little effect on the carrier shares. Union Pacific gave up a point of its 5 point gain of yesterday, and fractional losses were sustained by Atchison, Delaware and Hudson, and others.

The oils offered stout resistance to such offerings as came their way, in spite of the sharp increase in crude production for the week.

New York traction issues looked up rather smartly on revived reports that the city is planning to bid for the lines. Both Interborough Rapid Transit and Brooklyn-Manhattan rose the better part of 2 points.

Little effect one way or the other could be ascertained in the market movement as due to sentiment regarding the first official rulings of the securities and exchange commission.

TVA CHIEF WILL STUDY BRITAIN'S POWER SYSTEM

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—The New Deal is looking abroad for some fresh ideas for experimental use in its light and power business venture.

David E. Lilienthal, director, and Llewellyn M. Evans, chief electrical engineer of the Tennessee Valley authority, arrived here today en route to England. They announce that the trip is to make an extensive official study of the British grid system of linking up government and privately owned projects in the public utilities field. They are going to investigate the Irish Free State's new government power development in the Shannon River valley.

Director Lilienthal sees an analogy between both projects and the New Deal administration's Tennessee valley power experiment. He said his chief aim on the trip would be to obtain some new ideas for possible use in the "expansion" of the Tennessee Valley plan.

Knoxville Approves Deal.

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Knoxville city council today approved the purchase of the electrical properties of the Tennessee Public Service company, local power utility, by the Tennessee Valley authority. It agreed to take over the Knox county properties from the TVA for approximately $4,250,000. Other properties to be purchased by the TVA outside Knox county will total around $2,230,000.

BUTTER, EGG FUTURES AT HIGHEST PRICES, VOLUME

A heavy wave of buying came into the butter and egg markets on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday and swept futures to a new high for the season, with the volume of business swelled to a new record for the year. November butter sold up ¾ cent to 28¼ cents, the highest figure since November, 1931, and closed at the top. The appreciation was equal to $144 per car. October eggs gained ¾ cents, or $90 per car.

Bullish statistician reports with the government returns showing marked reductions in both butter and eggs in cold storage as compared with last year and the average of the last five years had a great deal to do with the advance.

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES CLOSE 12 TO 17 POINTS DOWN

Rumors of a bearish Indian cotton crop estimate and uneasiness over the prospective textile strike in this country started the market lower yesterday. Prices declined gradually until the close with the finish at the bottom with net losses of 12 to 17 points here and 12 to 16 points in other markets.

Sensational damage reports from Texas, where temperatures were the highest of the season, and reports the government would open bids on 70,500,000 yards of brown wide sheetings had little effect on the market. Spot cotton closed 10 to 15 points lower, with New Orleans, 13.30 cents; Galveston, 13.20 cents; Houston, 13.25 cents, and New York, 13.45 cents per pound. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 3.32c for spots. No sales were reported, but it was generally believed that this price would be paid for Cubas, but only in suitable positions, with holders asking slightly higher.

It was reported, however, that last Friday an outport refiner bought 31,500 bags of Porto Rican for prompt shipment at 3.20c, and an operator 22,500 bags of excess of Philippines for August-September shipment at 2.65c.

After recovering early losses of 2 to 4 points on increased covering and new speculative buying on reports that negotiations for the reciprocal trade treaty with Cuba would be concluded shortly, futures reacted again and closed net unchanged to 2 points lower. Sales were 24,600 tons. Prices:

PRICES OF LARD FUTURES HIGHEST SINCE JUNE, 1931

Soaring hog prices were fully reflected in cured product yesterday with all deliveries of lard and bellies selling at a new high for the season and since June, 1931. Lard closed with net gains of 20 to 32½ cents and bellies were up 50 cents, the latter being the limit for one day's advance under the exchange regulations.

Commission houses were persistent buyers of lard and found offerings rather light at times. Stocks of lard in cold storage in the country on Aug. 1 as reported by the bureau of agricultural economics were 210 million pounds, or 15 million pounds in excess of July 1, and compared with 219 million pounds last year. Liverpool lard gained 6d to 1s 6d for the day. Spot lard closed at $8.27; loose at $7.65; leaf at $7.62, and bellies at $11.55. Prices follow:

New York, Aug. 14.—The listed bond market enjoyed a fairly broad recovery today under the leadership of United States government issues, which rallied 1-32d to 20-32ds point with the single exception of the Liberty 3½s, which remained unchanged. The government guaranteed issues, a particularly weak spot in the market for several days, came back into favor with federal farm mortgage 3¼s gaining nearly ⅝ of a point to finish close to 100½.

The undertone of the market was better than at any time since the break occurred last Thursday afternoon although prices are still below the levels which prevailed recently. Selling was noticeably less insistent on the advance, the turnover amounting to $12,988,000 against $17,186,000 on the previous day, with the turnover in government issues $5,667,000 against $9,957,000.

Gold Action Aids Market.

Brokers reported the sudden reversal in sentiment to be due partly to the technical condition of the market after three sessions of constantly dipping values. They also said they were of the opinion that the action of the Federal Reserve bank in releasing gold for export to Paris, thereby carrying out the promise of the treasury department to allow the free international flow of gold, was a powerful stimulant to the market.

Brisk rallies occurred in various sections of the domestic corporation list with speculative railroad bonds generally claiming the major gains, which ranged up to more than 3 points. Utilities followed the rails, with industrials next in order in the advance. Issues making the best gains included Baltimore & Ohio rg. 6s, up 3 points; C. & O. 4½s of 1995, up 2¼; New York Central general 3½s, up 2½, and Union Pacific 4½s, up 2½.

Foreign Bonds Firmer.

Foreign loans were quietly dealt in, pointing slightly higher. French government 7s mounted 2⅛ to a new record high at 188½, while the 7½s remained unchanged at the same level. German loans were irregularly easier. United Kingdom and Italian issues were firm. Latin American bonds showed minor irregularities.

In the over-the-counter market, municipal bonds which had been easier in tone if not in prices during the last few days, firmed up appreciably today. Long term New York City 4¼s recovered to par in brisk trading with the gains for the city's bonds for the day ranging from 1 to 1¾ points.

Minnesota Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: Please advise me on Minnesota P. & L. 4½s, '78. Thank you.—B. L. A.

Answer: Minnesota Power and Light company is controled by American Power and Light company. It operates in the iron and steel regions in Minnesota and Wisconsin, furnishing electricity to 98 communities, including Duluth, Superior, Hibbing and Ely.

Charges in the twelve months to May 31, 1934, were covered 1.52 times, against 1.55 times in the preceding twelve months. This drop was in the face of an increase in operating revenues.

In 1933 operating revenues were $4,871,000, against $5,179,000 in 1932 and $6,258,000 in 1931. Charges in 1933 were covered 1½ times, against 1.70 times in 1932, 2.11 times in 1931 and 2.22 times in 1930.

Current position at the close of 1933 was fair.

The $28,700,000 4½s, due 1978, and 5s, due 1955, are secured by a first mortgage on all assets of the company subject to a $6,773,000 prior lien. They are a business man's investment.

Inland Utilities.

Investors' Guide: I read your column daily and, noticing with favor to what lengths your comments go, I present the following question: What is the present status of Inland Utilities, Inc.? In 1929 I purchased 10 shares of class A common at $24.75 per share. I have received little or no information from the issuing firm. Whom should I deal with to learn about the company?—S. M. A.

Answer: Inland Utilities, Inc., merged with Southeastern Gas and Water company in July, 1931. Holders of the class A stock are entitled to receive one share of class A stock and one share of common of Southeastern Gas and Water company for each old share held.

We suggest you get in touch with the company to effect the transfer. Its address is 15 Exchange place, Jersey City, N. J.

Called Bonds.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly tell me what bonds of Peoples Gas Light and Coke company have been called? Are they the 4s, series B, due July 1, 1981?—S. E.

Answer: No; the 4s, due 1981, have not been called by Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. In April, 1934, the company did call $1,000,000 of 4½ per cent serial notes, due Feb. 1, 1935. The redemption date was May 15, 1934, and the redemption price 100¼.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable in the early trading today established new high levels for the year as a result of the sharp advance in lard and hogs and the firmness of grains and the steadier trend to cotton. Later the market declined, closing 2 points higher to 1 point net lower on the belief that the technical position had been weakened by the upturn. Total sales were 236 contracts, the largest in some time. Bleachable spot nominal: September closed 6.82c; October, 6.87c; December, 7.06c; January, 7.09c; March, 7.26c.

Weakness here in the face of foreign strength emphasized the nervousness created here by Saturday's sharp set back. Another factor of importance in discouraging aggressive buying, however, is the uncertainty felt over the government's attitude.

The recent announcement that the government is making a survey of the food situation at least holds the possibility that the exchanges may again become political scapegoats if prices advance sharply, in the opinion of many brokers. Large scale speculation has been discouraged and few traders are willing to risk getting in bad with the administration.

Nebraska Corn Crop Cut 75%.

A bird's eye view of what has happened to crops in the drouth stricken areas was given yesterday in the government report on Nebraska. The figures on corn alone give a quick picture. The state this year will produce a crop of 51,318,000 bushels if present indications are borne out. Last year more than four times as many bushels or a total of 230,002,000 was grown.

Oats were almost a complete failure with an indicated crop of 8,682,000 bushels compared with last year's 23,373,000 and the 1932 crop of 74,190,000. In other words the state this year will produce an oats crop which will yield about 11 per cent of the harvest two years ago. A vast amount of rye and oats acreages will not even be harvested, the bulletin declares. Wheat will aggregate about 14,000,000 bushels, approximately 26,000,000 bushels last year.

In some sections of the state such as the central and south central areas the corn has been completely burned by drouth and has fallen to the ground. Only scattered localities and the extreme southwestern part of the state have a chance for a partial crop.

GERMANY LIFTS TARIF ON WHEAT, OTHER GRAINS

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Prohibitive tarifs on grain imports have been abolished in Germany by a decree effective today, in what is regarded as preparation to compensate for the crop shortages caused by drouth. The decree provides that wheat, spelt, barley, and oats will be admitted duty free, but subject at all times to permission and regulation by the agricultural ministry.

The extent to which imports will be permitted is to be dependent upon final reports on the domestic harvest. Reliable but unofficial sources indicated that Germany may find it necessary to purchase between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 tons of assorted grains at an estimated cost of 500,000,000 marks. Such purchases, among which feed grains would be especially important, will be made through direct barter, in view of the lack of foreign exchange.

Grain imports heretofore have been effectively checked by the tarif, which amounted to 25 marks on a double hundredweight of wheat; rye and barley, 20 marks, and oats, 16.

MUNICIPAL BOND NOTES

R. H. Moulton & Co. purchased $429,000 of San Francisco water bonds maturing from 1939 to 1971 and bearing 5, 4½ and 4 per cent coupons. The price paid was based on an interest cost of 4.1096 per cent. Halsey, Stuart & Co. made the second highest bid, with an offer based on an interest cost of 4.1741 per cent. The bonds are being reoffered at prices to yield from 3.50 to 4.10 per cent.

Dealers reported a somewhat better feeling in the market yesterday. It was stated that there was a renewed interest in short term high grade bonds. However, second grade bonds were reported as weak and spotty. One dealer said it is still hard to get buyer and seller together, although the buyers are evincing more interest in the market.

E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc., yesterday purchased $210,000 of Wilkes-barre, Pa., serial 4 per cent bonds, maturing from 1939 to 1960, for 104.616. Halsey, Stuart & Co. was second bidder, with an offer of 105.516. The bonds were reoffered in the eastern market at prices to yield 3.50 per cent.

An issue of $75,000 of Keokuk, Ia., school district bonds was purchased by Carleton D. Beh & Co. for 101.04 as 3¾s. Halsey, Stuart & Co. was second high bidder.

Further details on the issue of $1,520,000 city of Phoenix, Ariz., improvement bonds scheduled for award on Sept. 4 have been announced. The issue will carry a 4 per cent coupon and will mature serially from July 2, 1939 to 1963.

Tarrant county, Tex., of which Fort Worth is the county seat, has scheduled a new issue of $780,000 of road 4½ per cent bonds for award on Aug. 20. The issue will be payable serially from Oct. 10, 1935 to 1960.

A new issue of $140,727 city of Kingsport, Tenn., various improvement bonds has been scheduled for sale on Sept. 4. The issue will mature variously from March 1 and Sept. 1, 1935 to 1954, with the interest rate to be stipulated by the bidders at not to exceed 6 per cent.

Emmett Whealan, president of the board of forest preserve commissioners, yesterday instructed the controler of the district to pay $468,000 principal on forest preserve bonds in series A to P, inclusive. Payment will be made today at the First National bank of Chicago.

ESTIMATE CORN CROP FAR UNDER NEEDS OF NATION

Expected to Be Billion Bushels Under Normal.

With little export business done in corn, domestic consumption over a period of years takes care of all the corn produced in the country. That a real shortage of the grain will materialize this year is now a real prospect. The indicated crop of 1,607,000,000 bushels will run nearly a billion bushels below what is considered a normal crop.

Claims have been made that the reduction in live stock will go a long way to offset the short crop. H. C. Donovan, crop expert for Thompson & McKinnon, has prepared figures to refute these claims. Making liberal allowance for the reduction in the number of hogs, cattle, horses and mules he finds that ordinary requirements of corn will total 2,150,000,000 bushels, more than a half billion in excess of the available supply. The figures are based on the assumption that no corn will be exported and that the carryover on July 1, 1935, will be equal to the carryover on the same day this year.

News on the corn crop continues to be almost uniformly pessimistic. This is reflected in the action of the market where corn frequently provides the leadership and overshadows wheat.

A message yesterday from Springfield, Ill., to Lamson Brothers said that the corn in that vicinity shows "almost unbelievable deterioration." There will be practically no merchantable corn unless the few fields planted in June should come to maturity without serious injury, the message added.

Around Burlington, Ia., the crop has gone back in the last week and it is reported that 75 per cent of the stalks on the uplands are dead. The husks are dry, with ears in poor to fair condition. Some are fairly solid and others are dented.

In northwestern Nebraska the crop is estimated at an 80 to 90 per cent failure. Alfalfa hay is selling from $15 to $20 a ton and pigs of less than 50 pounds are bringing 17 to 18 cents a pound, according to report to Bartlett, Frazier & Co. A few stations in the district have a little corn and sometimes enough to meet requirements of the locality, but no stations indicate that they will have any to ship out.

Confirmation was received yesterday that Germany will import all grains duty free. At the same time, however, the French government decides to subsidize wheat exports again this season.

Russia is the great enigma of the world wheat situation. In making calculations Russia is usually excluded because of the difficulty of obtaining reliable information. Broomhall, foreign crop agency, reported yesterday, however, that it is officially stated only half a crop will be realized in the Ukraine this year. The government says the Volga valley crop is good, but Broomhall discounts this by stating that private reports have stressed the unfavorable conditions existing in that region.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Sales of 38½ inch 64x60s were made today at 7 cents in good quantities for delivery in August-September. Other constructions were quiet. Ginghams and tickings tended higher. Rayon fabrics for fall were in moderate demand. Silks ruled quiet. Wool goods sold in small lots for quick cutting. Burlaps held steady, moderate sales for futures delivery being reported.

HIDE FUTURES.

A liberal business was again transacted in hide futures with the close 5 points higher to 15 points lower. Sales aggregated 112 lots or 4,480,000 lbs. COAL CONCERNS PLAN BIG DRIVE FOR FUEL TRADE

Agency of Southern Firms Launches Campaign.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Appalachian Coals, Inc., giant sales agency of the south central bituminous coal field, threw all its resources today into a finish fight against competing fuels.

The drive, an intensive sales campaign, is intended to block the inroads of natural gas, oil, and electricity, in industrial power plants especially. It is intended as well to seek to overcome a freight rate advantage the organization contends is held by northern fields.

The sales campaign, outlined by B. R. Gebhart, assistant to C. B. Huntress, president of the agency, is manifold.

Plan Wide Activities.

A trade magazine intended for circulation among 30,000 industrial coal consumers and retail merchants made its first appearance at today's second annual sales meeting of the organization. Mechanism of coördinated market research and consumer aid is being set up. Mail and personal contacts are included, together with meetings of coal dealers in various territories in efforts to help them improve business.

"We are up against changed differentials, changed conditions, and we are meeting the challenge of the new order," Huntress said, "knowing that no order is permanent and that differentials of all sorts, wage and freight rates, change. In our case the change will not be to our disadvantage.

Compete with Other Fuels.

"We are going to see that there is a market in which salesmen can sell. By every sound method, backed by our power of collective action and financial strength, we will drive a widening wedge in every market, against competitive fuels. That wedge must be driven. Survive we shall."

Formed two years ago, Appalachian Coals, Inc., controls the output of approximately 70 per cent of the Appalachian field of Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, and Tennessee. Its member mines last year produced 43,000,000 tons of coal, a sixth of the nation's bituminous coal output, though its potential production is 80,000,000 tons a year. Its activities give employment, officers said, to 60,000 miners and 30,000 railroad men.

DETROIT BANK DEPOSITORS TOLD U. S. LOAN STAND

Subordination of Large Accounts Sought.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—In conformity with the plan to subordinate $7,200,000 in deposits of the First National Bank-Detroit before a new loan of $91,000,000 is made by the RFC, large depositors or their representatives met with William J. McAneeny, chairman of the depositors' committee here today.

The meeting was held behind closed doors. McAneeny, however, issued the following statement:

"At our meeting today we were able to outline the program of federal authorities as to the prospective dividend of 20 per cent and the possible pay off in full of 567,342 depositors with accounts of $300 and under.

U. S. Policy Explained.

"Representatives of the larger depositors are now in a position to inform their several boards of directors as to the requirement of the government, thus enabling these boards to determine the policy they wish to pursue.

"Should these large depositors decide to assign the required portion of their dividend in favor of the small depositors, our committee, with such assurance, will immediately notify the proper authorities in Washington that we are ready to go forward and attempt to secure the necessary assignments totaling $7,200,000. This will necessitate the contacting of 1,100 accounts which are classified as the larger group."

Depositors who had $25,000 or over at the time the bank closed are classified as large depositors, McAneeny said.

Confer in Washington.

McAneeny and William F. Connolly spent Monday in Washington conferring with Gibbs Lyons, deputy controler. They were told the subordination condition made by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC at the time he announced the $91,000,000 loan, was satisfactory.

The money was ready any time the controler asked for it, Jones said, and when the necessary $7,200,000 assignment has been made.

MEN

TRUTH IS STRANGER THAN FICTION. HAVE YOU EVER HEARD OF A COMPANY STARTING A MAN IN BUSINESS. IF YOU ARE AMBITIOUS TO HAVE A BUSINESS OF YOUR OWN THAT IS PAYING MEN FROM $35 TO ABOVE $100 A WEEK, WITHOUT ONE CENT OF THEIR MONEY INVESTED, READ THIS SHORT STORY.

Here in Chicago we started a young man 27 years old and in his first two weeks, he earned over $200 comm. and prior to his investigation of our business, he had been unemployed for seven months, mentally discouraged and absolutely broke. Since joining this company he has predicted that his business will increase and that his earnings will exceed $600 a month.

Would you like that kind of an income. Is a $100 a week job worth two hours of your time for investigation Wednesday?

Here is some startling evidence. Another man with us five years, earned one week $161.47. This man was a contractor before joining this company, which manufacturers electrical hygiene units, electric mixers, air-conditioning, etc. That kind of money must interest good men, however, don't be misled. This is not a 3 hour a day job. We work hard and some of our men only earn from $25 to $50 a week.

Our expansion program in Chicago and the middle west demands more dealer representation and also sales executives.

Every word in this ad we expect to prove to you Wednesday. Call at 75 E. Wacker-dr., Rm. 1009, at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. No interviews at any other time.
